Last Of Hunted Young Brothers Gives Up To Houston Police

EMPEROR IS BOMBED

Young Gives Up To Texas Police Ending Search

CLIMAXES SEARCH SINCE POLICE KILLING

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 8.—Paul Young, widely sought brother of Harry and Jennings Young, notorious slayers of six Missouri peace officers, surrendered to police here today.

Young was accompanied by an attorney when he nonchalantly walked into police headquarters and gave himself up.

Authorities did not immediately decide on what charge to hold Young.

Climaxes Search

Young's surrender climaxed a search since the brutal massacre of six police officers at the Young farm near Springfield, Mo., last Saturday following which Harry and Jennings fled to Houston and shot and killed themselves Tuesday when trapped by police.

It is not definitely known whether Paul Young participated in the bloody slaughter of the six peace officers.

The fact that Young surrendered voluntarily and engaged an attorney led police to believe he would deny complicity in the killings and seek immediate release.

Young submitted to a preliminary questioning by detectives in the presence of his attorney. It was not disclosed whether any information connecting him with the killings was obtained.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Early risers, upon glancing out this morning, thought there might be snow on the ground, but it turned out to be a heavy coating of frost.

Pa Newc notices a number of holes or dips in streets and alleys about the city, which could be repaired to give men employment. If the city could borrow the machinery of the state highway department which was used to smooth the surface of Washington street, this work could be done at a comparatively small cost, it is believed. However, that would probably be impossible.

Five United States army airplanes soared over the New Castle district yesterday morning. The theory is advanced by local army officers that the planes were probably part of the searchers for the two women fliers who were later found dead at Newville, Pa.

At least some of the roads these days are muddy. Young Pa happened to glance at the rural carriers' cars at the postoffice this morning, and from the looks they bore one wouldn't say they weren't muddy.

And how the men watch for these stag affairs—that is, they watch that their wife is not mistakenly invited on occasions like this. One prominent New Castle businessman told Pa Newc yesterday he once took his wife unthinkingly to such an affair. However, they sensed their mistake before entering the hall and thus escaped explaining.

Both the Shenango river and Neshannock creek were still high to-

WAY NOW CLEARED FOR TAKING POSTOFFICE BIDS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The way was cleared today for an early call for bids for the new post office at New Castle, Pa., Rep. Swick (R) of Pennsylvania, announced after a conference with treasury officials.

All proposals for acquisition of the site and preliminary plans and drawings were approved by public buildings officials, he said.

"Erection of the building on the Diamond site is definitely assured," said Swick. "All lease holds and sub-leases have been brushed aside.

Call For Bids Soon.

"All proposals regarding the size are in and the preliminary plans and drawings of Eckles and Co., the architects, were approved. It looks as if there can now be a call for bids soon.

"The Clark property has been bought outright by the government with a provision that Mrs. Clark shall be allowed to remain in her home indefinitely."

Eventually the Clark property will become a grass plot to embellish the post office grounds, under the plans.

Father Cox Says March Was Success

Pittsburgh Priest Leads Big Army Of Unemployed Back To Pittsburgh

Hope That Impression Was Made On Congress To Speed Up Needed Relief

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8.—Weary and footsore, many exhausted by lack of sleep, the last remnants of "Father Cox's Jobless Army" arrived in Pittsburgh today buoyed up by the declaration of the militant Catholic priest who led them to Washington that their march was a "glorious success."

While hundreds of the marchers at once sought places to sleep, plans went forward for a huge public reception to be staged at the Pitt Stadium for Rev. James R. Cox and his 12,000 followers who demanded of congress immediate unemployment relief. Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Mayor Charles H. Kline and scores of prominent city and state officials have been invited to attend.

Start For Homes

The unemployment legions made a brief stop at Uniontown this morning as they sped homeward. Rev. Cox abandoned plans to stage a demonstration at Fort Necessity there because of the wearied condition of the men. Several thousand marchers who spent the night here were given the signal to start for their homes.

Rev. Cox, himself showing signs of weariness and loss of sleep, told his followers he believed the march would "accomplish something."

"I think you will soon see some action by congress," he old the men. "We made them realize that to go on ignoring pleas for relief was playing with fire.

"Our real purpose was accomplished. It was to show the people of this great nation that man can point out to our government officials their real duty when they have failed to see it."

Marchers in the vanguard who returned here in the darkness of early morning were jubilant at their reception in Washington.

They were enthused with their

Wide Area Of Mississippi Is Flooded

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 8.—Released through a huge gap in a levee, flood waters of the Tallahatchee river raged over a wide area in Mississippi today, spreading desolation and possible death.

Thousands of residents of the rich delta county were driven from their homes by the new onrush of the rising river. Some 50,000 acres of fertile farm land was under a vast sheet of water.

It was estimated that some 5,000 persons have been rendered homeless in the last 24 hours.

The new onrush of waters came with a sudden break in a levee on the eastern bank of the Tallahatchee river near Swan Lake, Miss. The town of Philip, Miss., was in the direct path of the deluge and only the tree tops and housetops protruded from the surface of the water. Concentration camps for refugees have been set up in high places near the towns of Webb, Glendora and Sumner.

Predict Passage Of Hoover Plan To Aid Country

President Hopes To Bring Back Prosperity With $2,000,000,000 Fund

MAJOR STUMBLING BLOCK IS REMOVED

Expect Heated Battle In Senate Before Plan Is Given Final Approval

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Hoover plan for speeding return of national prosperity by creation of a $2,000,000,000 governmental credit corporation ran into stiff opposition in the Senate today, although assured of ultimate passage.

One major stumbling block was removed when Senator Walcott (R) of Connecticut, its author, agreed to eliminate a provision from the bill, which would have made a $1,500,000,000 issue of "reconstruction bonds" exempt from all taxation.

Some Provisions Opposed

There was opposition as well to a provision, permitting loans to "bonafide financial institutions" because of its ambiguity. When administration leaders failed to give a satisfactory explanation of what institutions would be included under this term, Senator LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin, moved to strike it from the bill.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon led a fight against another provision, permitting loans to "any closed bank whose assets are adequate to permit restoration of solvency." He insisted aid for closed banks should be provided in a separate bill but Walcott declared he would retain the provision.

A real battle will be fought over the Smith amendment, proposing a $200,000,000 appropriation for direct federal relief of the unemployed. It may be rejected but it will provoke considerable debate, since opponents of the bill will insist upon aid for the starving or jobless.

Mechanical Department Employes Of Eastern Railroad Agree To Cut

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8.—Announcement was made today by the New York, New Haven-Hartford railroad that 4,500 men in the mechanical department have voluntarily agreed to a ten per cent cut in wages, effective January 15.

The announcement stated that the men had given the subject much thought and had decided that it was to their own best interests as well as those of the road to take such action.

Stimson Renews 'Open Door' Policy To Defend Rights

United States To Defend Commercial Treaty Rights In Manchuria

SENDS NOTES TO CHINA AND JAPAN

Similar Action Is Likely By Other Nations It Is Now Expected

By HOBART C. MONTEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Secretary of State Stimson today reached down into the bag of foreign policies stocked by his predecessors and drew forth John Hay's "open door" declaration for China to halt Japanese military aggression in Manchuria.

In doing so Stimson declared a notable change of policy toward the Sino-Japanese crisis in Manchuria by this country and other nations which hitherto have expressed concern over the international tinderbox which is Manchuria. He announced the United States had embarked upon a policy of defending its commercial treaty rights in China, and intimated that other nations had decided to do likewise.

Have Certain Rights.

France already has instructed her ambassador at Tokyo to call the attention of the Japanese government to certain rights guaranteed French citizens resident in China by a treaty signed by France and Japan in 1907.

By identic notes sent the Japanese and Chinese governments Stimson formally invoked the nine power pact, signed in Washington in 1922 by the United States, Japan, China, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Portugal. This treaty guaranteed the territorial and political integrity of China, and provided for maintenance of the "open door" policy in Manchuria. This policy is one declaring for equal commercial, economic rights for all in China.

Invocation of the terms of the nine power pact has as its declared object maintenance of Chinese political and economical sovereignty over Manchuria, and protection of American financial rights in that field. Similar action by other powers signatory to this pact will be for the specific purpose of safeguarding their commercial rights.

Other Nations Act.

Stimson made it plain the United States had taken this action on its own responsibility, but this govern-

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8.—Inseparable companions of the air in their adventurous youth, the two latest victims of the "devil's graveyard" in the Pennsylvania mountains were separated on land by death today as funeral arrangements went forward for Mrs. Ruth Stewart, St. Louis society Matron, and Mrs. Debbie Stanford, flying enthusiast of Toronto, Ont.

Bodies of both women, recovered from the wreckage of their monoplane on the rugged western slope of Bowers mountain, were turned over to a local mortuary by state police who convoyed the bodies here.

Mrs. Stewart's body was to be taken to St. Louis today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs William Woerner, while that of Mrs. Stanford was to

FOUR-PARTY RAIL PLAN IS OUTLINED

Chesapeake And Ohio-Nickel Plate Would Operate 14,630 Miles Of Line

President Bernet Says System Would Have Four Main Tracks

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — The Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate system as proposed in the four-party plan of consolidating Eastern railroads would operate 14,630 miles of railroad, including proposed trackage rights, new construction and other roads allocated to it, President J. J. Bernet told the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

The commission is conducting hearings on the petition of the four principal Eastern trunk lines to amend its original consolidation plan to provide for grouping Eastern roads into four systems to be known as Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central.

Four Main Tracks

Bernet said his system would have a minimum of four main tracks and a maximum of eight tracks between New York and Buffalo, not including tracks of the Lackawanna, which it would have no right to use between Pittston Junction and Hoboken.

Between the extremists of Lake Erie, the Erie, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette and Wheeling & Lake Erie would be substantially equivalent to a four-track road. West of Toledo and Detroit, the Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette would have four main tracks to Chicago.

In addition to this main stem between New York and Chicago, it would have the main line of the Chesapeake & Ohio between Hampton Roads and Chicago and Toledo, including a continuous double track road from West Virginia and Kentucky coal fields to both Chicago and Toledo.

Serve Many Ports

Bernet said the system would serve the North Atlantic ports of New York and Hampton Roads; the Lake Erie ports of Buffalo, Cleveland, Lorain, Huron, Sandusky and Toledo; the Ohio River crossings at Cincinnati, Louisville and Evansville; and the Mississippi River crossings at St. Louis and Thebes.

It would also serve the Western gateways at Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis and the New England gateways at Mechanicville, Maybrook and Halem River.

"The proposed system," said Bernet, "would reach and serve 60 out of a total of 87 cities having a population of 50,000 or more in Eastern territory, excluding New England.

"It would originate between 60,000,000 an 70,000,000 tons of bituminous coal and between 16,000,000 and 18,000,000 tons of anthracite, depending upon business conditions, and it would terminate on its own rails about 50,000,000 tons of bituminous and 14,000,000 tons of anthracite."

Over Half Of Mayor's Fund Now Expended

Expenditures Are Beginning To Mount Daily With Increased Demands

MANY CONTRIBUTORS HAVE BEEN FAITHFUL

While contributions today brought the amount of money contributed to the Mayor's Relief Fund so far to the $6,435.67 mark, over half of this money has already been expended, it was revealed today and the demands for assistance have increased materially in the last week.

During December, an average of 42 plus were given baskets each day in addition to clothing and shoes. Today, it was learned, the number working at Gaston Park, and on other projects is 105. Some of these are new men, who have never been out before.

The peak number given baskets so far in January was 81 on January 2, but the distribution office was not open on New Year's Day On one of the days earlier in the week, 57 were assisted, but today's total is expected to be the heaviest yet this week.

Busy Place

A visit to the Carnegie Auditorium this morning showed it to be an extremely busy place, as a group of men were making up the food baskets to be given out, while others were handing out the baskets to the applicants. Twenty-four had been handed out by ten o'clock, and it was expected that by evening, the number for any previous day would be exceeded.

Warren Broadbent, who is in charge of the distribution, stated this morning that arrangements are being made to give out the sauer kraut, which was made last fall and turned over to the Mayor's committee. There are a number of barrels of kraut at the auditorium and this will be distributed to those who are on the list for assistance provided they bring a container to take it home with.

The finance committee believes that many people are refraining from giving their contributions because they feel that the total amount contributed has been the balance left in the treasury after the bills have been paid. This is not the case however, and with the number of bills outstanding at the present time, together with goods ordered, the treasury will soon be depleted.

Bomb Is Thrown, Japanese Ruler Has Narrow Call

YOUNG RULER IS EXTREMELY CALM

(BULLETIN)
By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Jan. 8.—The Seiyukai party cabinet resigned today a few hours after an attempt was made upon the life of Emperor Hirohito.

The resignation conformed to the usual Japanese custom following an attempt to assassinate the ruler.

The emperor was not harmed in the assassination plot. A bomb was hurled at him as he was riding in the imperial coach during a public parade and exploded when it struck in front of his carriage.

A 32-year-old Korean was arrested almost immediately after the explosion and charged with the assassination attempt. The man, named Rihosho, carried a second bomb in his pocket, it was discovered when police and guardsmen pounced upon him and hustled him out of the crowd.

Emperor is Calm.

A few hours later Premier Takeshi Inukai proceeded to the imperial palace. He found the young emperor unusually calm after the harrowing experience, in which he nearly lost his life.

A short while later an extraordinary session of the cabinet was called which culminated in its resignation.

Police had considerable difficulty dragging the world-be assassin from the crowd of outraged citizens who surrounded him. The spot of the bombing, however, was finally cleared, and a police cordon thrown around it.

Round Up Radicals.

A thorough round-up of known radicals was begun immediately, in the belief Rihosho may have acted in concert with a gang of plotters.

Authorities made no attempt to disguise the seriousness with which they viewed the assassination attempt, and clamped down a strict censorship on the domestic press.

Scene of the attempted assassination, just outside the Sakaradamon, or Cherry Field gate, is exactly the same spot where the famous Prince Li, prime minister during the reign of the Shogun Iyemochi Tokugawa, was killed in 1860.

Can't Measure Worth Of Jameson Hospital In Dollars And Cents

James M. Smith, president of the Shenango Pottery Company is interested in something more than making fine chinaware. One of the many things in New Castle in which he believes thoroughly is the Jameson Memorial Hospital. Not so much from a sentimental viewpoint as from the actual worth of the institution to this community. Commenting upon the hospital and its needs he said:

"From the point of capital expense and from the standpoint of the value of the product it turns out, hospitals rank among the really large industries of America today. Here in New Castle we have a hospital that ranks with the best in America, a hospital efficiently equipped, capably manned, ready twenty-four hours of the day to serve us."

"We cannot measure the product of a good hospital in dollars and cents. How much a human life is worth is something we have not yet reduced to cold financial calculations. How much human happiness is worth cannot be measured by any yard stick of the business world."

"There is a way in which we can express our appreciation of the work of the Jameson Memorial hospital in a tangible, practical way and that is to aid in lifting the load of debt which at present looms as the possible key that will close the doors of this splendid institution. That way is for everyone to share in this community responsibility, to give according to his own abilities, to give a little of what we think this hospital is worth."

"New Castle cannot afford to see the Jameson Memorial hospital close its doors. Such a thing is unthinkable. It cannot and must not happen. Sixty thousand dollars is a sizable sum of money, considered by itself, but placed over against the health and happiness of this entire community it loses some of its size and becomes just an obstacle which must be removed."

Arthur Mometer

These are mornings sharp and brisky when it is considered risky, to get kittenish and frisky as you wend your weary way. When you doff your last year's benny, that's providing you have any, and most people haven't many, for the weather's bright and gay. And the sucker bright and snappy, makes the undertaker happy, with his winter antics sappy when he leaves his coat at home, for the flu in all its glory, makes him sniffle, sad and sorry, causing folks at home to worry when he makes his mind to roam. Wear your overcoat and woolens, don't get silly and get foolin' with the winds that whistle sharply through the brambles and the hay, take a tip from one who got it, wore no coat said he forgot it, needed cold cure so he bought it, weather's forty one today.

Large Number Out As County's Scout Council Assembles

Boy Scouts' Official Body Hears Year's Reports; Round Honored

Setting out for another year during which it will drive to surpass already-matched objectives, the Lawrence County Council, Boy Scouts of America, last night held its annual membership meeting in the men's classroom at the Highland U. P. Church, Park and Highland avenues. The council chose new leaders for the year.

Growth Predicted

Scout Executive Herbert G. Horton, briefly reporting the general activities of the past year, spoke optimistically of Scoutdom's future. Said he:

Passing thru a period of economic readjustment more pronounced than anything experienced since the World war, this council has nevertheless come through the past year with credit to itself. Our council index has raised nearly 200 points over the first of the year. On the first day we had 466 scouts and during the year just finished, we have a net gain of 136 scouts. Our total as of December 31 totals 602 boys.

He touched every phase of the county-wide program, calling upon council committee chairmen to enlarge upon their own activities in the committee reports later.

Round Is President

Featuring the session, one of the largest annual meetings to be held, was the election of Louis B. Round, Pennsylvania Power company official, as president of the council for 1932. A nominating committee is notifying Mr. Round of his selection this afternoon.

Others named were Vice Presidents Walter Braham, the Rev. G. S. Bennett and C. P. Coak, Ellwood City; treasurer, Frank Fischer; recording secretary, A. W. Chilton; scout executive, Herbert Horton; and Scout Commissioner, Ralph Davis. A number of deputies and members-at-large were also chosen and approved.

Presiding last night was the Rev. Bennett, active in council affairs. He took the place of retiring President Dr. C. J. Williamson. Williamson was unable to attend the entire meeting.

Before adjourning last night, all of the council's 1931 business had been reported and plans for 1932 approved.

Men's Bible Class Has Business Meet

Plans Are Discussed For Many Activities Both In The Near And Far Future

The Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church of which Ralph S. Reed is president, met for the monthly business session Thursday evening in the church parlors.

Many plans were discussed for coming activities, including the depression supper the men will enjoy Wednesday, Jan. 13, beginning at 5:03; the ladies' night, which will be held some time in February, and other events of future dates.

Rev. C. Warren Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church, was the guest speaker of the evening, and addressed the men on timely events.

When the business of the evening was over the men went to the kitchen, where a large pan of grease was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gordon and Mrs. Ralph S. Reed, and as the hot doughnuts were taken from the fire the men sugared them, and whether any of them were "dunked" in the coffee no one will say, but dozens of them disappeared, washed down by delicious coffee.

day. The high stages will wash out old refuse which backed up along the banks during the low stage.

New Castle will await with interest the return of the local architect responsible for the city's postoffice plans, at Washington this week to iron out minor details with architects of the postoffice department. When he arrives here, the definite start on working plans will be made.

Crashing red lights meant nothing to about four young lady passengers in a sedan going up East Washington street yesterday. The laughing driver utterly disregarded the red light at Croton and Washington.

Commendable work is being done by the unemployed who are aiding the plans of the mayor's relief committee. The latest task being accomplished is improving of Gaston Park, a 30 acre tract owned by the city on the East Side. This tract, which was purchased by the city fifteen or twenty years ago, has never been greatly improved, because of the cost of the undertaking. With the present situation however, in which needy are working for aid extended, this park is being put in fine condition. The warm weather of the winter, and lack of snow have allowed splendid progress to be made.

Pa Newc is informed by a Pulaski road resident that there were several bolts of lightning during the rainstorm on Wednesday evening. Sign of colder weather he said.

Suggestion that the county physician devote his entire time to the duties of his office, as suggested through The News yesterday is one that will bear serious thought. Also the idea of making greater use of the hospital at the county home.

Why some of the traffic lights on streets here have to burn until midnight, is rather a puzzle to Pa Newc.

Pomona Grangers in all of their meetings of late have certainly plainly indicated their sentiment on the matter of cutting salaries of public officials.

The red tin cans, minus the Christmas trees, can be seen lined up along Washington street. To anyone who did not know about the trees the presence of the cans would be quite the puzzle.

Just prior to the incident, the emperor had attended the annual military review at the Yoyogi parade grounds. Ten thousand troops participated under command of General Jotaro Watanabe and Prince Chinchibu, brother of the emperor, who commanded the third infantry regiment.

Fifty-four airplanes droned overhead during the manoeuvres. More than 50,000 spectators, including foreign diplomats, military attaches, members of the supreme military council and the cabinet attended.

Shortly after Premier Inukai had called upon the emperor to submit his resignation, Prince Yi, heir to the defunct Korean empire, called at the palace.

Vets Auxiliary Visited By Heads Of Organization

National And State Presidents Attend Meeting Here Last Evening

Last night's meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was one of the most interesting held in some time, the occasion being the visit of state and national officers.

Past National President Margaret Armstrong of Pittsburgh was the principal speaker of the evening. She complimented the Auxiliary on their activity and remarked that the local Auxiliary is the largest and one of the finest in the state of Pennsylvania.

Other speakers included National Pianist, Mrs. Myrtle Sutherland of Pittsburgh; State President, Ida May Stanford of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Adah Auen of Altoona and Mrs. Mary Fredericks of Millvale, members of the council of administration from the state, and Mrs. Twila Bolt of Sharpsville, state color bearer.

Mrs. Armstrong told of the work being done by Pennsylvania in establishing a dental clinic at the Eaton Rapids Home of the V. F. W. which is under her supervision.

There were 47 members present in addition to the six visitors, and two new members were initiated. Reports of committees were submitted and a letter of appreciation was read from Commander Jack LaRue of the McBride Post, thanking the women for their assistance with the Toy Mission.

Among the activities of the next two weeks will be a card party at the Legion Home Association Building on Thursday evening January 14. Mrs. John LaRue is chairlady and will be assisted by Mrs LaRue King and Mrs. Harry Ryhal.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held Thursday evening, January 21.

Murder-Suicide In West Virginia Mountain Region

(International News Service)

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 8.—A. L. Carnell, 43, early today shot and killed his brother-in-law, George Louck, 43, then committed suicide by shooting himself through the head as the climax to a bitter family quarrel.

The shootings occurred near Valley Head where the body of Lieut. E. H. Bobbitt, killed when he crashed in the tangled underbrush here while flying to Charleston, Va., was recently found.

State police said Carnell drove away in his car after the shooting intending to surrender to police. He headed back, however, and shot himself just as troopers were about to close in on him.

be sent to Camden, N. Y., or Indianapolis, depending on instructions from her husband.

Met Instant Death.

Aviation authorities here were practically agreed today that the two women met almost instant death when the plane, with Mrs. Stewart at the controls, smashed head-on into the side of the mountain.

Behind the smash, it was believed, lay the real cause of the tragedy—confused direction in the fog—which has resulted in the deaths of a number of pilots over the "devil's graveyard".

Mrs. Stewart, flying from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg on the next to the last lap of her St. Souis-to-New York flight, had almost attained her objective when the crash occurred. She had cleared safely the final treacherous and "bumpy" air passages over the mountains and, had she straightened the plane out in a straight line for Harrisburg, would have reached here safely.

Behind her lay the last of the deceptive ridges, high peaks and yawning charms that had claimed the lives of some of the nation's noted flyers.

Lost Direction.

With the final fatal barrier passed, however, Mrs. Stewart evidently became confused and lost her sense of direction in the fog, despite the fact she was flying by compass.

Circling through the mist and rain of Tuesday night, she swerved the plane about and sent the ship hurtling at a terrific speed directly into the west side of the mountain, about 40 miles from here.

Therew as a conflict of opinion among the searchers who examined the plane's wreckage as to whether Mrs. Stewart was aware that the crash was impending. Some observers said the ignition switch had been "cut" by Mrs. Stewart before the crash, to preclude possibility of a gasoline explosion, while others reported the switch registered at the "on" position.

Dr. J. E. Book, Perry county coroner, wrote finis with a drab "accidental death" verdict to the most extensive land and air search in the history of Pennsylvania, in which hundreds of volunteer searchers and scores of pilots were enlisted.

Talks 6000 Miles By Telephone To Local Relatives

Conversation Between New Castle And Buenos Aires Conducted Recently

What appears to have been the longest distance that a telephone call has been made between this city and another point, seems to have occurred on Christmas eve, December 24, it was learned today. As far as is known it has all distance records for calls between this city and another point broken.

The call was that received from Buenos Aires, Argentina, and in which a conversation was carried on between Mrs. Francis Boley, who has been residing in that far away city since her marriage three years ago, and members of her family here, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Beadel and family of 309 Rhodes Place.

All members of the family participated in the conversation at this end and the desire of Mrs. Boley to hear the voices of her parents and other members of her family was carried out with the greatest ease and perfection. The conversation was carried on without the least trouble and voices from the distant Buenos Aires sounded back just as speedily as if they came from the next room.

It was arranged through a telegram received here on the 24th, in which it was stated that Mrs. Boley desired to speak with her relatives here at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of December 24.

The distance covered by the telephone conversation was 6,000 miles over land and water. The sound was carried to Long Island from this city, where it was then transmitted by wireless to a station just outside of Buenos Aires and then by wire to the Boley station.

Ex-City Treasurer Of Bradford Goes Back To Jail Cell

Webster Drew, Charged With Embezzlement, Cannot Raise $50,000 Bond

(International News Service)

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 8.—Once at liberty under $70,000 bond on two embezzlement charges involving $200,000, Webster Drew, ex-city treasurer, today had been shunted back into county jail when he was unable to raise $50,000 additional bond on new charges of misapplication of $61,930 of city funds.

Forty two counts of misapplication were sworn to in the new charges by City Solicitor F. M. Nash. One count alleged that he had transferred $4,500 of city funds to a personal bank account.

Arraigned before Alderman Fred B. Nicholas, Drew waived hearing and the heavy bail was set. He was unable to raise it and he was sent to jail.

District school officials and city heads brought the first charges against Drew. They alleged embezzlement.

FATHER COX SAYS MARCH WAS SUCCESS

welcome on the capitol steps by Senator James J. Davis and Representative Clyde Kelly. In addition, their "chief" was given an audience by President Hoover who acknowledged himself in sympathy with their demands.

Departure from Washington was rapid as the men took to their homes eagerly. It was just as orderly as the demonstration when the men lined up before the capitol plaza while Rev. Cox read to Senator Davis and Representative Kelly their resolutions and requests for aid.

While welfare organizations gave the huge crowd food for the trek home Sen. Davis, as his farewell gift, furnished 35,000 gallons of gasoline for the more than 1,000 automobiles in the caravan. The National Council of Catholic Charities furnished an additional 300 gallons of fuel.

Rev. Cox and hundreds of his followers journeyed to Arlington cemetery, resting place of national heroes, where a wreath was placed on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

The marchers made no general stop on their westward trip. Rev. Cox urged the men to drive slowly and regard all traffic laws. The men in column of the march broke up into small motorcades and those who were in a greater hurry to reach Pittsburgh chose shorter routes than the large group which followed Rev. Cox to Uniontown.

LAW AND ORDER, 37 YEARS.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—For thirty seven years Police Chief Phineas A. Seaman of Hempstead, L. I., has been connected with the "long arm of the law." He is seventy-six now yet he still works from 12 to 16 hours a day performing his official duties. Seaman started life as a carpenter, but when the compulsory education law was passed he became a truant officer. His ascent to his present position rapidly followed. He was made a constable, a county detective, was elected sheriff of Nassau County and after leaving that office his townspeople elected him chief of police.

Insurance Plot Is Uncovered By Police Of Erie

Claim Five Are Alleged Members Of Insurance Ring—Homes Recently Burned

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 8.—One man was arrested, two warrants were issued and two more arrests were promised today as authorities revealed what they termed a $21,000 insurance plot.

Frank Girardot, Erie Insurance company adjuster, was taken into custody, pleaded not guilty and was released under $5,000 bond for a hearing a week from today.

Warrants naming Louis Kaufman, former Erie real estate operator, and Harry ("Blackie") Cornell were issued. The former is serving a term in the Allegheny county workhouse in connection with an arson case and Cornell is in Western State penitentiary on similar charges.

The men will be rearrested as soon as they are released, authorities intimated.

It was alleged by authorities that the three men made false representations to several insurance companies to obtain $21,000 insurance on homes in Summit and Leboeuf townships which burned recently.

BALDWIN CLASS MEETS THURSDAY

The first meeting of the New Year for the Baldwin Bible class of the Highland United Presbyterian church was held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Ray Rhodes, Sumner avenue, with forty members present.

Mrs. F. L. Burton called the business session and Mrs. S. G. Ligo led the opening devotional period.

Sometime during February the playlet "Castle in Spain" will be reproduced for the members of the congregation and friends.

Mrs. Rhodes, program chairman, presented the speaker of the evening, Dr. C. J. Williamson, former pastor of the church, who spoke on "The Significance of a Word" poignantly illustrating how traits of character and trends of the mind are shown by the words that fall from the lips. Many of his illustrations were mirth provoking.

After Dr. Williamson's talk the Japanese ball games were brought forth and the sides captained by Mrs. R. S. Cline and Mrs. O. A. Rodgers went into contest, thus adding to the scores that have been kept since fall. In the early spring the losing team will serve a dinner to the winners.

A tray lunch brought the evening to a close, with Mrs. A. C. Allen, Mrs. Thomas Lindsey, Mrs. Fred Lipp and Mrs. Daniel Maddocks serving.

Mrs. J. E. Wilson was a special guest.

February 4 will mark the date of the next meeting.

Iona Kensington

Mrs. L. H. Gormley of North Mill street was a pleasing hostess Thursday afternoon when she entertained associates of the Iona Kensington in her home at their usual social session. The hours were whiled away with cards, and the prize winners were Mrs. William Brenneman and Mrs. Cora Duffner.

At an appropriate time, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Duffner, served a delectable repast. The seasons tones were cleverly used in the appointments.

In two weeks, Mrs. B. Arthur Smith of Fairmont avenue will receive the club at her home.

Modern Quintet Club

The Modern Quintet Club was entertained at the home of Betty Smith on Jefferson street on a recent evening, with cards and social chat forming the pastimes. Refreshments were served at the close of the entertainment, to Betty Smith, Marian Labo and Priscilla Smith.

PI OMICRON PARTY THURSDAY EVENING

Most delightful and entertaining was the event held at the home of Mrs. Carrie Jefferies Roberts at Barbour Place when she entertained associates of the Pi Omicron Sorority, a newly organized social group of this city, at an informal good fellowship party.

A large number participated, and upon the arrival of everyone the hostess exhibited some very interesting pictures she had gathered in her numerous travels here and abroad, and related an unusual story with each which held the close attention of those assembled. Following this feature, a lively time was enjoyed with bingo being the main diversion, thus occupying the greater part of the leisure period. The committee in charge of this part of the program included Marguerite Cordes, Virginia Conover and Ailene Wald.

Before departing for home a tasy tray lunch was served by Mrs. Roberts and the social commitee comprising Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, Jean Glenn and Irene Bowman. This chronicled the close of the first Pi Omicron party which was voted a decided success.

Merry Maidens Club

A delightful meeting of the Merry Maidens Club was held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Martha Jenkins on Adams street. Bridge formed the main pastime of the social period, and at the conclusion of play, lovely prizes were presented to Mrs. Vera Bruce and Mrs. Bart Richards for winning honors.

At a late hour, the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Ann Jenkins served a delicious collation at the small tables which had been re-arranged and prettily decorated in tones suggestive of the season.

On Friday, January 22 the club will be guests of Miss Harriett Vickery, Boyles avenue.

G. W. C. Club.

Mrs. Robert Thompson of Ray street pleasingly received the G. W. C. club members in her home on Thursday afternoon. Sewing and chat were pastimes and a delicious lunch was served at a suitable hour by the hostess at a table nicely appointed in the season's tones. Places marked for all members and the following guests: Mrs. Elmer Cowan of Prospect, Mrs. Amos Pyle and Mrs. Clara Lutton, this city.

Adjournment followed, and on Friday, January 22, the club will be guest of Mrs. George Bleakley of Chestnut street at another afternoon event.

Doctor, Wife Leaving

Dr. and Mrs. E. U. Snyder, East Winter avenue will leave on Friday evening for a ten day visit to points in Texas and New Mexico. They will travel by rail.

Stops are planned at different points in the two southwestern states.

Current Events Class

The Current Events Class members will be entertained at the home of Miss Nora Hogue, 465 Neshannock avenue on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock which is a change in their previous plans.

MRS. P. K. FIKE RECEIVES CIRCLE '06

The regular meeting of the Reading Circle of '06 was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. K. Fike, 426 Sheridan avenue, with a large number responding to roll-call with the "Name of an Opera."

Preceding the usual routine, a program in memory of Mrs. M. V. Fielding, their president, who passed away recently was given. Mrs. C. C. Campbell spoke of her as "Our Member" and Mrs. W. H. Martin gave a talk on "Our Friend." Mrs. Fike read a poem appropriate to the occasion, as the closing number.

Following, the members elected Mrs. C. C. Campbell president to fill the vacancy. At the conclusion of business transaction, two excellent papers were given; "Schweiter" His Black Brother's Keeper" by Mrs. G. G. Orr and "Leopold Stowski" by Mrs. E. C. Morrow.

On January 21 the members will meet with Mrs. E. C. Morgan on Walnut street.

MISSIONARY DINNER IN BLACKWOOD HOME

A pretty event of Wednesday noon was the luncheon in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Blackwood, East Washington street, when the members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Reformed Presbyterian church were entertained.

Covers were arranged for thirty at attractively decorated tables Mrs. J. G. Clements and Mrs. Dorothy Hyde were special guests.

Following the serving of a delicious menu Mrs. C. A. Hollis called a business meeting and Mrs. Spear Gibson led the opening devotionals after which a period of mission study was held.

February 5 the women will again meet.

Ten Ivory Club

Mrs. Carl Scungio pleasingly entertained in her home Thursday on East Lutton street, members of the Ten Ivory Club and one special guest Miss Elvira Sorto. The usual routine of business was carried out and the social period was spent informally with cards and music. Officers were elected at this session as follows: president, Mary Caciarella; vice president, Mrs. Carl Scungio; secretary and treasurer, Theresa Fazzone; press reporter, Phyllis Aicone.

Lunch was served at a late hour by the hostess, assisted by her daughter Phyllis. The season's tones prevailed in the appointments used. The prize of the evening was given to Mrs. John Mastrangelo.

In three weeks Mary Maciarella of South Mill street will entertain.

Aides Have Party

The department and special aides of the Daughters of Union Veterans held a card party Thursday evening in the K. of P. Hall, East street, with 500 and bingo as the games of the evening.

High scores in 500 were held by Mrs. M. Stewart, Mrs. A. Irwin, Glen Fox, and E. Irwin, the special prize was awarded Mrs. Cynthia Frye. At bingo the awards went to Mrs. J. Sullivan and Mrs. James Travers.

At conclusion of play the committee, Mrs. E. McKissick, Mrs. Flora Sowash, Mrs. Mary Kurtz and Miss Anna Rae, served refreshments.

T. A. B. Club

The T. A. B. Club members were entertained Thursday afternoon at a prettily appointed 1:30 o'clock luncheon in the home of Mrs. Frank Cray on Winslow avenue. The hostess was assisted in serving a delectable menu by Mrs. Thomas Vallely at a table centered with a select bouquet of the season's flowers.

Bridge was later in order, and prizes went to Mrs. Vallely and Mrs. Chas. Freeman for winning honors.

In two weeks, Mrs. Freeman will entertain in her home on Fairmont avenue.

O. M. K. Club

The O. M. K. club members were entertained Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. Martha Horchler, Wayne street. All were present, and the social time was devoted to 500. At the close of the feature, a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter-in-laws, Mrs. George Horchler and Mrs. H. D. Horchler.

Mrs. Margaret Decker of New Kensington was a special visitor. On January 21, Mrs. Norris Mitchell of Highland avenue will be hostess.

GARDEN CLUB HEARS INTERESTING SPEAKER

Garden Club held the first meeting of 1932 at the home of Mrs. C. S. Royce. The regular County and Guest day marked the beginning of Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad's second year as president. The treasurer's report for 1931 was read by Mrs. Wm. Kennedy and the annual report on Achievement for 1931 was read by Mrs. Wm. Howley.

Mr. Raschid, speaker of the day, was then introduced, and his theme was "Persia and Persian Gardens". Following his entertaining talk, members and guests enjoyed a social hour.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. D. Pearson at 1 p. m., February 4th.

For a number of years Garden Club has worked with the Commissioners in an effort to beautify Public Grounds. Because of this interest Louis Genkinger invited the Executive Board to visit Gaston Park to see the result of co-operation. This trip was made immediately before the meeting and was an occasion of gratification to the Board, as it is also to the community.

TEMPLE ISRAEL SISTERHOOD EVENT

Temple Israel Sisterhood associates will be hostesses to members and their friends on Sunday evening January 10, at a novel entertainment, that will prove of unusual interest, held in Temple Israel. This event will be in the form of a "Hetter's Parade" and will be in progress promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Much fun and an evening of genuine entertainment is promised those who attend.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. B. Kline, Mrs. A. Goldman, Mrs. L. Reinhart, Mrs. William Goldblatt and Mrs. P. Broida.

FIELD CLUB BRIDGE EVENT OF THURSDAY

The New Castle Field Club was the scene of another social event last evening, when its membership gathered and participated in the bridge party planned for their entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Pattersen acted as hosts on this occasion.

After the cards contest, trophies for honors went to Miss Mary W. Clark, Mrs. Rachel Taylor, A. H. Davis, Jr., and George S. Long. The serving of a delicious lunch brought the evening to a close.

B. Y. C. Club

Mrs. Herbert Rose of Boyles avenue received the B. Y. C. Club in her home Thursday evening for a social time. Bridge was the pastime and novel awards were made to Mrs. Walter Gross and Mrs. Anna Dugan, the latter who was a special guest of the club.

The small tables were later rearranged and decorated where a delicious menu was served by the hostess.

On January 14 the members will entertain at a special party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gross on Richelieu avenue. Husbands of the women will be special guests on this date.

E. N. C. Club

The E. N. C. Club members were guests of Mrs. J. H. Kalajainen at East New Castle on Thursday afternoon. A delicious menu was served at 12 o'clock at a nicely arranged table. Pink tones prevailed. Following, the hours were spent informally with chat and music.

As a special guest, the members had Mrs. R. J. Frederick.

On January 28, the club will be guests of Mrs. I. A. Lytle of East New Castle.

1932 Club First Meeting

A group of women gathered at the home of Mrs. C. C. Stump at 316 Sheridan avenue on Thursday afternoon, and organized into a club which will be recognized as the "1932 Club". The hours were spent with 500, prizes going to Mrs. Jessie Stinger and Mrs. Frank Webster.

They later adjourned to meet again on Thursday, January 21 at the home of Mrs. Earl Waddington, North Jefferson street at 1:30 o'clock.

A. A. A. Club

Mrs. Grover Wilson of Cherry St. charmingly entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon in her home Thursday afternoon, members of the A. A. A. Club. A delicious menu was served, and later, the guests indulged in a 500 contest. Prizes for this feature went to Mrs. Harry Gilmore and Mrs. E. L. Young.

They later adjourned, and in two weeks, Mrs. Harry Rankin of Cherry street will be hostess.

During the last ten days the doors of the Sosos Club have been open to the public. Many local and out of town guests have been entertained.

Sunday night at 12:01 a. m. terminated the open house session.

Every member of the Sosos donated a gift towards the household needs and furnishings of the Club rooms as their Christmas present to the club.

A collection was taken up and donated to the Mayor's Relief Fund.

During the year 1931 this Club increased its membership from 9 to 30 and did much to aid the needy and help build the character of young men and women.

The election of officers for the year will take place, in the Sosos Club rooms this evening at 9 p m.

E. C. Brown, who has been Moderator for this Club for the past 18 months, does not choose to run for Moderator this year so the Sosos will have a new pilot for 1932.

VALUE OF CORN MEAL

Corn meal should be used often in the winter menu. As to its food value, it has a high starch content, a small percentage of protein and also a small amount of mineral salts. Thus it is chiefly an energy food and as such may be used to give variety to cereals in place of potatoes, for breads and in the making of casserole dishes and nutrious desserts.

LEAP YEAR PROPOSALS

ON THIS leap year question there seem to be as many different opinions as on the prohibition issue. If one seeks long enough, he will find opinions that tally with his own no matter how warped and illogical it is.

Judge Ben Lindsay says, "Expect more marriages—it's leap year!"

The man who issues more marriage licenses than any other individual in the United States says, "Expect fewer marriages—it's leap year!"

Members of congregation in New Jersey voted overwhelmingly against leap year proposals, the women voting more than five to one against them and the men less than two to one.

"Leap year" proposals do not wait for a year divisible by four. Few marriages are not engineered by the one who accepts. But more times than not the male victims are grateful for the suggestion and the moral support. They come through the ordeal a little dazed and sometimes doubtful, but in the long run most of them are contented with the give-and-take of domestic life.

As long as the boy thinks he did the courting and proposing and the girl was glad to accept both, what does it matter who did it? Most engagements are the fruits of good teamwork with the girl calling the signals.

INDIA—AND GANDHI PROBLEM

Is Great Britain to learn in India that it is one thing to jail an individual but quite another to jail an idea or a popular state of mind?

Gandhi, who is almost a god to his millions of followers in India, has been jailed again and may be exiled beyond communication with his people, but will that quench the fires of liberty he has spread throughout India?

There has been a reversal of British policy in India more dramatic than even the British themselves realize. The softness and sentimentalism under which Gandhi's revolution of non-violence gained such tremendous momentum has been abandoned for the drastic and harsh methods by which the empire was created.

The position taken by the British government is that Gandhi, who began as a placid philosopher, has become an insufferable egotist, whose utter unreasonableness in the face of British co-operation and forebearance wrecked a plan for the complete and gradual deliverance of India by rational methods. It is unwilling to surrender the country into hands it holds unequal to the task of governing it.

Both Gandhi and his country's overlords may be sincere, and either may be mistaken. Morally the British have no right to hold another nation in subjection against its will, but it would be equally immoral for the British to withdraw from the country if it knew such withdrawal would throw millions of people into bloody civil war and chaos. Gandhi apparently believes his people capable of self-government. The British either do not think so or want India for what she is worth.

TARIFF BALLYHOO

The low tariff advocates in congress are not entirely together on what they want to do with protection in the present session of congress. Some of them say that the house will pass a new tariff bill but that no attempt will be made to lower all the rates. Other declare that it would be inadvisable to pass a tariff bill with lower schedules, because it would be vetoed anyhow; so, they ask, why go to all the trouble?

The real fact is that after all their ballyhoo about the tariff the free traders in congress know that the people still want protection because they see that it is vital to American well being. Lowering the rates on manufactured products would destroy these industries in their present weakened condition and certainly would not help the farmers by taking away the purchasing power of the American worker, which, depleted though it is, is far superior to anything in Europe. And certainly the free traders will not attempt to lower schedules on farm products. To do so would be to commit political suicide.

The fact is that during the present session of congress there will be greater effort for additional protection than there will be for reduced schedules. The oil interests and the copper interests of the West are going to ask for protection, something which they are entitled to if they want it. America is the greatest copper producing country in the world, and while our mines are idle copper can be produced by slave labor in Africa at a cost much below anything possible here. At the same time cheap labor in South America and forced labor in Russia have disrupted the world's oil market and petroleum products are being shipped into America from abroad, displacing the product of American wells which now produce a great deal more oil than they can sell.

The free traders in congress will now have a chance to make good their bluff about lowering tariff rates. But they won't do it. There is a greater probability of additional protection being enacted into law.

HELP AMERICAN SHIPS

One resolution which all of us can well make for 1932, is to do whatever is in our power this year to help the merchant marine, either by talking for it or, if possible, by helping in a more material way. Of course most of us will not be taking a trip to Europe or to the Orient. And the big majority of us do not engage in foreign trade. It is of course the duty of Americans traveling abroad and shipping abroad to give preference to American ships. No sort of aid will help like this.

But the rest of us can at least speak a good word for the American merchant marine whenever we get a chance. The depression has struck our shipping just as it has struck everything else, and our merchant marine needs what support we can give it. So if you have any friends who are to travel abroad or who ship abroad, urge them to use American ships wherever possible.

The American merchant marine has grown during the past ten years in a way that should bring pride to every American heart. The government has helped by extending loans at low rates of interest for the building of American ships, and by awarding mail contracts to American shipping lines, in this manner building of American service to distant ports wherever possible. The new building program, aided by the government will, when it is completed, add seventy new and speedy ships to our merchant marine at a total cost of about $300,000,000. As a result of this wise and patriotic program, the shipbuilding industry has fared better than most industries during the depression.

Foreign shipping lines have been hit even harder than our own, and as a result we note that work on many fast European liners is being curtailed and plans changed or abandoned. It is all the more important therefore that we keep ahead with the development of the American merchant marine. European nations had a big start on us but we are beginning to catch up. Let's keep up the good work.

A Dark Cloud Descends
It Surrounds You
But It Always Lifts

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A dark and loathsome cloud came up from nowhere and cast its terrible shadow over all the earth. And life grew dim before your eyes and you saw shadows wherever you looked. Something fearful flew between you and the sun and joy went out of life.

It was one of those days, one of those weeks, when existence became an unbearable burden.

You do not know how it happened. You had intended to be happy, but some little thing went wrong and then everything went wrong all at once.

You began to live in shadows. You lost hope, you lost faith, you lost energy, you lost courage. Everything good seemed to seep away from you and leave you weak as if you had been long in fever. You went around quoting morbid, sad sayings to yourself.

The shadows was on you and in you, and it increased your bitterness when you saw that it did not seem to be on other people, too. They passed you on the street, laughing and eager—and you hated them for their happiness. They seemed so cold, so indifferent. "Nobody cares," you thought to yourself. "Nobody knows how unhappy I am. O, miserable me; O, woeful, worthless that I am." Someone said, "What's the matter with you?" and you answered, "Nothing!" Why bother to say you were miserable, no one would understand.

So you suffered all by yourself in your impenetrable shadows and hated yourself and hated the entire human race.

And then the shadow lifted. Miraculously it was gone. The air was clear, the sky was blue, you could see for miles and miles and miles. You were free again—and your joy was as incomprehensible as your misery had been. Though you didn't know why, people were fun again and their laughter communicated itself to you.

You smiled in the crowd, you were back with the gang of human beings again, as brave, as hopeful, as cheerfully ridiculous. The aching tooth was out, the nagging pain was gone, the shadow was lost in the gay light of the day.

It happened. It will happen again. The shadow will come. It will go away.

You will lose hope and you will find it once more.

But why can't we remember, when the shadow is all around us, that it will not last forever?

PHARAOH'S DREAM

Once Pharaoh dreamed of seven kine beside a river bank,
And pleasing was the sight of them as from the stream they drank.
Fatfleshed and favoured well were they, but as the king stood by Seven lean and undernourished kine
he noticed drawing nigh.

Thought he, the strong will surely turn and drive the weak away.
Those lusty kine will never let such starving cattle stay,
But as he watched the fatfleshed cows were eaten, one by one,
By those seven lean, ill-favored kine,
until the last was gone.

Again the mighty Pharaoh dreamed of seven ripe ears of corn,
Which fruited on a single stalk, but much perplexed at morn,
He called his wise magicians in to solve what he had seen,
Since those full ears had been destroyed by seven poor ears and lean.

We know that Joseph at last and said: "Oh, mighty king,
The years of famine swallow up what years of plenty bring."
And as it was in Pharaoh's time,
five thousand years away,
We find the economic law is still the same today.

ADVANCE PLANNING

The gift-giving season has passed and as usual Dad had to get his greatest joy out of what he was able to present to others.

Dads do not figure extensively in remembrances.

Of course Dad says that he does not care, but he would be pleased never the less if a little more thought were given to him and the selection of the gifts presented to him.

Frequently Dad is to blame for the fact that he receives few presents.

He is the one who earns the money and hands it out to other members of the family who are not in the earning class.

Often he gives money to his wife and children but he does this on Christmas Day when it is too late for them to buy anything for him.

He says this is the reason he does not give it to them in advance. He does not want them to spend money on him.

And he is in earnest in this position, but just the same he would be better pleased if he received something out of the line that he gets year after year.

How he figures the family can surprise him with the small amount they have to spend for gifts is hard to understand.

Perhaps it might be done if there were a little advance planning.

Johnson Position Rejected In Comment On Moratorium

Support Given By Democratic Leaders Is Compared With Opposition Maintained By Senator From California

Senator Hiram Johnson's efforts to defeat the approval of the debt moratorium by congress failed to win the approval of the country, while newspaper comment indicates a willingness to extend the period for payment of war debts. Political motives are charged to the California senator whose attitude is contrasted with that of the Democrats in congress.

"The correct position of the Democrats on this administration proposal," in the judgment of the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, "throws into stronger relief the attitude of the handful of senators of both parties who seized upon the measure as an excuse for making trouble. What the regular opposition party would not do these scattered senators did eagerly. These malcontents could not sway the result a particle and they knew it. But they could stir up unpleasantness and they did it while a weary senate listened for the most part in silence. The senate as a body is very courteous to its members."

"The senate, with its vote," according to the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, "proved it does not consider the moratorium a partisan measure. It has placed an emphatic stamp of approval upon the president's action, and read a lesson to those who, for political or personal reasons, would delay action on a constructive program." The SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS feels that "the moratorium was justified, both by business and humane considerations, and Senator Johnson's violent opposition to it does not seem to be statesmanship." The ROCK ISLAND ARGUS declares that "his charges are not borne out by the facts," and that "his speeches cannot change the essential truth about the war debt situation."

"The objection to the Johnson speech," argues the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "is not that it reflects on the president, who is much too big a man to be touched by such a reflection, but that it introduces into debate the ideas of dictatorship and rebellion which no official of the American government should tolerate. The thought had to be in the mind of the senator before it could come out and it was put there by his resentment at being unable to impose his own judgment over that of the majority, not by any failure to learn majority opinion."

"The gentlemen who stand in the way of all concession and adjustment in the difficult problem of the debts," states the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "are doing hardly less damage to the people of the United States themselves than they may be doing to the rest of the world." That paper comments further: "'Let them default,' cries Hiram Johnson, in speaking of our debtors. There is no denying that the stiff attitude assumed by Senator Johnson and his like, in the face of experts', report, encourages just such a solution, if solution it can be called, of the whole problem. But have the men who speak lightheartedly of such a course of action considered fully what it means? The default of a great nation on its obligations will deal a terrific blow at the credit structure of that nation, and of the world. It might easily be the prelude of economic decay. It might mean the partial destruction of the best of our foreign markets, and the spread of a social unrest the consequence of which no man can foresee. Is it wise to take chances on such a policy? Nor is that all. It is by no means certain that something may not be saved of some of the debts owed us by European governments. The sure way to lose everything is to insist on everything."

Observing the point of view of those who uphold the rights of congress, the ST. LOUIS TIMES comments on the situation: "It has been said that Mr. Hoover's moratorium action was necessary to save Germany. It may have seemed so at the time, but since that day so many things have happened that there has arisen a doubt, of which Senator Johnson takes proper advantage in defending the state's constitutional rights. We have gone along a good many years in our national life without finding it necessary for the chief executive to act independently. It may be that in the instance at hand no harm was done save in the matter of precedent. The fact that it is Senator Johnson who raises the point robs the incident of distinction as an issue, since the senator cannot be said to have an unbiased relation to the present executive. Despite this fact, it will probably be some time before a president has a dealing with foreign powers in the vacation period without doing something more formal than a brief talk over the wire."

"There was logic," thinks the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL," in the Johnson proposal that the only way to bring peace to Europe would be to have its victor allied nations restore to their defeated neighbors all the spoils they have won as the result of the war. If this were done it would be no more of a sacrifice than that proposed for the people of America, whose share in the war saved the day for the allies, and who are now singled out for the further glorious sacrifice of paying its debts, while the European victors keep their spoils."

Quoting President Hoover's statement in 1928 that "the great war brought into bold relief the utter dependence of nations upon foreign trade," the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD asserts that "now all of them are shut in by their own tariff walls," and "have piled up surplus they cannot export because they cannot import." That paper continues: "Somehow Senator Johnson of California isn't a very impressive figure as he bellows his denunciation of the moratorium and in the same breath his demand for the last ounce of flesh out of our foreign debtors. For he is one of those who have conspired to fasten this destructive policy upon us, and so to make payment of international debts practically impossible."

"The California senator put on a similar show in the summer of 1930 against the London naval treaty," recalls the BALTIMORE SUN, with the conclusion: "Now that he has given a second exhibition of failure, and just as dismal, it would seem in order for the advocates of American adherence to the world court to buck up a little courage and put the issue to the test. There is more formidable opposition to the world court than there was to the moratorium or the London treaty. But even Senator Borah's impassioned eloquence could not bolster a cause as feeble as those in which Hiram Johnson has made his last two forlorn stands."

"The feeble opposition was equally divided between the two major parties," says the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES, with the conclusion that "the reading public generally is convinced that the moratorium was a necessity." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION believes that "there would have been a serious financial collapse, had the president called a special session to give Johnson and others of a minority opinion an opportunity to talk and talk about it."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A STRAW

If the American would calmly list the advantages and the evils of the Prohibition Amendment and laws made in pursuant thereof, he might be able to arrive at some intelligent conclusion.

In making such a calculation, the American should divest himself of all religious bias as well as all dislikes for religious enthusiasts. Above all things, he should not lie to himself.

Among the facts for him to consider is the report of the Judical Conference held recently in Washington. The report is signed by Chief Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court. It says among other things:

"There was an increase in the cases brought under the National Prohibition Act, as follows:

	1930	1931
Civil, commenced	11,882	12,374
Criminal, commenced	56,992	57,405

Of all of this class there were terminated in 1930, 12,938 civil cases and 52,706 criminal cases; and in 1931 12,103 civil cases and 61,521 criminal cases. Despite the reduction in the total number of cases pending in the Federal Courts, congestion continues to be a major problem."

And the Judicial Conference recommends that there be appointed nine additional District Judges.

Stays Five Weeks With Jungle Folks

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The adventures of a lone white woman in the Orinoco jungle were related today at the Town Hall club round-table luncheon by Elizabeth Dickey, who camped at an Indian village for five weeks while her husband, Dr. Herbert Dickey, South American explorer, continued up the Orinoco river in search of its source.

Mrs. Dickey told how she caught birds with berries stuck in the substance used to make chewing gum, heard the screams of a small boy cleaning fish in the river as he was seized and devoured by an alligator, and saw four native women and several children drown when a boat, overtaken by a sudden squall, capsized in the middle of the river.

Minimizes Dangers.

At a point 1,400 miles from the nearest telephone, Mrs. Dickey stayed behind in the Indian village to make a collection of birds and animals for the New York Zoological society, with a only a small pistol and the good will of friendly Indians to protect her. Deprecating the feat, Mrs. Dickey minimized the risks of the jungle and declared that "jungle dangers are no greater than the perils of the beaten paths in the civilized world, especially New York traffic."

Marriages in the tribes along the Orinoco are arranged by the parents when the children are very young. If the partner his parents have picked for him is not satisfactory, Mrs. Dickey explained, the Indian kidnaps a girl of his own choosing. The tribe from which the girl is kidnaped then considers the kidnaper an enemy and in retaliation makes an effort to kill him, using the whole head as a trophy just as the North American Indian used the vicitm's scalp. Mrs. Dickey attributed most of the tribal wars to this cause.

Enjoy Experience.

"The ladies seem to enjoy being stolen," she remarked.

Describing the head hunters, Mrs. Dickey said that "the man with the most heads is considered a very clever fellow." A head trophy is made by cutting off the head at the shoulders and peeling the skin from the skull. The skin is then soaked in an acid solution made from native herbs, after which it is dehydrated for eight days in a hot sand pit. The finished trophy is the size of a man's fist, hard as stone, with the features preserved intact.

Although Mrs. Dickey once told a friend that her greatest hardship was the loss of her permanent wave, today she told of finding one night under her toenails 18 "jiggers" which had to be removed with a cauterized needle. Also, she said, her food supply was exhausted and she knew what hunger was before Dr. Dickey returned from his journey up the river.

The expedition, successful in locating the headwaters of the river in the Parima range in Brazil, returned to New York from a six month's trip last September. Four white men and 19 Indians accompanied Dr. Dickey after he left Mrs. Dickey in the camp.

Hoover Dam Reservation Now Boasts 228 Children In School

(International News Service)

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Jan 8—Three hundred and sixty-three children and more live on the Hoover dam reservation, which less than a year ago had a population of but a dozen men.

In Boulder City are 289 children, 228 of whom are of school age, according to official census just completed by reservation police.

With a total population of about 4,400 on the entire reservation, Boulder City has a poupulation of about 3,500. There are 500 men in the river camp, seven miles from the community, and about 400 living in "Williamsville", temporary squatters' camp at the river bank.

With the six companies payroll now about 2,800, and about half of these men married, family life on the reservation is on the increase, and many wives and families are slated to come to Boulder as soon as sufficient living quarters are completed.

Ninety-five children attend school in Boulder City. The school is conducted on a tuition basis by three teachers in three residence structures.

About 60 children go to Las Vegas, 24 miles away, in a school bus, to attend school. More than 60 attend the new, temporary school at Williamsville, also on tuition basis.

From between Las Vegas and Boulder City 87 or so of children whose fathers work on the dam journey to Las Vegas to school.

The new one-room Railroad Pass school, which was authorized this week by Clark County commissioners, will be built and ready for attendance by a number of these children by January 5, according to school authorities.

A total of 434 students attending in Las Vegas from Boulder City, Las Vegas and between-points, having parents on the dam project, comprises slightly more than one-fifth of the Las Vegas school attendance.

Prof. Simmons Sees Tires Pour From Test Tubes

(International News Service)

AKRON, O., Jan. 8. — Automobile tires and other necessary rubber articles made almost literally from a test tube at a rate of speed comparable with the present output is pictured as a potential wartime emergency measure by Professor H. E. Simmons of the University of Akron chemistry department.

An enemy blockade cutting off America's crude rubber supply would neseccitate the manufacture of tires and other needed rubber articles from the newly-developed artificial rubber, called Du-Prene, which ordinarily would not be used because it is somewhat more expensive, Professor Simmons believes.

Du-Prene is to be manufactured commercially here next year, it has been announced. The artificial rubber, which is more elastic, and has a lighter rate of fire resistance, has been found more suitable that real rubber for many things.

Because Akron is so situated that it will be easy to obtain all the materials needed to make Du-Prene, Professor Simmons declared that in any national emergency all rubber articles could be made from the artificial rubber in as large quantities as at present and as quickly.

The artificial rubber is made from a combination of limestone, coal, water, salt and sulphuric acid.

Bonding Company Has Not Yet Paid Over County Money

Owing to the absence from the city of County Treasurer William O. Pitts's attorney nothing further has been done regarding county funds in an Ellwood City bank. Treasurer Pitts has refused to take over the account and has demanded that the bonding company turn over the cash. There is some question as to whether it is the duty of the county treasurer or the county commissioners to prosecute the case, and this point is now being considered.

GAS MASKS ON SALE AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8—A gas mask makes an ideal Christmas gift, according to an enterprising merchant in Charville in the Ardennes which saw some hard shelling during the Great War.

An imposing display of the object as arranged in the window, with the following announcement placed beneath:

"Protection of the civil population against chemical warfare. Reduce your superfluous expenditure a little and buy a gas-mask. It will prove the best investment you have ever made. Don't wait until tomorrow. Ask your druggist to let you try one on today."

The masks come in all sizes and photographs show entire families equipped with them.

ANTELOPE HIT BY WINTER WEATHER

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 8—The dry season in Oregon's antelope country followed by the severe cold spell this winter, has threatened doom to Oregon's most beautiful ruminant, according to Stanley C. Jewett, of the United States bureau of biological survey.

From 5,000 to 15,000 of the antelope feed in the Warner valley, near Plush, Ore., in the southeastern part of the state. The range might be bounded by a rectangle 30 miles wide and 60 miles in length.

Vast expanses are desolate, the desert foliage has dried and withered away beneath the hot summer sun. Water is plentiful, Jewett said here recently, and however.

American Money Rebuilds Many Of Paris' Old Places

Rockefeller Endowment Fund Is Being Used To Help

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8—Good old American dollars are constantly saving some of France's finest ancient historical monuments.

Due to the Rockefeller Endowment Funds the Chateau of Fontainebleau has been admirably restored. The most striking transformation, perhaps, is part of "Ancienne Comedie," a part of the palace built in 1568 and largely destroyed by fire in 1856. It was here that Louis XV installed the Court theatrical company in 1725.

The old facade, the old roof and the chimneys have been erplaced and the general effect is very impressive. A layer of reinforced concrete has been laid over a large part of the palace roof to protect the famous ceilings of the main apartments, the councilroom and the throne-room from infiltrations of rain water and also to minimize the danger of fire.

Louis XV and his courtiers would certainly have been surprised had they come back to see the modern steam jet cleaning up the fountains and stone statues in the gardens.

Rockefeller funds are also restoring the celebrated Trianon theatre at Versailles which has long been closed because of its dilapidated condition. It was here that Marie Antoinette amused herself and a very intimate friends with her dancing and acting.

Montgomery Named Temporary Fireman

R. H. Montgomery today was renamed a temporary fireman, as of date of January 1, by council upon the suggestion of Director D. O. Davies, superintendent of the fire department.

Two men were injured in late December and Montgomery was named by Councilman Reeves for only two days as Reeves did not want to embarrass the new council, according to Davies.

He ordered Montgomery to remain at work and today council, which met in the city building, ratified his action. As soon as one of the two men return to duty Montgomery may be released.

PRESENTS BOND

Council today approved, subject to the approval of the city controller, the $30,000, bond of City Treasurer Louis McClung with the Consolidated Indemnity & Insurance company as surety. The bond was asked by councilmanic ordinance.

COURT GIVES RECORD

When the Lawrence County Boy Scout council met in the Highland U. P. church last night, the official resume of the council's Court of Honor activities for 1931 was heard. Figures revealed that 954 advancements in rank were made by the tribunal.

Signed by the Rev. G. S. Bennett, court chairman, W. H. Gillespie, William Wheeler, John Lindgren, Ellwood City, and the commissioner, district commissioner and deputies, the court's report read in part:

Ten sessions were held in New Castle; nine in Ellwood and three at Camp Phillips.

Eleven Star scouts were advanced to Life rank, and five Life scouts were made Eagles, the highest rank any scout can hold. One Silver Eagle palm was presented.

Two scouts received commissions as junior assistant scoutmasters. A Silver Beaver award committee presented the names of two local councilmen to the national Court of Honor, but no names will be mentioned until the court acts on them.

The Court recommenced that three merit badges a month be the limit for each boy, outside of Star, Life and Eagle, and recommend that more merit badge counselors be secured, and that scoutmasters be relieved of this work in some cases where they have been doing it.

A total of 136 boys were advanced out of the tenderfoot class to second class rank by the Court of Honor during the past year.

Talking Picture Of Operation Attracts Crowd At Y. M. C. A.

A crowd last night milled about the partition windows separating the lobby from the lecture room in the Y. M. C. A. where the Lawrence County Medical Society had met to view four reels of sound pictures on surgical science.

The talkies, brought here by the Petrolagar laboratories of Chicago, were shown by E. M. Davis and F. L. Sanderson of that city.

When the lecture room became darkened and pictures flashed on a screen a crowd gathered at the windows to view the scenes of a major operation.

Two of the reels were entitled, "Repair of Urethrocele, Cystocele and Lacerations of the Cervix." The picture was synchronized with the record of a portable phonograph. The sound for the picture has been prepared at St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago by Dr. Harold O. Jones, associate professor of Gynecology, Northwestern University. The picture showed the incision and the dissection necessary to mobilize the tissues for proper repair.

Salary Board Has Made No Decision

No action has yet been taken by the Lawrence county salary board, relative to salaries to be paid employees in the different offices. Heads of departments and the real estate board were heard earlier in the week. This afternoon members of Lawrence county granges are appearing before the board for the purpose of presenting their views.

CORRECTED VISION SAVES PUPILS MONEY

(International News Service)

OAKDALE, Cal., Jan. 8. — Corrected vision of high school pupils has resulted in a direct saving of $2200 in the cost of education to the taxpayers of this county, it was disclosed here today, following upon a series of optometric tests.

Not only has there been a saving of money, but the efficiency of pupils of the Oakdale High School has been greatly increased by the eye tests conducted by the State Department of Optometry at Berkeley, headed by Dr. E. A. Coe, of the University of California.

Oakdale was selected as the scene for an experiment as to the effect of defective sight upon education, and 400 pupils underwent the test during a two days' examination.

J. O. Gossett, principal of the school, said today that correction of defective vision resulted in an improvement of ten per cent in the English classes, and that ten students who had been expected to fail had made their grades.

On the basis of the California Taxpayers' Association figures that it costs $220 a year to educate a high school student, Prof Gossett estimated that a saving of $2200 was effected.

BRIGHT PYJAMAS FOR SAD PATIENTS

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Paul Poiret, eccentric Parisian dressmaker, is putting through a big order of gay pyjamas for the mental patients of well-known Dr. Toulouse, who has recently discovered that the people who have what the French call "black ideas" should have bright-colored wear.

Dr. Toulouse had the happy idea not long ago, to have the walls of his seculsion hospitals painted with cheerful colors, even bright and gaudy friezes, with excellent results. He then said, if the gay walls have such a good effect on the minds of afflicted persons, why should not gay clothes be even more salutary?

The patients used to wear a dingy kind of grey-blue uniform. Many of them are now flaunting lively hues, pyjamas with large sunflower patterns or something equally showy. Pictures provide untold amusement for some of the unhappy creatures who have little to think about.

Applications to the aeronautics branch, department of commerce, for student pilots' permits increased more than 50 per cent in the second quarter of this year. During the last three months permits have been issued to 4,574 persons.

ADVANCE WEATHER NEWS

(International News Service)

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN—A special bureau created by the Prussian ministry of agriculture in Frankfurt to study the possibilities of long-distance weather forecasting will in the coming year make public its first attempts along that line. Forecast for ten days will be made in July and August for North Germany west of the Oder and for South Germany. Seven such forecasts were made last summer privately for a small number of university professors and metaeologists, and it is asserted that every one of them was correct. It is estimated that forecasts for ten days in advance mean a reduction of 50 per cent in losses caused to agriculture by the elements.

Threat Of Third Party Latest Source Of Worry To Democratic Leaders

Progressive Republicans Loom As Menace If Roosevelt, Considered Acceptable To Them, Should Not Be Nominated

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Third party talk is beginning to worry Democracy's leadership badly, with the country actually entered upon another presidential year.

Heretofore an independent national candidacy has been a threat against Republican prospects.

In 1912, with the late T. R. in the field, it was worse than a threat.

In 1924 progressive-ism may have drawn a little from the Democratic vote, but unquestionably it was a far greater drain upon the G. O. P., though not a fatal drain, as in 1912.

Next November, however, the Jeffersonian nominee will be the one endangered if a triangular contest develops—notwithstanding the fact that the interloper, if any, inevitably will be a progressive Republican, perhaps with a progressive Democratic running mate, like Senator Wheeler, on the ticket with the elder Senator La Follette eight years ago.

Assuming that the Democrats name as their standard bearer a man of at least moderately progressive views (as the term "progressive" is employed in current political nomenclature), the probability of a heavy progressive Republican bolt from Mr. Hoover to his Democratic rival can hardly be disputed by any candid observer of conditions of today.

If dissatisfied with the selection of the Democrats, this element is largely disinclined to support Mr. Hoover anyway.

It regards Mr. Hoover's renomination as a foregone conclusion, but, until lately, it has taken for granted the nomination of an acceptable Democrat — specifically, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Now it is not so sure.

That is, it is not as sure as it was that the Democrats will nominate Governor Roosevelt, due to indications of increasing opposition to him in his own party.

With Mr. Hoover and an unsatisfactory Democrat to choose between, the Republican progressives would be left with nowhere to go on election day.

Hence the growth of third party sentiment.

If Mr. Hoover must lose this disgruntled G. O. P. element whether or no, manifestly it will be better for him to have it flop to an independent than to the regular Democrat. The Democrat, with his natural vote, plus the bolting Republicans, might win, but there would not be much chance for an independent to do so.

There is more, however, to it than that.

Let the Democrats put up a candidate who is unsatisfactory to the Republican progressives and there are many Democrats who will not be satisfied with him either. They likewise may bolt to the independent, if one is nominated.

It takes an almost unreasoningly enthusiastic progressive to predict victory for a third ticket, even though Republican and Democratic progressives should combine, but it need overstrain no one's imagination to conceive of such a combination as settling the issue between the two major party candidates.

That was just what occurred in 1912, to the disadvantage of Republicans.

It can easily happen this year, to the disadvantage of the Democrats, if the fight assumes a three-cornered aspect.

What's the solution—from the Democratic point of view? To bow to the progressives' wishes—and nominate Governor Roosevelt?

Ah! It isn't that simple.

The qualities which make the New Yorker so popular among progressives are utterly lacking in appeal to another class of voters, whose good will the Jeffersonian managers are desperately anxious to win. The east fails to warm to him, despite his geography—and the east counts too much in the electoral college to be lightly disregarded.

It is a problem which is giving party strategists many sleepless nights.

SEARCH OF 14 DAYS MADE FOR KEEL

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., Jan. 8.—It took 14 days to find a tree in the Maine woods to provide just the proper material for the keel of a 66-foot schooner yacht being built here for a Chicago man.

After a fortnight's search, a representative of the Goudy & Steven's Shipyard located the tree near Hollis. Then they went to Massachusetts and bought the tree from the man who owned the land on which it stood.

The log, prepared from the tree for construction of the keel, was four feet in diameter and 39 feet long.

Orphan-Made Pagoda Models At Field Museum

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Eighty-four models of ancient pagodas comprise an interesting exhibit recently reinstalled with new labels at the Field Museum of Natural History.

Beside the interest that is attached to the miniatures from an historic and artistic standpoint is the surprising fact that they are all the work of Chinese orphan children in the Jesuit Institute of Sicawei.

Most valued of the models is one of the famous "Outlook Pagoda" of Chi-li province, the original of which is 360 feet high, the tallest that has survived in good condition. The walls are fifteen feet thick and the structure was built about 1,000 years ago.

Included also is a replica of the "Ornamented Pagoda" of Canton which in the original stands 180 feet high, although formerly reaching 290 feet.

Two famous pagodas now destroyed are preserved in miniature, the "Porcelain Pagoda" of Nanking demolished during the Taiping rebellion of 1854 and "Thunder Peak Pagoda" which was struck by lightning a few years ago.

How much food does one person eat in a year?

Correctly Speaking—

Hardly, scarcely, only and but, used in the sence of only, are often incorrectly joined with a negative. Say "It was so misty that we could hardly see," not "It was so misty that we couldn't hardly see."

Today's Anniversary

On this day, in 1831, Matthias Baldwin, pioneer builder, completed his first locomotive.

Today's Horoscope

Persons born on this day are methodical, careful and look ahead.

Answers to Foregoing Questions

1. The food of oysters consists of microscopic plants or diatoms which water currents take to them.

2. A survey now being made indicates that beef is first in favor, with pork second.

3. It is computed that 1,355 pounds of food are consumed during one year by each adult in the United States.

AUTOISTS TO SEE HORSESHOE CURVE

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 8.—Automobile tourists will be able to see the Horseshoe Curve as one result of the road camp established at Kittanning Point by Governor Gifford Pinchot for unemployment relief.

Workers at the camp will be employed on a highway leading toward Kittanning Point, which has been sought for several years to permit tourists to reach the famous curve by automobile. There is now no improved highway to the place

The present construction plans call for completion of only a section of the highway extending to Glen White. From there to Kittanning Point the route will be changed somewhat and plans for this have not been completed.

You see, America must keep on collecting the war debts, else she can't get those fat commissions by lending Europe the money to pay them.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It
There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Coal Operators Have New Plans To Aid Industry

Must Halt Imports Of Coal From Foreign Countries To Provide Work Here

PLANS ADOPTED AT CONFERENCE

Consolidation Of Selling Units Will Banish Price Cutting In Industry

By SIDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8.—Western Pennsylvania coal operators today launched their newly adopted plan for stabilizing the bituminous coal industry through setting up of regional sales agencies and launching of a drive for prohibitive tariffs against foreign coal and reduced freight rates.

Consolidation of the selling units will banish price cutting, operators said, and as a result of a higher wage level may be paid to workers. Cessation of large foreign coal imports from England, Scotland, Russia and Germany would provide a greater market for the American product and relieve the stress of unemployment in the industry, operators declared.

Must Stop Imports

J. A. D. Morrow, President of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, who presided over the meeting of operators representing mining interests in Allegheny, Westmoreland, Fayette, Greene and Washington counties said that although merger of physical properties was believed to be the most pressing need of the industry, operators resorted to other measures because the necessary consolidation could not be effected in time to relieve the present depressed state of the mining industry.

Plans adopted at the conference follow in outline those recommended last December 3 at a meeting of national coal operators held in New York. The operators declared tariff legislation was necessary "to prevent further inroads in the coal industry of Pennsylvania from competition with foreign coal and oil." Setting up of the regional sales agencies was found necessary to combat the present price "demoralization" for bituminous coal."

Need Lower Rates

Operators argued that lowered freight rates would benefit carriers because tonnage would increase to a level sufficient to more than offset the decline in rates.

"Coal from England, Scotland, Russia and Germany is being offered at New York, Boston, Baltimore and other Atlantic tidewater ports at prices lower than the cost of freight on Western Pennsylvania coal to the same ports," Morrow said.

"Fuel oil from Venezuela, the West Indies and Central and South America is being offered at tidewater ports at prices about equal to the freight charges from Pittsburgh."

Morrow declared suspension of the gold standard in England amounted in effect to a 33 1-3 per cent cut in wages with like decreases in ocean freight transportation and production costs.

Hollywood Sees Entire Cast Of Human Oddities

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 8.—Bizarre Hollywood has had a new experience.

Human oddities who have headlined shows the world over assembled here for final scenes in a weird motion picture. This was the first time the entire cast has been brought together.

Among the collection were midgets, people with heads no larger than a man's fist, a man born without legs and arms, two beautiful young red haired women who were born joined together, a sword swallower, and a human skeleton who weighed less than 45 pounds.

Prince Randion, the man without arms and legs, said he was born in the West Indies more than 50 years ago. He declared he was married at the age of 6 in accordance with the custom of his country. He now has several children and eight grandchildren, all normal. He said he was studying law.

The "Siamese Twins" told how they were put in vaudeville during childhood by people who adopted them. They admitted they enjoyed show work now. Neither is married.

The three men with small heads, each more than 30 years old, were watched constantly to keep them from running away.

During the filming of one scene the sword swallower was forced to swallow a three and a half foot sword blade more than 40 times. This repetition was requested by the film director who made several changes in dialogue of other actors before he was satisfied with the scene.

MAN IS ACCUSED OF CHANGING HIS OLD AUTO PLATES

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8—Harold L. Sheldon of Harrisburg, was arrested today on a charge that he changed his 1931 automobile license plates with yellow paper and dark-blue paint so that they would resemble this year's tags. Sheldon displayed a notice that he said had been signed by a notary public in Harrisburg, and which purported to show he had applied and paid for his 1932 plates. These he said had been lost in the mail.

FRENCHMAN CLAIMS CREDIT FOR PERISCOPE

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The submarine periscope was not invented by Sir Howard Grubb, Englishman, as generally believed, but by a Frenchman, according to a statement made before the French Academy of Sciences.

M. Jean Rey, French inventor, claimed that he himself conceived the first periscope and that it was used aboard the French submarine Gymnote, in 1891. At that time, he asserted, England had no underwater craft and the British government disapproved of them.

M. Rey attributed the perfection of the marine periscope to another Frenchman, Jules Carpentier, who constructed his model in 1897. He concluded by saying that other nations have since copied the principle of the Carpentier periscope.

Modern Girl Is Wonderful, Says U. Of C. Matron

Claims They Become More Charming And Efficient Yearly

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Geo. S. Goodspeed, white-haired matron of Ida Noyes hall for women at the University of Chicago, is not a product of the "jazz" era but she thinks there is nothing bad about the modern college girl.

"Every year the girls become more charming, more practical, more efficient and more wonderful," she declared.

Mrs. Goodspeed first came to the Midway in 1892 as the wife of a professor in religion and ancient history. Her husband died in 1905. In 1916 she was made matron of the girl's home.

"People who say there is anything bad about the modern girl are just looking for trouble," Mrs. Goodspeed continued. "Here, we've enjoyed letting the girls' feel we can trust them. (In spite of its dignity and adherence to what the girls call 'Gothic manner' we've trier to keep Iva Noyes hall more like home for them.

"For example, I see no objection to a girl's smoking. If she wants to, she has as much right as a man. About two years ago we discussed the matter and I put it up to the girls.

"We then designated two rooms on the second floor and two on the third in which girls may smoke."

Mrs. Goodspeed likes the present code much better, she said. There was a time when drums were not allowed in a dance orchestra because they were too rough. Card playing was taboo at the university for eight years prior to 1924.

"Why, in the early days," she added, "a girl could not cross the campus with her shirt-waist sleeve rolled up."

CITY HAS TAX ON ALL OCCUPATIONS

MORTON, Wash., Jan. 8.—"What's your business?" is a proper question in this Washington town.

The city council has passed an ordinance levying taxes on occupations. Lawyers, doctors and dentists pay $5; butcher shops, oil stations and small shops are assessed $10; banks, theatres and large stores pay $15 and pool halls will return $100.

Even the postmaster is not exempt. He pays $5.

SWICK TO VOTE FOR HOOVER BILL

Will Favor Reconstruction Finance Corporation Bill In House

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—Representative Howard J. Swick will vote for the two billion dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation bill when that measures reaches the house of representatives.

Conceived by President Hoover and introduced into the senate, the bill would place at the disposal of banks, insurance companies, steam railroads and other financial institutions about two billion dollars in credit. It is being looked to by politicians and financiers alike as an agent which may go far toward releasing frozen assets and restoring confidence.

"I am," said Representative Swick in referring to his attitude toward the reconstruction corporation, "in favor of anything which will help the banks of the country. I feel an emergency exists and believe in expediting constructive legislation."

Mr. Swick is not as yet ready to make any comment on tariff revision or the tariff plan proposed by the Democrats. He said that he felt some tariff changes should be made but that he would prefer to take no definite stand until he had given the question more study.

BARS MEXICAN DIVORCE

LANSING, Mich.—Mexican divorces are of no value in Michigan, Paul W. Voorhies attorney general, holds in an opinion addressed to John L. Zurbich, inspector of immigration at Detroit. It points out that the State of Sonora, Mexico, where most of the divorces obtained by Americans are issued, reqiures no residence before application for a decree. Because of this, Vocheis holds, the documents should be ignored in this state.

ONE CO-ED'S HOBBY IS TRAINING STAR FISH

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 8.—Miss Ruth Haaf, San Diego State college student claims the strangest co-ed hobby. She trains star fish.

It would surprise collectors of sea curios who have dried and stuffed starfish on their mantels to know that Miss Haaf is able to teach the five-pointed creatures to turn cartwheels, do the cake-walk and march around like a squad of soldiers at drill.

"Star fish are apt pupils," Miss Haaf said. "Teaching them is fascinating. Star fish are a good deal like men. The way to their hearts is through their stomachs.

"They are very fond of oysters," the girl scientist explained. "They will perform almost any of the simple tricks I teach them in order to get a nice plump bivalve."

The star fish at dinner is an interesting sight. He stands up on the tips of his five arms, or legs and straddles the oyster. Then the star fish clutches the shells with his tube-like appendages and after opening the "valve" eats the oyster with great relish. He asks no lemon or tabasco sauce with his meal.

When a gangster dies from bullets the coroner can at least attribute the death to natural causes. —The Columbus, Ohio, State Journal.

HOSPITAL

Did you ever stop to think what the word hospital means? If you haven't, let me define it for you. It is closely related to the words hospitable and hospitality. Hospitable means receiving and entertaining friends or strangers. Hospital means an institution for caring for the sick. Hospitality means the practice of entertaining friends and strangers with kindness and liberality. Now, I think this clearly shows the true character and spirit of the donor of the Jameson Memorial Hospital, the late David Jameson. He loved his fellow man and surely wanted us to have a wonderful institution. So we can show our hospitality to our fellow man when sickness overtakes him, whether he be rich or poor. Folks there is a deficit of around $60,000 existing at the present and it must be wiped out. I feel sure we're going to take care of it nobly this time. We've got a pretty good bunch of fellows as directors of the hospital and I feel they will cut expenses to the bone, so they won't have to ask us for money very soon again.

Let's change the subject, and talk about eats, Bill Kerber got a fine lot of baby lambs this week in the country and some nice corn fed pigs. They're mighty nice and I want you to observe my prices on pigs and lambs, also my prices on the best beef we've ever had in our market.

Sparks From New Castle Motor Club

Average Of One Gas Station To Nearly Every Mile Of State Highway

There is an average of one gasoline station to nearly every mile of State highway throughout the country, according to Ralph W. Bolsinger, President of the New Castle Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Bolsinger bases his statement on an estimated total of some 210,826 outlets for fuels and lubricants reported to A. A. A. National Headquarters by the U. S. Bureau of the Census and a total of approximately 225,000 miles of State highways.

"The total number of outlets selling automobile fuels and lubricants," he continued, "consists of 123,979 filling stations, 53,081 garages, 743 parking stations, 1,146 combination garages and parking stations and an estimated total of 31,877 dealers in automotive products selling fuels and lubricants. Of this total 210,826,178,949 are listed as strictly outlets for gasoline and oil and their total net sales for 1929 is placed at $2,506,015,489."

Pointing out that Ohio has the largest number of filling stations, the A. A. A. club executive quoted the census report as follows:

"Ohio appears to have the largest number of filling stations selling only fuels and lubricants, 4,042. California is second, with 3,340. Texas has the largest number of filling stations selling also tires and accessories, 3,328, with California, 3,275, again second. Pennsylvania holds first place, with 3,039 filling stations selling other merchandise and maintaining lunch counters but New York is a close second, with 3,003. New York leads in garages handling fuels and lubricants, 4,938, and Pennsylvania is second, with 3,940. New York is first also in the parking station field, with 189."

Gasoline Tax May Not Be Deducted

Under the new method of collecting gasoline tax in effect in Pennsylvania since June 1, the three-cent a gallon tax is levied upon the distributor and not the consumer.

In preparing income tax forms for 1931, motorists are advised that the Federal Income Tax Department has ruled that the tax now paid on gasoline is not deductible from Income Tax returns.

Purchases made during the first five months of 1931 under the old act, however, may be deducted.

Warm Engine Before Using

Sputtering motors and groaning starters are a warning to the automobile drivers to allow more time for warming up the engine before launching into traffic.

Premature dependence upon the motor to put the car safely through the test of modern traffic is an increasing cause of accidents. The motorist tries to jump into the traffic stream only to have the stalling, hesitant engine divert his attention.

The New Castle Motor Club points out that the car should not be driven from its parking space until the engine is ready to work. Power is performance and performance is essential to safety. Frequently when the engine stalls in traffic the driver will allow the car to coast along while he takes his eyes off the road to look down at the starter-button. Even if he continues to look ahead he is not likely to be as attentive to his driving as he is to the business of starting the engine.

Cold engines can be a source of concern to other users of the streets. If the car ahead suddenly slows down with a stalled engine, brakes have to be applied with equal suddenness. A rear-end collision may be the result.

Are you a safe driver? Then you'll want safety. Make night driving safe. Are you prepared for Winter driving?

A Personal Message To New Castle Motorists

This is the season of the year when driving conditions are especially bad. The hazards increase on all streets.

In spite of the regulations and their continued enforcement by our officers, the number of accidents continue to mount. Figures for the year 1931 are yet incomplete, of course, but in eleven months there were more accidents, fatalities and injured than in the twelve months of 1930.

Hence, this personal request that our New Castle motorists drive more carefully during the winter months. That they strictly observe the traffic regulations.

Above all, cease guessing! Don't takes chances! Keep cars mechanically perfect and under control, so that they may be able to stop in the clear distance ahead. Thus cooperate with the State and Local authorities in lessening the dangers to yourself and others.

First Presbyterian To Receive Members And Serve Communion

On Sabbath morning the First Presbyterian church will observe the Holy Communion, and publically receive new members. The chorus choir which sang at the Christmas season will assist in the service.

Preparatory services have been held all week with visiting ministers asisting the pastor. This evening, Rev. William L. Wishart, the newly elected pastor of the church Sharon, will be the preacher. Rev. Wishart was a school mate of Dr. W. E. McClure during college days.

At the Sunday evening service the chorus will again sing, the pastor will preach on The Jewish Passover, and its relation to the Lord's Supper. The communion elements will again be passed for any who were unable to attend the morning service.

Scientifically Purer...

Something every smoker wants to know!

• Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke.

"Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette.

Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor.

The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette.

In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes. More purity!

Notice, too, the clean, white, attractive package... moisture-proof. Chesterfields come to you as good and as pure as they're made. Good... they've got to be good! Change to Chesterfields and see.

Fire Trucks, Police Cars Ambulances Get Right Of Way

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—Motorists are required by law to relinquish right of way to any police or fire department vehicle or ambulance answering an emergency call, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, State unit of the American Automobile Association, pointed out today in outlining what drivers should do when they hear the bell or siren of an emergency vehicle. At the same time the Federation called attention to the section of the law that requires operators of fire and police department apparatus to regard the safety of all users of the highway, even when answering an emergency call.

"Firemen in various parts of the state complain that motorists in many instances fail to give them the right of way and, at times, actually hamper them in responding to calls", said S. Edward Gable, president of the motorist organization. "This should not be, for lives and property are jeopardized by even the slightest delay in fire apparatus or an ambulance responding to an emergency call." Mr. Gable quoted the law as follows:—

Upon the approach of any police or fire department vehicle or ambulance, giving audible signal, the driver of every other vehicle shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible, and parallel to, the right-hand edge or curb of the highway, clear of any intersection of highways, and shall stop and remain in such position, unless otherwise directed by a peace officer, until the police or fire department vehicle or ambulance shall have passed. * * * It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle, other than one on official business, to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than five hundred feet, or to drive into or park such vehicle within the block where fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm.

"In other words, the law demands that motorists get out of the way so that emergency apparatus can pass without delay and in safety," the Federation head explained. "In addition it provides that motorists must not let idle curiosity get the better of them and speed along in the tracks of the fire apparatus or ambulance. On the other hand, accidents occure from time to time as the result of the driver of an ambulance or fire apparatus taking unnecessary chances. This is contrary to law, for the same statute that grants right of way to police and fire department vehicles and ambulances answering emergency calls also sets forth that 'this provision shall not operate to relieve the driver of a police or fire department vehicle or ambulance from the duty with due regard for the safety of all persons using the highway, nor shall it protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequence of an arbitrary exercise of such right of way.'"

Mr. Gable also pointed out that the motor code as amended by the 1931 regular session of the Legislature makes "every city, borough, incorporated town and township jointly and severally liable with any member of a volunteer fire company for any damage caused by the negligence of such member while operating a motor vehicle used by or belonging to such volunteer fire company while going to, attending or returning from a fire, or while engaged in any other proper use of such motor vehicle." The amended code also makes it lawful, he explained, for fire company and fire patrol apparatus to display a red light on the front thereof, previously it having been illegal to display a red light on the front of any vehicle.

200 WILL RETURN TO FACTORY JOBS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 8.—Two hundred employes of Joseph Bennett & Co., manufacturers of men's trousers, will be called back to work before the end of the month, it was announced yesterday. Activity of buyers has given officials confidence that during February, March and April capacity production will be necessary. The plant has been idle for several weeks.

POLICE ARE TO USE "KID GLOVE" METHODS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 8.—Uniontown police officers will use "kid gloves" instead of "iron hand" methods, if they follow the instructions of Mayor William C. Hatfield, who yesterday called a meeting of officers.

The new mayor told members of the police force that far more could be accomplished in the general enforcement of laws by courtesy than by the use of too much authority. Mayor Hatfield says he will not disclose the names of the three men whose resignation he has demanded until final action is taken by them.

TEACHERS FACE CUT IN SALARIES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 8.—Facing a shortage of $100,000 the school board of Unitown, yesterday asked teachers to accept a 25 per cent salary reduction. Members of the school board declared that they were unable to meet the present salaries and unless the teachers agreed to a reduction it would be necessary to close all schools. At the present rate it is estimated that the salaries for the remainder of the term would total $197,220.

P. R. R. Man, Hurt At Shop, Better

Nick Rainey, 9 Darlington street, Seventh ward, Pennsylvania railroad shop employee, was recovering today from hand injuries sustained at the Pennsy's car shop here a few days ago.

The third finger of Rainey's left hand was amputated after it had been crushed in an accident at the shop.

The case was the first reportable accident for the E. and A. division this year. A reportable case is where the employee is disabled for three or more days.

Install Officers Of O. R. C. Thursday

Railroad Conductors' Auxiliary Has Installation Dinner In Afternoon

After a dinner, attended by a large number of the Ladies' Auxiliary members to the Order of Railroad Conductors, the installation of officers took place Thursday afternoon at the City Hall.

The new officers had been elected a short time ago, to serve during 1932. They have now taken over the offices and will have charge of the regular semi-monthly meetings for the rest of the year.

Aside from the members there was one special guest, Mrs. Dempsey, of Youngstown, O.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. Ed. Foster, Mrs. C. M. Thompson and Mrs M. R. Olmstead.

K. J. U. Class Has Enjoyable Meeting

Monthly Meeting Of Organization Takes Place At Horchler Home

Mrs. Raymond Horchler, of Clayton street, entertained members of the K. J. U. class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church Thursday evening. Sixteen guests were present and enjoyed an evening of games and social chat.

Special guests of the affairs were Mrs. R. M. McNutt and her sister, Pearl Elmer. The latter is from Station Island, N. Y.

Youngster games were enjoyed after the business meeting. Later delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be in February with Mrs. F. W. Guy, North Liberty street.

Observations In 7th Ward

Do you know that: Jacob Prater has a fine crop of green onions in his Wabash avenue garden. . . . Roses almost in bloom are to be seen on a bush in the same garden. . . . Thieves broke into the Stitzinger chicken coop on Cherry street the other day and stole the feed. . . . Young men who started from here to join the unemployment parade got as far as Pittsburgh and changed their minds. . . . The tube railing around the Methodist church serves as an excellent athletic bar for the youngsters. . . . Constable Joe Russo is on the job now. . . . Not one case yet since the new constable came into office according to Alderman Coates. . . . Five army airplanes passed over the ward yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. . . . Another plane passed over noisily at 1:00 p. m. . . . The Mahoning library was established some four years ago. . . . It was the first branch of the city public library. . . . The lady who dropped her purse in the trolley car has it once more. . . . Bob Stewart, former constable of seventh ward, is guarding school property over the city now. . . . It has become quite a mystery as to why the truck is hauling the row boat over Cherry street so often. . . . New Castle now has a pigeon racing club. . . . Tom Turner of North Cedar street is a member.

TROOP 4 SCOUTS

Troop 4 Boy Scouts had its regular meeting Tuesday evening January 5 from 7 to 9 o'clock. After the regular drill the patrols went to their different patrol rooms where they planned a program. There was only time for two of the patrols to put on their program. They were planned and carried out well by the boys who took part.

The boys then lined up and taps were blown by the bugler. This was followed by benediction and the dismissal of the Scouts.

Delaware County Judge To Decide In Big Tax Suit

Pennsylvania Seeks To Collect $31,000,000 From Late Dr. Dorrances Estate

(International News Service)

MEDIA, Pa., Jan. 8—Outcome of the commonwealth's inheritance tax suit to collect more than $31,000,000 from the estate of the late Dr. Jno. T. Dorrance former president of the Campbell Soup Company rested in the hands of Judge John B. Hannum, Sr., in Delaware county court today. The jurist indicated it will be some time before a decision will be handed down in the case, which required months to complete.

Councel for the commonwealth sought to establish the fact that Dorrance was a citizen of Pennsylvania, in order to collect on his Pennsylvania estate, valued at $115,000,000. Defense counsel contended Dr. Dorrance was a citizen of the state of New Jersey and therefore not taxable in Pennsylvania.

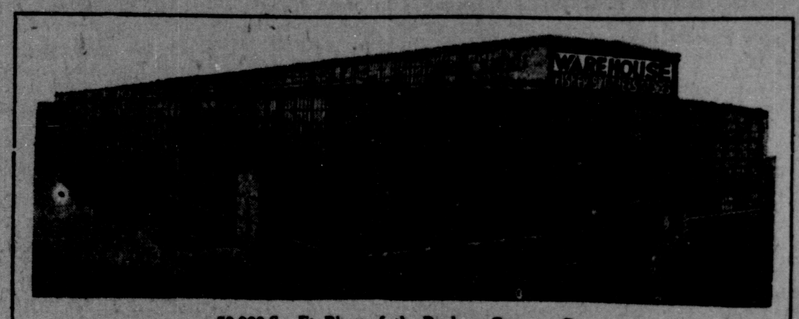
BUCKEYE COMPANY CLOSED



50,000 Sq. Ft. Plant of the Buckeye Garment Co.

Operation of the Manufacturing Division of The Fisher Bros. Chain Is Suspended

All operation at the Buckeye Garment Co., one of the largest garment manufacturing company in the mid-eastern states and located at New Castle, Pennsylvania, has been suspended. This great factory which when built housed the largest cutting table in the world, will be closed for an indefinite period, it was announced by the executives of Fisher Bros.

When questioned by reporters, Mr. Orville Brown, attorney for the company said:

"Fisher Bros. have always favored the maintenance of the high wage scale and the reductions they have made in salaries is perhaps less than those made by any other representative chain. But today the tremendous scaling down of wages that is prevalent in the eastern manufacturing markets has been so severe that like reductions would be necessary in order to compete. This was decided against."

Mr. Michael Fisher, President of both companys said: "Fisher Bros. Stores and the Buckeye Garment Co. are the same corporation. Our employes of both divisions have always received equal consideration. Therefore we felt if we cut one division we would have to cut both and since it was neither necessary or advisable for us to reduce salary in the retail stores we would be better off to suspend the manufacturing branch until Eastern scales again return to a living wage. We will in the immediate future take advantage of the eastern market as our source of supply and dispose of the entire "Buckeye" stock in Fisher Bros. stores by a large sale event."

Council Joins In Protest On Depot Moving

Passes Resolution On P. & L. E. Railroad Project Here

Council convened today in the city building and adopted a resolution whereby the city will join with citizens protest to the public service commission against the P. & L. E. railroad's request for permission to abandon railroad passenger service between the Erie railroad station, Gardner avenue and New Castle Junction. The resolution also asked the railroad to take on and discharge passengers on the main line at or near the B. & O. railroad station, seventh ward.

When council met, Mayor Mayne was in the chair and all members present. Attorney Charles Davis addressed council, stating that in the absence of Attorney Wallace he had prepared a resolution in accordance with the views of citizens and Councilman Genkinger who several days ago suggested a request be made that the P. & L. E. railroad arrange to make a stop on the main line in the seventh ward.

The resolution, in effect, addressed to the public service commission, said that discontinuance of railroad passenger service between the Erie railroad station, Gardner avenue and New Castle junction is opposed by citizens, business organizations and council and would prove an inconvenience. A continuation of service it was stated in the resolution, would best serve the citizens.

The resolution further requested that the P. & L. E. establish a 'stop' at or near the present B. & O. station. The resolution was favorably adopted on motion of Councilman Genkinger.

One hearing has already been held by the commission on the application of the railroad to abandon passenger service. A public meeting was held in the courthouse, here, recently.

Council then was requested to join in the fight and the request met with the passage of the resolution today, a copy of which will be forwarded to the public service commission.

Council Exempts Church Property

Assessor Bion Cover today reported to council which met in the City building, that property at 101 North Cedar street is used for religious purposes and should be exempted from taxation. The council authorized the exemption. The request was made for exemption by Right Rev. H. C. Boyle, St. Lucy's church. Property used for religious purposes is exempted from taxation by state law.

In Religious and Fraternal Circles

King's Daughters

The Randolph Circle of the King's Daughters of the First Methodist church met for luncheon in the church dining room Thursday and then proceeded with the monthly business meeting.

Mrs. Ira Campbell presided and encouraging reports were given from the various committees.

Mrs. W. O. Mayberry was in charge of the program for the afternoon, which was most interesting.

Announcement was made that Mrs. D. Edward Salter of Franklin will speak in the church Sunday morning, under the auspices of the Circle.

February 4 will mark the date of the next Church day, at which time the Circle will meet again.

Section Meeting

Section C of the Y. L. B. class of the Third United Presbyterian church met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Clyde Wick, Huron avenue, with Mrs. H. A. Anderson in charge of the devotional opening, and business session.

After the business routine a social time was enjoyed, with Mrs. Will Smock assisting the hostess.

February 4 the section will meet at the home of Mrs. Will Smock, Arlington avenue.

Philathea Meeting

The Philathea Missionary Society of the Central Presbyterian church had its January meeting Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. S. P. Tindall, 1618 Huron avenue, with Mrs. J. C. Lewis leading the opening devotionals.

Missionary topics were discussed during the program hour, with Mrs. Benjamin Jenkins discussing the home topic, "National Missions" and Mrs. Edwin Fry the foreign topic, "China."

Miss Alice Sterling had the mission study class and the various phases of the lesson were interestingly discussed by Mrs. John Atkinson, Mrs. George W. Conway and Mrs. George Lyon.

Special guests were Mrs. Elizabeth Spence and Mrs. C. B. Wingerd.

During the social hour the associate hostesses, Mrs. George Lyon and Mrs. W. R. Book, aided Mrs. Tindall in serving refreshments.

February 4 will mark the date of the next regular meeting.

First Congregational

The members of the First Congregational church are observing this week as a week of prayer, and this evening at 7:30 the Rev. Charles W. Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church, will be the guest speaker.

Iretta Dart Class.

Members of the Iretta Dart class of the First Christian church had a most delightful and hilarious time Thursday evening when they met at the home of Mrs. John Clark on South Ray street for their regular monthly meeting, which was in the form of a "hat" party.

When each member arrived she carried with her a mysterious package, these being placed in a convenient place. At conclusion of the business routine, which was conducted by Mrs. Robert Clarke, the packages were brought forward and sold and when opened, all manner and styles of headgear were displayed and the women donned the chapeaux, much to the merriment of the others, and all evening wore their purchases.

Mrs. Robert Clarke assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

February 11 was chosen as the next meeting date, and a Valentine party will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Osborne, Highland avenue, with Mrs. Mary Workman as associate hostess.

Name Officers

The Ladies Aid Society of the Bethany Lutheran church met in the church dining room Thursday, with a luncheon at noon, followed by a business meeting, at which time officers for the new year were named.

Mrs. U. S. Choens was again selected president, Mrs. Freda Morgan, vice president, Mrs. Charles Thompson, secretary, and Mrs. A. T. Lucas, treasurer.

Routine matters were discussed and plans talked over for the coming months.

February 4 will mark the dates of the next business session.

Luther League Meets

Members of the Luther League of the Bethany Lutheran church met Thursday evening in the church with Marlett Springer in the chair.

The annual business meeting was held and reports for the year were given by the treasurer, secretary, and committee chairman, after which an election of officers was held.

Marlett Springer was again chosen for the presidency; Frank Otto, vice president; Mr. Eugene Reynolds, secretary and Miss Marie Lehman, treasurer.

Plans were made for taking charge of the Sunday morning church service on January 28, and other plans for the year were tentatively spoken of.

February 4 will mark the date of the next business meeting.

Dorcass Class Meets

Members of the Dorcas class of the Central Christian church were delightfully entertained Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Harry Redmand, Harrison street. Mrs. Ralph Hawk is teacher of the class.

The new officers were installed and Mrs. Phillip Wink took the chair for the transaction of routine business. At roll call twenty-four members responded with verses of scripture. Three new members, Mrs. Sadie Reeder, Mrs. Raymond Black and Ruth Shaffer, were welcomed.

A social time was enjoyed and Mrs. Isaac Davis was aide to the hostess in serving refreshments.

February 4 Mrs. Harry Critchlow, South Mill street, will entertain the class, with Mrs. David Nelson as associate.

Officers Meet

The old and new officers of the Ever Ready class of the First Methodist church met Thursday evening at the home of Kathryn Mayberry, Graceland road to plan the work of the class for the coming months.

Committees were appointed for the various phases of the class work, after which a social period ensued and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The February meeting of the class will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Brunton, Wallace avenue.

Guild Meets

The Guild of the First Methodist church was in charge of the luncheon Thursday in the church dining room, which is a regular feature of the monthly church day, when the various organizations meet.

Concluding luncheon a business meeting of the members was held with Mrs. W. L. Beal in the chair. Plans were furthered for the serving of the Victory Luncheon on January 16 in the dining room of the church.

Other matters of routine business were taken up and discussed and the meeting adjourned for a month, when the members will again meet on church day.

Queen Esthers

The America Queen Esthers of the First Methodist church met Thursday evening in the home of Esther Jane Caven, Edison avenue, with Miss Mary Nunn presiding.

Miss Ethelyn Douthett took charge of the program. "Negroes" and the work among the Freedmen was the topic of discussion and a pleasant diversion was created when a quintet of colored girls appeared and sang several spirituals.

A period of games completed the program for the evening and refreshments were served by Margaret Wallace and her group.

February 4 the girls will meet with Mrs. Miller Henley, Centennial street.

Missionary Meeting

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met in the church Thursday at 2 p. m., following the regular church day luncheon.

Mrs. J. C. Miner presided at the business session and Mrs. Margaret Shields gave a splendid talk on the work that is being done among the Indians. She told of the various mission stations and the part the local society has in their upkeep.

Mrs. W. R. Wallace read a leaflett on "Challenge of Change", which was written by Mrs. W. H. Good the national president.

Plans were completed for a bake sale on January 16 after which the women adjourned the meeting, to assemble again February 4 on the regular church day.

Junior Party

Miss Beulah Magruder, deaconess of the First Methodist church, and a committee of helpers, will entertain the members of the junior church missionary club at a party this afternoon from 4:30 to 6, in the church.

Jerusalem Lutheran Church

Rev. Oscar Woods, pastor of Jerusalm Lutheran church, near Princeton, announces the services for Sunday, January 10.

There will be Sunday school at 1 p. m., followed by worship service and Holy Communion at 2 p. m.

Baptist Missionary.

Section three and section six of the Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. William Aiken and Mrs. G. E. Stetson are the leaders, maintained the high record of interesting programs, when they were in charge of the meeting Thursday afternoon in the church.

Mrs. Jesse McCommon led the devotional opening and read a poem, "Make a Better Christian of Me," and a session of business routine ensued after which a White Cross demonstration was given.

Those taking part were Mrs. George Stetson, Mrs. Fred Howland, Mrs. Arthur McClain, Mrs. Wallie Davis, Mrs. Harry Remley, Mrs. Balint Kish and Mrs. Bert McKibben. The artistic ship which they used in the production was made by Stanley Reese.

Mrs. Stetson introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Miss Sally Botham, who is in America after 15 years' service in the mission fields of Africa, and her story of her work there and the intense need of Christian workers was most inspiring. She cited the results of education and civilization without Christianity and brought out most vividly the real meaning of sacrifice.

A delightful surprise was given by the ladies' Hawaiian orchestra, directed by Mrs. S. J. Callahan, when they furnished music during the afternoon.

Sections four and five will have charge of the program for February.

Deacons' Dinner.

The bi-monthly meeting of the deacons of the First Baptist church was held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock in the church dining room, with the deaconesses and the deacons' wives as guests.

A delicious menu was served from the tureens brought by the women and at conclusion of dinner a business session was held, at which time plans for the welfare of the church were discussed.

Wesleyan Revival.

Evangelis A. T Robertson preached a masterful sermon on the theme "Redemption", Thursday evening in the Wesleyan Methodist church on Lyndal street, where a series of revival meetings is being held.

There was a splendid response to the altar call and services will be held Saturday evening and every night next week, beginning at 7:30.

Wesley Society

Members of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Wesley Methodist church met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. M. K. Cox, West Washington street, with Mrs. W. H. Pattison presiding.

At the business session plans were made to send a box to the Ruth M. Smith home. Mrs William Britton and Mrs. Margaret Grittie were named to make arrangements for an Easter play.

Mrs. Margaret Chill and Mrs. Margaret Grittie pleased with a vocal duet.

During the social period refreshments were served by the hostess and her daughter, Myrtle.

February 4, Mrs. Lenore Raymond, Scotland Lane, will receive the members.

Section E Meeting

Members of Section E of the Y. L. B. class of the Third United Presbyterian church were most graciously received Thursday evening in the home of Miss Clara Zehner, Butler avenue, with ten present.

Devotionals and a brief business session were followed by a social hour, which closed with the serving of a dainty lunch.

Willing Workers Class

Mrs. Mary Edmunds and Mrs. Mary Jones were associate hostesses with Mrs. William Bluedorn Thursday evening, when they received the members of the Willing Workers' class of the Emanuel Baptist church in the Bluedorn home.

The evening began with a brief business session after which the women had a sociable evening, concluding with most delicious refreshments.

February 4 the class will meet at the home of Mrs. George Marshall, East Reynolds street.

Class Meeting

The O. B. A. class of the Central Christian church met in regular monthly session Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Walls on Cecil avenue. The new class officers presided, and committees were appointed to take charge of social functions during 1932.

As special guests, the members had Mrs. Robert Vietch and twin children, Robert and Roberta who are visiting from Pittsburgh.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Glass.

Section F Meets

Mrs. James Kennedy, 1715 East Washington street, received the members of section F of the Y. L. B. class of the Third United Presbyterian church in her home Thursday evening.

Mrs. William Fullerton was in charge of the business period, when matters of a routine nature were taken up.

Mrs. Edna Mershimer assisted the hostess in serving refreshments during the social hour.

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors of America has been postponed until Friday evening, Jan. 15.

$93,101,050 ROAD WORK

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Canada.—A total of $93,101,050 was spent on the construction and maintenance of highways, roads, bridges, and ferries for vehicular traffic in Canada during 1930, according to an official report just issued. Of this total $69,988,233 was spent on construction and $23,102,617 on maintenance. The total road mileage in the Dominion at the end of 1930 was 394,372, of which 80,497 miles were surfaced highway. The mileage of gravel road was 71,347. The revenues from motor vehicles amounted to $20,166,283. This was derived from the sale of licenses and the tax on gasoline, which is five cents per gallon throughout the Dominion.

Man Injured When Auto Strikes Him

Taken To His Home By Driver Of The Machine That Struck Him

Lewis Wittman of East North St. street was severely injured on the left side this morning, as he was crossing Apple Way, when struck by the car of George Hawk, 202 Englewood avenue, which had been going east on Washington street, and was making a left turn into Apple Way.

Mr. Hawk did not see the man until he was right on him and his brakes were on when the car struck Mr. Wittman, and pushed him over. Hr. Hawk desired to send the injured man to the hospital, but he declined to be sent and was taken to his own home by his own request.

Mrs. J. V. Funkhouser, of 808 North Mercer street, reported Thursday that she was enroute north on the South Mill street bridge following a car bearing Pennsylvania license 4J147. This car turned to the left but gave no sign of its intention, according to Mrs. Funkhouser. She blew her horn in warning and the other car stopped but she was unable to avoid it and ran into it. Some damage was done.

Mothers' Club Has Election Thursday

Mrs. Margaret Casacchia Is President Of Italian Mother's Club

Election of new officers took place Thursday evening when members of the Italian Mother's Club met in the International Institute office of the Y. W. C. A.

Election results were: president, Mrs. Margaret Casacchia; vice president, Mrs. Antoinnette DeLorenzo; secretary, Mrs. Ella Campoli; treasurer, Mrs. Ida Montozzi and chairman of the social committee Mrs. Josephine Landolf.

A program committee was also appointed consisting of Mrs. Rose Colella, Mrs. Mary DiRobbio and Mrs. Nick Frasso.

It was decided to meet once a month at 7:30 p. m. in the International Institute office on every first Thursday.

The club was recently organized but already has twenty members and each is working for a much larger membership. The year's program will be commenced by taking up a course in hygiene on February 4.

Reception Is Held At High

Senior B. Class Plays Host To Departing Seniors Thursday Night

With the class colors flaunting throughout the corridor of the senior high school Thursday night, the senior A class which graduates late this month enjoyed a reception tendered them by the members of the senior B class. Robert Ailey, president of the senior B class, was in charge of the event.

The main diversion of the evening was dancing. Other pastimes included fortune telling by the Misses Florence Brownstein and Florence Jenkins, members of the faculty, and bingo. The merry making started at 8 o'clock and terminated at 11:30 o'clock. During the evening Helen Pozzuto featured with several musical selections.

Peggy Prowitt was in charge of the social committee, Irene Rice was at the head of the decorating committee and John Wilson was in charge of the tickets. Blue and white colors representing the senior A class and red and white colors representing the senior B class predominated the corridor.

Miss Edith E. Birchard is the faculty supervisor of the class.

BROTHERS ON SAME GUNCREW OF SHIP

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 8—When the after gun crew of the U. S. Concord sweeps into action Gunners Clarence and Orval Slagenwhite of Binghamton, form an unusual pair.

They boast that they believe they are the only set of brothers assigned to the same ship in the entire Navy.

Brother Clarence points the gun. Brother Orval loads it.

Contrary to usual traditions—there really is brotherly love. Brother Clarence hates to give orders to brother Orval, but then brother Orval doesn't mind taking them.

Alas! When you overdo the job of squeezing water out of stocks, they no longer qualify as liquid assets.

Lack Of Funds Now Being Felt In Poor Office

Facing a shortage of funds in the poor department, Poor Director M. B. Hogue is scaling down orders issued to the lowest point possible. Few new cases are being taken on, and then only after a complete investigation. Many of those who apply for orders state their willingness to work for the money if any work is provided. If the county commissioners decide to excavate the court house basement, work can be provided for a number who are now receiving orders. The county is arranging to borrow $20,000 early next week, as funds will be exhausted this week.

FINISH SCENIC HIGHWAY

(International News Service)

ROCKPORT, Tex.—Completion of the last section of the Hug-the-Coast highway through Aransas county has provided an important link in one of Texas' finest highways. Near the road may be seen ruins of the old town of Lamar, one of the State's earliest settlements. It passes near the home site of Governor Smith, first provisional governor of Texas, and through the town of Fulton where Texas' first meat packing industries were established. The completed highway will follow the Gulf from Orange to Brownsville.

MOTORISTS GENTLY TREATED IN SHANGHAI

(International News Service)

PEIPING, Jan. 8.—The American consular court at Shanghai must be given the palm as the friend of the errant motorist. Witness the case of Victor Haimovitch, citizen of the United States, hailed into the consular court charged with driving at an excessive speed: driving at the wrong side of the street: passing other cars in the same direction; and failing to renew his driving license.

Plaintiff pleaded not guilty to one charge while admitting the other three. Fine: three American dollars. Three other Americans were found guilty of parking cars on Nanking road during prohibited hours and were each fined one dollar.

Six In Erie Are Sent To Prison

Judge William E. Hirt, Sentences Six Young Men To Prison Terms

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 8.—Six men today were under sentence to prison terms after pleas of guilty before Judge William E. Hirt here.

Frank Fischer, 25, formerly of Kane, and Domenick Palmero, 21, of Erie, were sentenced to serve from two to four years in Allegheny county workhouse. They were members of a trio who slugged and robbed Peter Peuch of Key club Nov. 1. The third member was shot to death by Detroit police when cornered in a home there.

Fred Holmes, 26, nabbed in Jersey City, N. J., after he robbed Raymond McVoy, December 20, was given a similar term in the workhouse.

James Sullen, 31, of Wattsburg, was sentenced to from one to two years in the workhouse after he admitted entering a vacant house in Wattsburg and stealing two stoves and a mattress. An accomplice, Arthur Whipple, 42, of Wattsburg, was paroled.

Maurice J. Davis, 27, of Blair, O., charged with stealing $100 from a lunchroom where he was employed, was sent to the workhouse for from six months to a year. Davis surrendered in Buffalo.

Merle Cross, 22, of Union City, charged with assault with intent to rob in connection with a filling station holdup, was given a term of eight months in the workhouse.

W. R. York, 25, of Conneaut, O., was sentenced to 15 days in county prison after pleading guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated.

STRESEMANN MONUMENT NOT YET ALL PAID FOR

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—The German people have not been able to pay for a memorial to one of the greatest post-war leaders, Gustav Stresemann, former foreign minister and champion of peace and understanding with France.

The German People's party to which Stresemann belonged, is now passing the hat to collect $1,200 to pay off the remainder of the indebtedness incurred for construction of the memorial at Mayence. It was built on credit.

The monument was unveiled this summer with the then foreign minister, Dr. Julius Curtius, as principal speaker.

MEMBERSHIP GOAT IS MEAN; WHO WANTS HIM?

(International News Service)

PALATKA, Fla., Jan. 8.—A goat! A mean, ornery, live goat! It is the membership goat of the Florida department of the American Legion and the big question is "Who gets the goat?"

According to Howard Rowton, department adjutant, the aforesaid membership goat will be shipped, express collect, every 15 days, to the department vice commander with the lowest percentage in his district. None will be immune from acquiring the goat until their membership quota is attained.

SUGGESTS TWO YEAR STRIKE OF WRITERS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Charging seventy-five per cent of present-day novelists are "writing muck," Ralph Straus, British author, suggested a close season for writers at a luncheon here.

"Let's have something like a two years' silence," Author Straus said. "To have no new books for two years would stem this appalling outpoint. Everybody is writing today, and most of them are doing so because they have nothing else to do."

Most Mice Are Nice Mice; Women's Antipathy Silly

* * * * * * *

University Medical Student, Who Experimented With 160 Mice, Says Terror Inspired by Tiny Rodents Is Old-fashioned.

MISS KATHERINE G. WATSON.

Having lived with 160 mice for over a week, Miss Katherine G. Watson, of Rossville, Ill., post-graduate student at New York University, is in a position to give an authoritative opinion on the manners and customs of the little rodents that have struck terror into female hearts since the world began. Miss Watson, who used the mice in an experiment to determine the effect of exercise in warding off the colds to which human beings are annoyingly susceptible, scoffs at the traditional fear that the sight of a mouse inspires in woman. When a big strapping Amazon allows herself to be frightened into hysterics by a tiny furry morsel, says Miss Watson, she's just acting silly. The experiment in which the young student used the mice lasted over a week, during which time Miss Watson was constantly with her unwilling helpers in a small dark room. Having inoculated them with the virus of pneumonia, the girl forced the mice to exercise at regular intervals by placing them in a revolving barrel. She plans to base her thesis for a docter's degree upon her findings.

Leyshock Stays On Mercer Job

County Detective Is Retained By New District Attorney At Mercer

MERCER, Jan. 8.—Samuel R. Leyshock, of Farrell, was retained as county detective, and Edward Thomas, of Mercer, was appointed assistant county detective, by District Attorney J. W. Nelson.

Mr. Nelson at the same time appointed George B. Mashank of Sharon as assistant district attorney, to be employed full time. All appointments are expected to meet with the approval of the court.

The employment of a full-time assistant district attorney is a departure, expected to save money. The assistant will maintain an office in Sharon, where he can care for preliminary hearings and other matters in Valley towns, thereby cutting travelling expenses for the district attorney.

Leyshock has served as county detective both under L. R. Rickard and Leo H. McKay, who preceded Nelson. Thomas has served as deputy sheriff under William Bone and D. K. Callahan. Robert Maxwell has held the post under appointment as a special officer.

Jewel Robbers In New York Get Loot Of $75,000

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Burglars today robbed the Park avenue home of Albert A. Tilney, vice chairman of the board of directors of the bankers' Trust Company, and escaped with jewels valued at $75,000.

Both Tilney and his wife were at home when the bandits entered it through a window from a fire-escape.

Hungarian M. D. Tells Internal Ills With His Eye

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—A young Hungarian physician with an "x-ray eye" has amazed the German medical world with a system of diagnosing internal diseases merely by watching patients breath and talk.

In tests before the Berlin Medical society Dr. Franz Weiss never failed to correct diagnosis of diseases which previously but without his knowledge had been diagnosed with the aid of x-ray photographs. He calls his method "etoscopie" which means "looked at from the outside."

The Hungarian specialist observed that the abdominal muscles of healthy and sick people react differently when the latter start talking. Talking, Weiss discovered, is a process similar to that of an explosion with the larynx functioning like a valve.

By studying and classifying the various reactions of the muscles of the chest and the abdomen Weiss succeeded in diagnosing several kinds of internal diseases, including inflammation of the lungs, appendicitis, peritonitis and others.

OSTRICH FARMS ON THEIR FEET AGAIN

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—The famous edict of Dame Fashion, calling for the resurrection of ostrich plumes and feathers to be used in the Empress Eugenie hats for women brought a sudden end to depression in Africa, according to Bernard Steinbach, of St. Louis, one of the most extensive importers of ostrich plumes in the United States.

"The poor owners of ostrich farms in Africa," Steinbach said, "had almost been starving since 1924, when hat-trimming became passe. The revival of the eugenie caused a tremendous demand for ostrich feathers."

He predicts feather trimmings for hats will be the vogue for the next six years.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

How to Train Children In Thrift Habit

Best Education Involves Lesson In Saving

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

During this financial depression there is naturally an effort to stimulate business by encouraging in everyone a greater readiness to spend money. "Don't save; spend!" is the slogan. Desirable as this expedient may be for restoring business prosperity immediately, it cannot be a good principle so far as our children's training is concerned, in case it is to be applied to them.

We parents who exercise foresight shall consider the cultivation of reasonable thrift habits in our children essential to their most moral education. Learning thrift involves learning habits of self-denial. Self-denial is indispensable to character growth. How can a child acquire good qualities of character who has nearly all his immediate wishes gratified? He best learns self-denials whose parents had not, from his early childhood, supplied all his wishes.

We parents tend to give the child too many toys, tend to buy him too many luxuries, and to give him too much money. We get pleasure from such indulgence. We escape the pain of seeing him suffer from denials, and we enjoy knowing that we had given him a temporary satisfaction. Not reason, but feeling, tends to rule our attitude and practice in these matters. But the more easily he gets money the less value it has for him.

A good plan is to set for the child, say from three to six, spending days on which he is to have a definite small amount, be it once or twice a week or month. The plan is definite. Suppose he is to get a nickel only each Saturday. Then if he is never given money at any time he will learn not to beg. He knows he must wait. Best moral values will accrue if he can be induced to save this nickel until he has enough to buy a certain toy. The longer he waits the better; but if the price of the toy is too great, he may lose interest and grow discouraged.

Some writers have advised against the metal bank, and bank deposit for children. I believe they are wrong. Let the unexpected coins be deposited by the young child in the metal bank, or let a nickel be put there when he is given another nickel to spend. Let the older child learn to deposit regularly in bank a saving, no matter how small it may be. The public schools have rendered a good service in this direction. Even though the money in bank may mean little to the child, to put it there regularly from his early childhood, cultivates a habit which should make him much more likely, when grown up, to carry on the savings habit.

As soon as the child has learned to spread a given sum over several days of spending, he is ready for an allowance. This readiness ought to be acquired by the time he enters school, when an allowance each week can be made practical. But it should be a definite amount, no more, no less, not to be invaded by a reward or punishment scheme. By and by the allowance should be extended to include money for a part or all the child's clothes.

Famine Plea And A Cock Fight On Old Paintings

Graphic Form Of Petition Is Presented To Emperor

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—A plea for famine sufferers during a depression of a thousand years ago is inscribed in picture writing on silk, among the gallery of Chinese paintings just opened at the Field Museum of Natural History here.

The painting was used as a graphic form of petition presented to an emperor of the Sung dynasty in an effort to secure "relief legislation," much as memorials today are being presented to the president and congress to secure aid for sufferers under the depression of the present.

Another pictorial petition which hangs in the gallery is of a theme repeated in the present day, showing suppliants pleading with the emperor for the life of an official who had been condemned to death.

The picture fails to reveal the nature of the office-holders malfeasance.

One is a vivid picture of a cock-fight in which a cheating gambler is attempting to "fix" the fight.

There are 26 paintings and tapestries on exhibition out of the museum's collection which now numbers several hundred. Most of them were collected in China by Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology.

Students To Go To England And Famous Haunts

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 8. — A party of Boston University students will sail next June for England, for a six weeks study among the haunts of immortal English men of letters and English literature.

In addition to regular classroom work in the historic buildings of the University of London, for which the students will receive credit for satisfactory completion of the course, several exploration trips have been arranged for the students to visit the native haunts of Shakespeare, Dickens, Lamb, Ben Johnson, Goldsmith, Browning and others whose memories make London a literary treasure-house.

Many buildings of literary interest which are closed to the ordinary tourist, will be open to the students.

Among the longer trips which the students in the session will make are included journeys to Oxford, Cambridge, and other educational centers, Canterbury, the goal of Chaucer's pilgrims, Hampton Court, Windsor, and Stoke Poges. The students will also spend much of their time at Westminster Abbey as well as in the great art galleries, including the National, Wallace and Tate, and the National Portrait Gallery.

Veteran Slippery Rock Mail Carrier Dies At 77 Years

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Jan. 8.—William H. Grine, aged 77, rural mail carrier in the Slippery Rock district for over 20 years, died at his home here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Grine had been a resident of Slippery Rock for over 40 years. He was a member of the Presbyterian church of Elrama and of the K. of P. lodge of Slippery Rock.

Surviving are the following children: W. H., A. E., Charles R. and C. C., of Slippery Rock, E. E. Grine, Mrs. J. E. Rogerson and Mrs. J. L. Barton of Elrama, Mrs. J. R. Scowden of Meadville, Mrs. J. E. Boyle of Sharon and Mrs. A. E. Hufton of Gary, Ind., 34 grandchildren and five great grandchildren, a brother, A. F. Grine of Beaver, and two sisters, Mrs. W. C. Douglass of Evans City and Mrs. Perry Tomlinson of Portsmouth, Oregon.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

One of the really smart ways to start a day in a manner that guarantees sweetness and light is to have a car refuse to start. Step on the starter and it growls like a police dog at his lunch. The battery seems all right, the gas is all right, the engine turns over but the dashblinked thing won't start.

The family comes out and offers suggestions and a push or two. The neighbors lift up bedroom windows and make rather pointed remarks about unseemly noises at time in the morning, and passing motorists wave a greeting signifying their mutual understanding.

Finally after drifting down a hill for a mile and a quarter and rubbing of 80 cents worth of rubber from the tires the wagon stops suddenly, the motor decides to get going. A loud roar that nearly tears the hind wheels off, a cloud of gas and smoke that would do for an army if it could be bottled up and the bus is off.

Every now and then you miss some chap from town. He doesn't appear on the streets for a few months and then suddenly you get word that he is across the other side of the world. Carmi Preston for example.

A few years ago he was playing a whale of a game in the backfield for New Castle high school. Then college for a while. Then he seemed to drop out of sight. Found him yesterday. He is the secretary to a captain of an ocean liner in the China trade. His run is from New York by way of the Panama canal to the west coast and then across the Pacific to Shanghai and Hong Kong. Just now he is in China or perhaps on the way back to the United States.

Another youngster that hasn't been around for a time is George Kite. George decided that California sunshine was his dish and left a year or so ago. Now he's decided that Alaska looks better and is either up there now or on his way.

Met a lad last night who admitted membership in the Furnace Door Missers lodge. Ed White suggests that furnace doors have a wide mouthed chute added to them, running the chute out until it is eight feet wide. Then he proposes to have all coal come in lumps the size of a basketball and start a game.

Not all of the old American sports have passed out. Bicycle riding isn't what it used to be, and battenberg work is a lost art with the women. Fried chicken dinners are still a major sport, however, so things aren't nearly as dark as they might be. One of the pleasantest sports we can think of, just off hand, is wrestling with a leg of chicken that has been fried properly, with the proper accompaniment of vegetables.

And after watching several hundred folks tying into a plate of that sort of provender last night we're convinced that this country is not altogether away from fundamental principles. As long as America doesn't go off the fried chicken standard things will continue to improve.

HENS HAVE BEAUTY PARLOR AND BATH

(International News Service)

BEVERLY, Mass., Jan. 8.—Beauty among hens.

When show time comes around, Henry P. McKean of Beverly Farms, puts his white leghorns through a virtual "beauty parlor" on his North Shore estate where he raises chickens as a pastime.

Miss Chicken and her brother, Master Cockerel, are raised with painstaking care and are carefully polished and groomed on frequent visits to their "beauty parlor."

A bathtub, a vial of warm liquid soap—cake soap is too harsh for these pampered society birds—and an attractive conservatory is attached to the end of this hen boudoir. There she rests in the warm glow of the heater while her feathers dry after the bath. And as a final touch she receives a "pedicure," similar to a manicure, and her snow white feathers are touched up to a permanent fluff.

And then her coming out party at the poultry show.

AUTO LICENSE PLATES ARE BEING STOLEN

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 8.—Several thefts of auto license plates have been reported to police since January 1. The offenders, officers believe, are persons who own cars, but who have no money to buy their licenses for the new year. While he was attending union services in the First United Presbyterian Church last night, a car owned by Rev. Homer B. Davis, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, was stolen by someone who removed the license plates. The machine was found abandoned in Russell street. M. R. Ward, New Castle avenue, today reported the theft of license plates and registration card from a car at his garage.

GOV. ROOSEVELT FIREMAN

(International News Service)

NORTH TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was made a member of the Union Hose-Engine Co., No. 2, at a recent meeting of the company. He accepted the membership in a letter. The governor and the Union Hose-Engine Co. struck up a warm friendship some years ago when he paid them a visit on election day. The governor's daughter, Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, is a resident of the village of North Tarrytown.

VICE SQUAD FINDS ONLY SLOT MACHINES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 8.—The proprietors of 11 drug stores, confectionery shops and lunch rooms will face Municipal Judge Harry Hoffman on charges of possessing gambling devices, as a result of city-wide raids by the vice squad.

Following Police Chief Leroy Goodwin's order to clean up all types of gambling, the raiders seized punch boards, slot machines, miniature shooting galleries and marble games. Although they confiscated dozens of pieces of equipment, they made arrests only at places where signs or tags promised prizes or awards to those who played the games.

The woman started out by train from Wilkinsburg, intending to go to Altoona to attend the funeral of her brother. She eluded the watchfulness of trainmen in whose care she was making the journey and alighted from the train here. She was mentally confused when discovered, and unable to extricate herself from the

DELIVER MAIL BY TELE-TYPEWRITERS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Electrical delivery of letters within a few seconds after they are tapped out in the office of the sender will soon be possible in London.

Installation of a great network of teletypewriters for private business offices will be started by the Post Office Department (which controls the telephone system) within a month.

Communications will be sent from office in much the same manner that news and telegrams are sent now through "printers" that translate holes in tape into electrical impulses, retranslating them into the tape and thence into typewritten characters at the other end.

Through an "exchange" system allied to the telephone system, it will be possible to restrict each message to the addressee only.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

Says New Medicine Must Free Your Muscle and Joints in Less Than a Week or Money-Back

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous rheumatic poisons that every year makes thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, kidneys and liver, and helps drive the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day or nothing to pay.

An internal medicine should be used to free the joints and muscles of crippling rheumatic stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external medicines and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. and New Castle Drug Co. says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must stop your rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

WOMAN USES MATE AS PLOW-HORSE

JUNIPER, Ga., Jan. 8.—For the want of a mule, Mrs. T. Humphries of Juniper hitched up her husband to a plow and carried on the work of the farm so successfully she paid off the taxes she owed.

A field agent of the department of agriculture was authority for the assertion that "this is no fiction, but happened right here in Georgia in 1931."

"The majority of defaulters are crooks," he said, "or are trifling and won't work, is the opinion I have formed in this territory."

It was explained the Humphries had searched in vain over a 20-mile radius for a mule of suitable price to meet their requirements.

HOTEL PRICES REDUCED

(International News Service)

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN — The Frankfort municipal economic department announces that the city's hotel owners have agreed to keep their prices for the Goethe year 1932 as low as possible, the reduction from the 1931 prices to be roughly 30 per cent. During the great Saengerbund festival, to be held from July 21 to 25, the hotels have promised 30 per cent of their rooms of all classes at 6, 9, 12 and 15 marks per room, including breakfast and service.

Sabbath School Leaders Gather

Executive Committee Meets On Thursday Evening At Y. W. C. A.

The regular monthly executive meeting of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association took place at the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening with the president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., presiding and the following members present: P. W. Griffin, vice-president; Mrs. M. E. Vaughn, acting secretary; J. C. Miner, treasurer; Miss Anna Perry, administrative superintendent; Mrs. R. H. Nesbitt, teacher training superintendent; Mrs. Margaret Speer Gibson, missions superintendent, and additional members of the executive committee, Rev. A. I. Dickinson, Mrs. P. R. Weisz, D. S. Williams and a visitor, Clyde Snyder.

Rev. A. I. Dickinson read a paper prepared by the county superintendent of Christian education, Rev. Ross M. Haverfield, on the objectives of Christian Education. A resolution of appreciation was passed and thanks extended to Rev. Haverfield for the splendid development of the goals toward which Christian workers should strive.

The matter of the mid-year efficiency conference which is to be held at the Y. W. C. A. afternoon session and Christian fellowship dinner in the evening Thursday, January 28, was discussed. Rev. E. H. Bonsall, the state young people's superintendent, will be the chief speaker at both sessions. A beautiful shield will be awarded to the districts having the best percentage of officers and departmental superintendents present, and substitutes will be allowed for those not able to be present. Pulaski district has been winning these shields for the past few years but doubtless other districts will make a strong effort to capture it this year. The competition has always been keen and in the past it has been won by a very narrow margin.

It was announced that the county assistant superintendent of Christian education, Rev. J. W. St. Clair, was leaving for a new field and a resolution was passed commending him for his splendid work in helping to promote the teaching of the Bible in the schools of Lawrence county. It was the sense of the executive committee that his place would be hard to fill and that he had made a real contribution to Christian education in this county. The best wishes of the county association go with him to his new field of service for the Master.

Miss Anna Perry, the administrative superintendent, stated that plans were being made for the annual administrative conference. The place of this conference chosen last year was the Highland United Presbyterian church and their Sabbath school superintendent, O. A. Rodgers was to have charge of the fellowship dinner to be served. The date and other plans will be announced later.

Margaret Speer Gibson, the missions superintendent, reported that she had been demonstrating a mission program and that it was about ready to be sent to mission superintendents of the various districts of the county.

D. S. Williams stated that it was his impression that the adult Sabbath school classes of the various churches of the city, especially the men's adult classes, should be more closely aligned with the church. He stated that he would welcome a movement of some kind to foster the bringing of such classes into active participation in the church services.

The matter of the place for the next county convention has not been definitely decided, and a resolution was passed giving the president power to make such arrangements as were necessary.

Must Load And Unload Own Coal

Sharon Poor Director Holds Needy Must Help Themselves

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 8.—On the theory that most men do not seek charity, but are ready and willing to work for food, clothing and fuel, Poor Director Earl Dresch has inaugurated a new system of spending county poor funds. Not only will the funds go farther, thereby lessening the cost of poor relief, but men will retain their self respect.

Many innovations in dispensing of relief are planned by Mr. Dresch. His first move on taking office was to insist on men helping in the dispensation of coal. When fuel is required Mr. Dresch asks the one receiving aid to load and unload the coal. Thus far he has found most of them willing to do this work. In a few cases where a protest was put up the Director frankly stated he was not in office to encourage pauperism. Unless there is a physical disability no coal will be dispensed where the men are too lazy to load and unload it.

Much favorable comment has been heard about the manner in which Mr. Dresch is conducting the office. The general opinion among those receiving aid is that the new order is excellent. The tax payers, of course, will be in hearty sympathy with the idea.

South Side Sets Another Record In Circulation

South side branch of the New Castle free public library reached the highest peak in circulation on Tuesday than ever before since the branch was inaugurated.

From noon that day until 9 o'clock (the regular open hours for the branch), 960 books were circulated. That record surpasses records set by all other branches and is actually as high as a day's circulation at the main library.

Dr. Kane Again Startles World With Operation

Noted Kane, Pa., Surgeon Operates Upon Himself For Hernia

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Jan. 8.—Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, noted surgeon, rested comfortably in the Kane Summit hospital here today following his second serious operation by himself. He went under his own knife for a hernia operation yesterday and will recover.

On February 14, 1921, Dr. Kane removed his own appendix in an operation that astounded the medical world.

Attending by another surgeon and three nurses, who held him in a half sitting positing, the doctor performed the second operation yesterday. A local anaesthetic was used.

He complained only of a slight drowsiness when it was completed. Not once did he show a trace of nervousness and only once did he make an expression of pain.

When the anaesthetic began to wear off, his features contracted in pain.

Threatened strangulation induced by the hernia, an internal rupture, necessitated the operation, which was witnessed also by his son Phillip.

Editor News:—

Please allow me a space in your paper, The News. I would like to write a few words in regard to the cutting of wages. Why is it that poor working men and girls have to take a cut? I think it is high time the doctors were reducing their fees. Think of them charging $3 for house calls, $1 to $2 for office calls.

We have a few doctors who have the nerve to charge $2 for an office call without medicine. Some years ago when everything was cheap they charged 50 cents for an office call and $1 for a house call. It is coming to the time when a poor man will have to lie down and die.

The same applies to the dentist. We used to pay 50 cents to have a tooth extracted. Now they want $2.

If all reports are true that Mayor Mayne won't stand for married women working, who have men working. Credit is due him if he starts that move. Maybe more will follow. We have husband and wife working in a local bank here. This is something that should be stopped. I hope I will see this in print.

Yours truly,
JOHN DEEMER,

The First Disciples

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The international uniform lesson for January 10 is John 1:19-51, the Golden Text being verse 29, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.")

The first chapter of John reads like a diary of one of the most wonderful weeks in the lives of Jesus' first disciples. Its first day's record tells of the witness of John the baptist to a deputation of religious leaders sent out from Jerusalem to investigate him and his mission. The second day's record tells of John's public witness to Jesus as "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." The third day's record tells of the repetition of this testimony to two of his disciples, one of whom is named Andrew, and the other of whom was doubtless John, the author of this gospel, whose custom it is thus modestly to hide his identity.

A Great Week's Work.

This was a great week's work which is thus opened up to us in this diary of John. For it records the opening of Jesus' public ministry and the finding of the first five of his apostles. For this reason this has been called "the finding chapter" of John's gospel. It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon that Andrew and John found Jesus and timidly followed him, hardly knowing what to say when he turned and kindly asked them, "What seek ye?" "Master, where dwellest thou?" was their reply. And the Master, seeing in it a hunger to know him better, responded by graciously inviting them to accompany him to his stopping place: "He saith unto them, Come and see."

Invitation vs. Argument.

The men who are found and won for Christ during this wonderful week were not won by religious argument but by the sweet winsomeness of the Christ who needed only to say, "Come and see." Of one of those who thus came and saw, we read, "He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Christ. And he brought him to Jesus." The diary proceeds: "The day following Jesus findeth Philip, and saith, Follow me." And the same winsomeness won Philip as the fourth of the apostolic band. So contagious was the spirit of this new Teacher that every life he found reacted by finding another. "Philip findeth Nathaniel, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom Moses, in the law, and the prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth." And when Nathniel's prejudice against the disreputable village of Jesus prompted him to argue, "Can any good thing come of Nazareth?" Philip did not enter into the suggested argument, but merely invited his friend to Christ, saying, "Come and see." This was enough. He could rest his case here. For no man can truly come and see Jesus and not be won by the winsomeness of his marvelous personality. The kingdom of Christ grows by witness and invitation, not by argument.

Nathaniel's Enthusiasm.

Such knowledge of Nathaniel and his past life was shown by Jesus that he immediately forgot the prejudice with which he approached the Nazarene, and became most enthusiastic in his praise, saying, "Master, thou art the Son of God; thu art King of Israel." What a lesson on soul-winning! Five of the leaders of Christendon "found" in five days, by the simple process of "Come and see" and "Go and tell." They found their own brother and brought him to Jesus."

Boys' Night Party Event Of Tonight

Ben Franklin Girl Reserves And Guests Will Gather In Y. W. Gym

Blue and white, the Girl Reserve colors, have transformed the gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A. into an attractive setting for tonight's "big doings."

Their annual boys' night party will be enjoyed by members of the lively Benjamin Franklin Girl Reserve club—and the synopsis of plans point to a great time for the club members and their guests.

There will be games, including 500, hokum, check and double check and anagrams. Tables for the games will be placed around the walls of the gym. Refreshments will be served after dancing, in the Green Room.

Music throughout the evening will be presented by a special orchestra. Special intermission numbers will be presented by Victor Rice, who won the state cello contests, accompanied by Irene Rice; Mrs. W. J. Caldwell will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Allen, and dances will be presented by Nellie Brady and Ruth Phillips.

Josephine Daino, Frank Juliano, Miss Marian Wilson, Gertrude Rowland, Rod Campbell and Miss Evea Coulter will be the receiving line.

The reception committee of the second floor will consist of Marilyn Blank, Helen Wainio, Miss Webster and Miss Guy.

Tickets have been in charge of Betty Nicholson and Marian Ginsburg. Decorating was cared for by June Fischer and Betty Nicholson.

Chaperones for the evening will be Mrs. F. L. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Fischer, Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, Mrs. R. R. Blank, Mrs. Nicholson. Advisors are Mrs. Clayton Bannon, Misses Lenora Beall, Margaret Guy, Agnes Webster and Evea Coulter.

College Students Of Today Pictured As More Mature Than A Generation Ago

President Of Harvard Says Youth Are Induced To Feel More Responsibility Than In Past For Their Education

By ABBOTT LAWRENCE LOWELL
President of Harvard University.

Our college students as a whole appear more mature than a generation ago, not only in scholarship, but also in their outside interests and in the sense of proportionate values which is the flower of maturity. And this in spite of—perhaps to some extent because of—the extent that they enter a year younger than they did in the early '90s.

Maturity is by no means wholly a matter of years. It depends much more on environment, and above all on responsibility. A youth who enters college at 19 and is treated like a schoolboy matures less rapidly than one who enters at 17 and is treated like a man. To enter at the appropriate age and be expected to be rather above than below his maturity is the best way to develop manly character.

Although undergraduates have less freedom in the choice of electives and are more rigidly held to higher standard of work, they are induced to feel more responsibility than in the past for their own education and for the well-being of the college to which they have the honor to belong.

RIOTERS NOW USING FOUNTAIN PEN GUNS

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—German Fascists and Communists resorted to fountain pen guns in the numerous nightly street battles, after the government imposed heavy fines upon unauthorized possession of arms.

The answer of the militant radicals to the government Christmas truce decree were heavy battles all over the country with several dead and scores of wounded on both sides.

Police discovered that the members of the radical storm battalions had equipped themselves with "fountain pens" from which poison gas or bullets can be fired. At close range these weapons mean death if the bullet strike delicate parts of the body. These "fountain pens" have therefore been strictly forbidden, and their bearers will henceforth suffer the same punishment as if they had carried a regular revolver.

SPANKING DIDN'T HELP

CLEVELAND, O.—Given "another "chance" after he was spanked in the courtroom by his father at the order of the presiding judge, John Niznik, 18, failed to take advantage of his new opportunity and was arrested a short time later on a charge of auto theft. His first arrest was on a charge of trespassing.

ILLUSTRATED BIBLE LESSON

The First Disciples

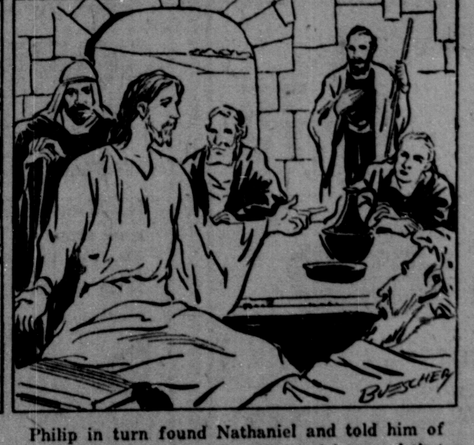
John 1:35-49

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell
And Alfred J. Buescher

The first chapter of John's gospel has been called "the finding chapter," for in it we read of John the Baptist finding Jesus in the wilderness of Jordan and pointing Him out to two of his disciples, saying, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

These two disciples, one of whom was Andrew and the other possibly John, followed Jesus. When Jesus turned and asked them, "What seek ye?" they responded, "Master, where dwellest thou?" Jesus answered, "Come and see." They accepted his invitation and stayed all night with Jesus.

These disciples went out immediately to find others for Jesus. "Andrew first findeth his own brother Simon, saying, We have found the Christ." When Jesus saw Simon, He changed his name to Cephas or Peter, meaning a stone. The next day Jesus found Philip and said, "Follow me."



Philip in turn found Nathaniel and told him of Jesus of Nazareth. When Nathaniel argued that no good could come out of Nazareth, Philip merely said, "Come and see." Jesus so clearly convinced him, that Nathaniel acknowledged Jesus as "Son of God and King of Israel." Thus Jesus found His first five disciples.

Amberson Art Club Assembles

The Amberson Art Club held their first meeting of the year, Thursday evening at the club studio, there was a large attendance. The meeting was devoted entirely to business, election of officers, adoption of certain rules and planning the year's work. It was decided that there should be a meeting the first Thursday of each month, at which, each member would be required to present one finished piece of work for criticism and helpful suggestions. A mid-month meeting was arranged for the evening of January 21 for sketching and taking care of any special business. Two members were appointed to provide subjects for sketching at this meeting.

TREATING CHILDREN AS GROWNUPS, BEST

(International News Service)

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 8.—Treat little children as you would grownups. Let them decide for themselves when they want to play; what they want to do; with whom they wish to play; what they wish to eat; put away their own things, and decide arguments for themselves.

That, in effect is the theory employed at the Smith College co-operative Nursery school, attended by 18 students—most of them children of members of Smith college faculty—ranging in ages from one and a half to twice that figure.

They help themselves to spinach or macaroni when 21 months at the school. They button their own galoshes, or hang them up neatly, as the case may be, according to Mrs. Laura S. Oak, head of the Nursery, and associate professor in the department of education at Smith.

Second Confession Is Made By Slayer

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 8.—Frank Massaro, 21, self-confessed slayer, today made a second confession admitting that he had shot and killed his friend, Ray Pricchione, 18, "to stop him of the habit of stealing," police reported.

Massaro originally had stated that he killed Pricchione because of a "personal grudge." The youth is to be examined by a sanity commission.

Chicago Slayer Is Electrocuted

SAYS BROTHERS INNOCENT MAN

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—The electric chair today at last claimed Frank (The Squealer) Bell a few minutes after he had firmly reiterated his belief that Leo V. Brothers is innocent of the assassination of Alfred Lingle, racketeering reporter.

Chicago's most reprieved killer walked to his death in Cook County jail shortly after midnight, leaving behind a letter in which he again confessed participation in the sensational gang killing of the reporter and again insisted that Brothers had no part in the slaying.

Brothers is under a prison sentence for the murder of Lingle in the summer of 1930.

Bell paid the supreme penalty today for the murder of Chris Patras, cafe manager, during a holdup. Twice before he had been snatched from the shadow of the electric chair by last-minute reprieves. Not until the march to the death chair began did the condemned man abandon hope that a third stay would come to rescue him again.

News Of Welsh Told By Brython

Many Interesting Affairs Are Brought To The Notice Of Local Welshmen

By WILLIAM A. JOHNS
(Brython)

A letter came to hand from Charley Johns of Glendale, Calif., in which he wishes to be remembered to all his friends in New Castle. Mr. Johns is well known in this city and visited here often when he made his home in Pittsburgh .He has been in California the past five years and lives not far from Jim Edwards, at Pico, Cal

Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, of East Reynolds street, received news this week of the death of Evan E. Sims, master painter, of South Wales, who had been in that business for the past fifty years. He was well known all over Wales, and was the well known conductor of the Morristown Male party, which won the first prize at the national Eisteddfod of Kearsy, a year ago and second prize this year, in North Wales.

The Eisteddfod which was held in Pittsburgh on Saturday, January 2, and Sunday, January 3 turned out to be a most successful event; the singing was magnificent and pleased the adjudicator, Prof. L. Powell Evans of Atlantic City, very much.

News has come from our old friend, Thomas D. Richard, Canton, Ohio, that he has been very successful with his singing in the Congregational church of Canton. He has organized a choir of fifty voices, among which are the best singers of Canton.

News has come that the tin plate trade is improving in South Wales; the sheet mills and ten tin mills have started at Pontardawe and hundreds of persons have been employed. This will be good news to the Welsh people of New Castle who are formerly from there.

A great Eisteddfod will be staged at Cleveland, O., in August 1932, when the Hon. James J. Davis, senator from Pennsylvania will be one of the promoters. Joseph Jenkins, the dictator general of the Loyal Order of Moose, and many more prominent men of the United States are interested in the event.

The members of the Star of Wales Lodge 60, True Ivorites of America, will remember the meeting Saturday evening, when important matters will be transacted. David L. Harrison, East Washington street, will fill the president's chair and David J. Clement, Dushane street, will be in the vice's chair.

Dr. Foster Again Doctors' Choice

County Physicians Re-elect Him To Head County Medical Society

OTHERS SELECTED AT 'Y' MEETING

Chosen for a second time by his fellow physicians as president of the Lawrence County Medical society, Dr. John Foster took up once more last night the position which he held just 32 years ago. The county physicians, convened at the Y. M. C. A., elected Dr. Foster as the successor to Dr. Charles A. Reed, the president during 1931.

Others Are Chosen.

Last night's well attended meeting, at which the election and a talking motion picture were features, brought the formal inauguration of the following new officers along with Dr. Foster:

First vice president—Dr. W. D. Wallace.

Secretary—Dr. W. A. Womer.

All of the new leaders were elected and took office last night. Dr. Foster assumed the presidency after Dr. Reed had conducted his final meeting.

For the technical part of the evening's program the doctors saw a talking film on a technical subject in surgery, projected by a Pittsburgh firm. Dr. H. O. Jones, famed surgeon of St. Luke's hospital in Chicago, performed the screen operation.

Give Subscriptions.

Before the meeting adjourned, the society voted a year's subscription to one of the leading public health magazines for the junior and senior high schools and public library of the city.

Dr. Edward H. Wilmarth, seventh ward, was elected a member of the society last night.

While no action nor report of any kind came before the membership of the society at its meeting, it was learned that a special committee named at the organization's last meeting to investigate ways for improving relief conditions here for the indigent sick, has completed its work. After a thorough investigation the doctors were convinced that the needy sick were receiving every necessary care, and that no new steps could be taken to better conditions.

The committee was only recently discharged.

FRIPPERIES OF 1932 ARE INTRIGUING THE GIRL FRIEND

Some of the latest fripperies of 1932 that will intrigue the girl friend are displayed by Hollywood's beauties. For instance, at the upper left, 1, Dorothy Lee shows a powder atomizer. Squeeze the bulb and add that last touch that makes the make-up complete. Wynne Gibson, 2, has lost her last handkerchief; she now attaches 'em by a sturdy gold chain to a finger ring; 3, below, Rochelle Hudson demonstrates the workableness of a keyring with miniature flashlight concealed at one side. No excuse, now, for not being able to find the keyhole. You might think Dorothy Lee, 4, was enamored of a big football player, but the football is merely a pocketbook in which to hide your change purse from bold, bad bandits, and 5 is Karen Morley wearing a new ring-bracelet that enhances the beauty of her left hand as it rests on the dinner table.

Injured Placed On Track; Now 50 Dead

Freight Train Plows Through Long Rows Of Injured From First Wreck

MOSCOW, Jan. 8—Fifty persons were killed and many others injured in a rear-end train collision on Saturday about nine miles northwest of Moscow, it was learned today.

The heavy casualty list resulted in part from the injured being placed by rescurers along a parallel track to await arrival of medical crews from Moscow. A freight train came along and, before the engineman could stop, his locomotive plowed through the prostrate injured.

Government and railway officials attempted to suppress all news of the disaster so there were no official figures on the total casualties. Some estimates were that several hundred were killed. It was the third disastrous train wreck near Moscow within a month.

Sunday hundreds of men and women besieged Korsky Station pleading and crying for information about missing relatives. Officials announced:

"There was no wreck. Go home."

Funeral Directors Have Delightful Social Evening

Ladies Night Is Observed With A Fine Dinner And Program Of Entertainment

Ladies night was observed last evening at the Elk's Club by the Lawrence County Funeral Directors Association, with an elaborate dinner and an excellent program of entertainment, after which cards were the diversion of the evening.

Covers were laid for forty-five. The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers bouquets and there were special favors for the ladies. Peter P. Capitola, president of the association, presided.

The dinner started shortly before seven o'clock with the blessing being pronounced by W. R. Campbell. Following the excellent course dinner, the program of entertainment was put on.

The entertainment numbers included Harmonica selections by the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School Advanced Harmonica Club under the supervision of Prof. Daniel Racioppio; vocal selections by Miss Genevieve Thomas; violin and piano duet selections by Frank and Helen Noga; comedy sketch by Harry Ellwell and selections by the Keystone trio consisting of Chester Biddle, Dye Jones and Peter Iodice.

Bridge and Five Hundred were the diversions for the guests of the evening following the program. Bridge prizes were awarded to Prof. C. H. Watkins of Philadelphia and Mrs. Bessie McGonigle and prizes in Five Hundred were awarded to P. P. Capitola and Miss Maude Zeigler.

Those present at the event were: Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Capitolo, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marshall, J. I. Porter, F. B. Offutt, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Caskey, Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Portersville Man, Falling From Horse, Has Broken Ankle

Injured Man Lies All Night In Woods — Condition Is Serious

After the terrible experience of lying helpless in a woods all night in a steady torrent of rain, John Brenneman of Portersville, is under the care of a physician in the New Castle hospital and today his condition is about the same.

Brenneman has a broken ankle as the result of a fall from a horse. Because of the night in the woods his condition was serious when he was hurried to the New Castle hospital Wednesday.

Acording to report, Mr. Brenneman had on Tuesday gone to Prospect to buy a horse. While riding the animal home it stumbled on a side road between Prospect and Portersville and fell on the rider's leg.

Brenneman was able to grope his way some distance from the scene of the accident and then, unable to find help, sank to the ground from exhaustion. He laid there in the rain all Tuesday night and was found the next morning and removed to the hospital.

MAKE CATTLE TESTS IN STATE

Report Of Conditions Is Made By Department Of Agriculture

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—Bovine tuberculosis was found to be considerably more prevalent in cattle tested in Pennsylvania than in cattle tested in the country as a whole in November, the agriculture department finds.

During November, a total of 65,022 cattle in the Keystone state were given tubercular tests by state and federal officials, and of these, 3,115 or 4.7 per cent reacted, showing the presence of the disease. Of the cattle so tested in the entire nation, on the other hand, only two per cent were found to be tubercular.

At the end of November, there were in the Keystone state 7,541 herds with 127,783 cattle accredited as free of tuberculosis. There were also under supervision in the state 142,877 herds with 1,146,865 cattle.

Inspector J. B. Reidy of the federal government is in charge of the inspection service in Pennsylvania and cooperates with T. E. Munce, state supervisor in Harrisburg.

Deputy Sheriff Shot To Death By Coal Miner

WAS ATTEMPTING ARREST OF MAN

(International News Service)

HARLAN, Ky., Jan. 8.—Flaming guns roared again in troubled Harlan county and as a result another deputy sheriff, the eighth in a year, lay dead today, and two coal miners were in jail.

The slain officer was Henderson Ramsey, 45, deputy sheriff stationed at Alva, Ky., about ten miles southwest of here. The shooting occurred near Path Fork, in the vicinity of Insull, Ky., where the mining camp of the Southern mining Company is located, last night.

The fatal shot was fired by Nathan Howard, coal miner, police said, who with his brother, Benny Howard, were in the county jail here today. Two deputies sent to Insull by Sheriff John Henry Blair, brought the Howard brothers here during the night.

Shot Through Heart.

Ramsey was shot once in the heart as he stood in the road near Path Fork looking for Nathan Howard to arrest him on a charge of drunkenness. The officer had arrested Benny Howard and had taken him to Insull and left him in the custody there of Justice of the Peace R. C. Green, and had gone back to arrest Nathan. The latter saw him coming, according to eye-witnesses, waited until the officer got near him, whipped out a gun and fired point blank at the deputy, killing him instantly.

Ramsey's murder followed within less than two weeks the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Owen Sizemore, 50, veteran Harlan county officer, in a Christmas day shooting at Chevrolet, Ky., another mining camp in this county.

Six Firemen In Scranton Suffer Injuries In Fire

Damage Of $50,000 As Result Of Blaze In Store And Warehouse

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 8—Six firemen were in a hospital with injuries today as a result of a $50,000 fire which swept through the store and warehouse of the American Coffee Company here last night. Nearly a dozen firemen were overcome by smoke.

Firemen sent to the hospital were cut by glass or fell through stairways. Flames spread to a cigar store and apartments in the same building and were checked only after a three-hour struggle.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined today.

MUSICIAN IN COX ARMY CALLAPSES, $1,050 IN POCKETS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—One of the musicians who participated in the unemployment march Thursday had $1,050 in his pocket. This was learned when John Cylkouski of Pittsburgh collapsed during march to the Capitol and was taken to a hospital. The 50 year old man explained he had been laid off last July and added:

"I had some money. I had saved it and had it in a bank. And then when I found myself out of a job—and I've got a wife to take care of, too—I drew my money out and I've had it in my pockets ever since."

He said he did not come here as a member of the unemployed group but was "working" as a trombone player in the band. His condition was not considered serious.

MANY CANADIAN BROOMS
(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Canada, Jan. 8.—There are 76 establishments in Canada that make brooms, brushes and mops. The total production of these plants in 1930 had a value of $4,135,739, of which 289,765 dozen brooms accounted for $1,357,863; 73,190 dozen mops, $317,487, and brushes of various kinds, from paint to tooth, cost $2,460,416.

Sisters Found Guilty Of Robbery Charge

Accused Of Accompanying Youths Who Robbed Youngstown Store

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 8—The first two women in the history of Mahoning county to face a jury on a burglary charge, Hazel Miller, 19, and Garnet Miller 21, were found guilty Thursday afternoon. The jurors were out about two hours.

The sisters were charged with having accompanied two youths who robbed a chain grocery store October 24. Their attorney argued that when the girls went riding with Cecil Cramer and Thomas Blackstone, they did not know that a robbery was planned. He said that the car was parked nearby and when Garnet went into the store to see what was going on, she was threatened with death unless she helped Cramer carry out some of the loot which consisted of groceries and some money.

Blackstone is awaiting trial on the same indictment. Cramer is serving time in the Ohio penitentiary.

Judge George H. Gessner reserved sentence, pending a motion for a new trial.

Japs May Intend To Take Tientsin

(International News Service)

MUKDEN, Jan. 8—The Japanese army that seized control of all Manchuria today invaded China proper passing south of the great wall where it comes down to the sea in the Gulf of Liaotung.

Japanese detachments that recently occupied Chinchow effected a junction with other Japanese troops recently landed at Shanhaikwan and advanced their outposts in the direction of Chingwangtao 150 miles northwest of Tientsin.

Tienstin, the Chinese fear, is the objective of the next Japanese drive.

Army Pilot Flies Student Here For Month's Furlough

Following a brief stay in New Castle after landing and refueling at Bradford field yesterday afternoon, Capt. W. B. Wright, U. S. Army flier stationed at Richards Field, Kansas City, took off again, bidding adieu to Ray Bovard of East Falls street, his passenger with whom he took off for this city from Washington, D. C.

Bovard, a student at the Medical Corps flew here in a Falcon biplane to start a month's furlough. While in the city on his short stay Capt. Wright was entertained by Sergt. Thompson of the local army recruiting station.

ASKS 30 PUPILS PER CLASS
(International News Service)

BOSTON, Jan. 8—A plan to cut the size of school classes to about 30 pupils, may create jobs for Boston's unemployed school teachers. Dr. Joseph V. Lyons, member of the school committee which is studying emergency measures which would create new teaching posts, pointed out that there are as many as 50 and 60 pupils in some of the first grade classrooms.

Note Gives Tokio U. S. Position On China Situation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The text of the American note sent to Japan and China follows:

With the recent military operations about Chinchow, the last remaining administrative authority of the government of the Chinese Republic in South Manchuria, as it existed prior to September 18th, 1931, has been destroyed.

The American Government continues confident that the work of the neutral commission recently authorized by the council of the League of Nations will facilitate an ultimate solution of the difficulties now existing between China and Japan.

But in view of the present situation and of its own rights and obligations therein, the American Government deems it to be its duty to notify both the imperial Japanese government and the government of the Chinese Republic that it cannot admit the legality of any situation de facto nor does it intend to recognize any treaty or agreement entered into between those governments, or agents thereof, which may impair the treaty rights of the United States or its citizens in China, including those which relate to the sovereignty, the independence, or the territorial and administrative integrity of the Republic of China, or to the international policy relative to China, commonly known as the open-door policy; and that it does not intend to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement which may be brought about by means contrary to the covenants and obligations of the pact of Paris of August 27, 1928, to which treaty both China and Japan, as well as the United States, are parties.

Lenz And Liggett Again Slash Lead Held By Opponents

Contract Bridge Battle Will End Tonight, Culbertsons Lead Is 8,770

Strong Hands Feature Play Thursday Night—Howard Schenken Enters Game

(The following was written expressly for International News Service by Josephine Culbertson, wife of Ely Culbertson and with him originator of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding.)

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON
World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player
Copyright, 1932, By International News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Incontract bridge, as in life, it is well to prepare for a rainy day.

The past three sessions in the 150 rubber match, being played by my husband and Sidney S. Lenz to test the merits of the Approach-Forcing and "Official" systems of contract bidding, saw the falling of considerable rain so far as we are concerned, and today the storm clouds still loom dark against the sky.

Lead Is Slashed.

The greater part of the losses for us have been due to causes over which we had no control. For instance, in the last session in which I played, it seemed to me that on almost every hand I jotted down a score for honors held by our opponents. Hence it is just as well that we had amassed a lead which should be great enough to carry us through to victory, regardless of the smiles or frowns of fate, because there were a number of instances of bidding and play last night which resulted disastrously from ourview-point.

The story of last night's play was the story of a combination of strong hands for our adversaries, interspersed with a few instances of failure to take advantage of the rare opportunities we had to gain. In consequence our opponents reduced our lead to 8,770 points at the end of the 144th rubber. One consolation we had was that our opponents were using the "Official" system and not the Approach-Forcing, as they would have piled up an even greater score than they did with the cards they held.

An example is the eighth hand of the 141st rubber of the match, which with its bidding, follows:

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North: Lenz
S—8 4 2
H—Q J 9 7 5
D—4 3
C—Q 3 2

West: Culbertson	East: Schenken
S—9 6 3	S—J 5
H—10 8 6 4	H—A K 3 2
D—K 6	D—Q J 9 8
C—10 8 7 6	C—K 5 4

South: Liggett
S—A K Q 10 7
H—None
D—A 10 7 5 2
C—A J 9

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 H.	2 S.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Made Four Spades.

In the play four spades were easily made. Had Commander Liggett used the bid which would have been available to him in the Approach-Forcing system, he would have overcalled one heart with two hearts, and Lenz would perforce have bid two no trump. With this strong bidding by the south hand the contract of four spades should be reached, as Mr. Lenz's hand is strong enough, in view of the two heart overcall and the subsequent three spade bid, to bid four spades.

Charles M. Schwab, known to the world of business as president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, but to the bridge world as the long time president of the Whist club, New York, was a visitor at the game.

STENOGRAPHER IS YOUNGEST IN WORLD

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Nine-year-old May Goodwin, who lives in Puteaux, a short distance from Paris, claims to be the youngest shorthand writer in the world. She began studying it while doing her full school work in the public school and became an expert in eight months time.

Some of the credit she gallantly hands to her father, who has always been an enthusiastic shorthand writer. He served in the chemist corps of the Royal Engineers during the war and now works in Paris.

Young May is also very keen on all kinds of sports and a particularly fine swimmer.

Invalid Chair For Child Available

Vets Have Chair Which They Will Give To Some Crippled Child

Among the articles contributed to the Toy Mission of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, during the recent Christmas activity, was a child's invalid chair. The chair had been ordered by a local firm but when delivery had been made, the child for which it had been ordered, had died.

The chair was turned over to the Toy Mission in hopes that some needy child who could use it would be found, but so far, the Vets have not run across anyone who could use it.

The chair is new, having never been used, and is in fine condition. It would brighten the heart of any little boy or girl unfortunate enough to be so badly crippled that he could not get around. If any person knows of a crippled child who could use the article, he is requested to get in touch with any of the members of the committee in charge of the Toy Mission activity.

SURPRISE PARTY

A very pleasant surprise party was held last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Fulkman, it being that ladies birthday, and the party being held in her honor. A special oyster supper was a feature of the evenings entertainment. Children and grandchildren who live in this vicinity were present.

SPEAKER

The January Group of the Louise Scott Missionary Society announces a lecture for next Monday, January 11, at 7:45, in the Sabbath school room of the U. P. church. The speaker will be Dr. Robert Wells Veach of Ridgewood, New Jersey.

POPULAR PLACE

The community jail seems to be quite a popular place at the present time. Tuesday night eleven vagabonds used the jail for their sleeping quarters. However, no chances are being taken, and officers were on the watch thoroughout the night.

WILMINGTON GRANGE

The Wilmington Grange will meet on Thursday evening January 14 in the usual place. A good attendance is desired, as the new officers will be installed.

NEW WILMINGTON NOTES

Lloyd McKean is ill with pneumonia.

Robert White is confined to his home with the grippe.

NIGHT MUNICIPAL COURT
(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—Night sessions of the Municipal court were held here recently for the first time in several years. The sessions were held at the plea of the Legal Aid Bureau of the Welfare Department. The request was made on behalf of more than two score clients who were unable to appear in day sessions of court due to inability to lose the time from their employment.

TYDOL GAVE LIGHTNING SERVICE AT THE SOUTH POLE

TYDOL AT THE SOUTH POLE . . . TYDOL Gasoline and VEEDOL Motor Oil took this plane safely on its epoch-making flight over the South Pole.

AND TYDOL STARTED THIS MOTOR

AT 29° BELOW FREEZING

Says Lieut. Thomas Mulroy, Chief Engineer Byrd Antarctic Expedition

THE PLACE . . . Refrigeration room of The Seaboard Terminal Company
THE CAR . . . Ice-covered for 12 hours at 29° below freezing
THE GAS . . . . New Winter TYDOL Gasoline
STARTING TIME: ½ Second

"TYDOL beat the terrible Polar cold in all planes and tractors of the Byrd Expedition. It gave lightning service," says Lieut. Thomas Mulroy.

"And again in this ice-bound motor, left for 12 hours at 29° below freezing in this refrigeration room . . .

"TYDOL excelled even its Antarctic record by starting in 1/2 of one second!"

Is there a faster or more thoroughly tested gas in the world to take you through the winter?

Find out for yourself. Test TYDOL against any winter gas in your own car. Pick out the coldest morning. The iciest wind. And let your instant-starting motor roar out TYDOL'S story.

Always super-power, high-test, anti-knock. Now . . . split-second starting at no extra cost.

WINTER VEEDOL
(100% PENNSYLVANIA)

This can of VEEDOL Motor Oil was frozen solidly in this cake of ice, and kept there for 12 hours at 29° below freezing. Even under this extreme cold test, VEEDOL was ready to gush instantly to every bearing and to every moving part of the icy motor.

Don't let a slow-flowing motor oil ruin a fast-starting gasoline. Always use cold-proof VEEDOL and instant-starting TYDOL together and you'll have the perfect combination for winter motor protection.

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—These are blue days for the venders of what old-fashioned 1930-31 souls called whoopee. The caverns where merrymaking is unrestrained are as forlorn as the offices of Florida realtors. Two of the speaks within a block of my home report all-time weekly lows in receipts. Either the consciences of celebrants are extraordinarily acute this year or resolutions, for once, are holding thruout the days following New Year's.

Even the caravans seeking pick-me-ups—the 'headache trade"—are dwindled. This is explained by one sanguine proprietor as a result of the unprecedentedly excellent quality of liquor dispensed. Others are amazed by what can be no less than an increased caution and uprightness in an already strait-laced town.

On the other hand, department and gift stores I am informed, have been surprised by the volume of post-holiday trade. Some groups of friends, I hear, arranged to buy their Christmas presents when the clearance sales set in, with benefit to all concerned. Thus many a family is now enjoying its own private Christmas, not caring a hoot for what the calendars cry.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Whenever a Mr. Wodehouse mentions the lamentables ease with which he is able to separate the poor old movie producers from their cash in return for inferior scenarios and whenever, a Mr. Hecht takes note of the pubilcity attendant upon Mr. Wodehouse.s comments and parrots it, I am moved to a brief arithmetic check upon the recent Hollywood efforts with which such gentlemen happened to have been associated. It developed that the last two Hechted pieces turned out as badly for the box office as for art, and the last Wodehouse film opus will be lucky if it grosses expenses.

What are such sentiments called in your section? There used to be a phrase—something like over-fermented grapes, I believe. Or "beating the boss to the draw."

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

Every time I attend an opening and gape at the banks of celebrities I am overcome with morbid speculation. What would happen if an earthquake shook the house down and blotted out so big a slice of Mazda and front-page fame? Would the headlines and marquees blaze with a new firmament of idols tomorrow evening?

The other night, at a gaudy opening, I spotted the following rubbing elbows in the lobby between the acts:

Alfred E. Smith, Ethel Barrymore, Roger Wolf Kahn, Bearice Lillie, Milton Shubert, Howard Dietz, Groucho and Chico Marx, Florenz Ziegfeld, Lillian Gish, Geo. White, Queenie Smith, Arthur Hopkins, Lewis Milestone, Otto Kahn, Own Davis, Albertina Rasch, Osgood Perkins, Irving Berlin, Ray Goetz, Judith Anderson, Irene Bordoni, Gilbert Miller, Max Gordon, Ina Claire, Conde Nast, Morton Downey, Hannah Williams, Barbara Bennett, Harold Ross, Samuel Goldwyn, Mary Duncan and Mayor James J. Walker.

If sudden fire or flood or act of providence descended on that company—

Ooof! What a fancy. That'll be enough, Mr. Aswell, for today.

FIRST LIE DETECTOR
(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Calif.—The first lie detector ever used will be sent to Chicago by Chief of Police August Vollmer, where it will form part of the police exhibit at the 1932 world's fair, it is announced here. The detector was devised in 1922 by Dr. John A. Larson, then a member of the Berkeley police force and now assistant state criminologist of Illinois.

$100,000,000 IN CORSETS
(International News Service)

CHICAGO.—Women still wear corsets even though they call them by a different name, according to H. P. Kennedy, president of the Chicago Corset club. Between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 worth of business was done during the past year in the corset business, it was revealed at the 19th annual banquet.

Gold-Filled Alberta Waters Hold Tenaciously To Wealth

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 8.—Gold lies in nearly every river, stream and lake in Alberta, but mother earth holds tenaciously to her wealth, crushing man's onslaught for the elusive mineral. Men have discovered gold in the numerous waters and in various parts of the province, visioning fortunes, but every strike since 1879 has proven a failure.

Now unemployed drifters are braving the Canadian winter to pan the icy streams in many parts of the province. The hardest workers sometimes net as much as $1.70 a day.

The men congregated recently on the shores of the Saskatchewan river, and trouble arose when they could not muster the $1.75 required for each panning permit. The provincial government met the emergency by passing a special order-in-council, permitting the searchers to continue operation on a restricted area of the river.

As the gold-hunters stoop in their tedious task, the colorful stories of lost claims are revived among them and retold in varied and embroidered versions.

Oft-told is the tale of Joe Lemon and "Black-Jack" who the Stoney Indians say, came to Alberta from Montana in 1879, discovered gold in the foothills near the Livingstone river now known as Nanton, and made $27,000.

But the gold greed started a quarrel, which ended when Lemon killed his partner with an axe. Lemon was convicted of the crime in Montana, but died of smallpox before he could be hanged, the Indian story goes.

The "Lost Lemon Mine" has been a legend ever since, and spasmodic rushes have been started by reports of rich "finds." One of the latest was last February when someone found a piece of quartz in the Livingstone valley, 35 miles west of Nanton. Five hundred fortune hunters, many ill-equipped for the winter's hardships, crowded into the valley, but only a little gold dust from the river was their reward.

Last October another rush was started in the Fallen Timber Creek country, but the prospectors had only frozen fingers and disappointment for their trouble.

Famous Name On Police Docket

Another Famous Name Figures In The Hearing Held Today

Famous names were plentiful in the affairs of the city police court this morning.

The audience at police court kind of looked up, when the mayor told "Abe Lincoln" to step forward and present his side of the case.

The bearer of the name had a gray beard but there was little in his stature to remind one of the man, whose name he bears and apparently with all legal right.

According to the story told by Lincoln and others in the case, Lincoln went out and imbibed too freely of the kind of liquor that makes walking hard and he hailed and hired a taxicab operated by Nick Carter.

Now it didn't take Nick long to find out that Lincoln had no funds so just naturally, he landed his passenger at his ultimate destination in most any case, the city jail.

After hearing the case, the mayor discharged Lincoln with the proviso that he get and pay to Carter, the money due the latter for the taxicab ride.

HUNTED SPIES IN WAR; NOW HUNTS FIRST MAN

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 8.—He tracked down German spies during the war; now he's hunting for traces of primitive man. He led in the fight against the great fire of Salonika in 1917, when 70,000 were made homeless, and now he's chief officer of the Farnham Fire Brigade.

He is Major A. G. Wade, archaeologist, late of the Secret Service. A terse sign outside his home in Surrey "Wade—Antiques," tells his business. His avocation is the hunt for the first man.

On his 50th birthday he discussed some of his spy-hunting activities.

It was he who plunged all England into darkness for many nights during the war. The darkness order was a spy-trap.

"On a certain night in the spring of 1915 the order was suddenly put into effect throughout Surrey. Cars were stopped and all lights were concealed.

"Six enemy spies were caught signalling by lamp. As a result, the lights out order was put into effect throughout the country. Many spies were caught and the German communication system crippled."

AVERAGE MAN EATS JUST WHAT HE WANTS

(International News Service)

LEWISTON, Idaho, Jan. 8.—While dieticians raise their hands in horror and waiters look on aghast, Mr. Average-man sits down to his table and orders what he likes. And some of the things he likes, a survey of Lewiston restaurants reveals, are enough to blanche the brow of an ostrich.

For instance, one regular customer delights to eat ice cream and chilli con carne at the same time, alternating a sip of one with a big spoonful of the other. Another eats raisin pie for breakfast and has done so for six years. Lumberjacks fresh in from hard labor think nothing of eating a 12-inch pie at one sitting to top off a regular meal.

Young women when eating and paying their own bills invariably order a less expensive meal than when they eat with a man, it was learned. The girls are also lenient when girl friends are paying the check.

THOUGHT HIS DRIVER'S LICENSE PERPETUAL

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 8.—Discussion of the proposition of licensing operators of automobiles in this city in an effort to curb reckless drivers prompted John W. Macleod to dig in an old trunk to resurrect a license issued to him in August, 1907.

The license gave Macleod, then a chauffeur for a banker here, permission to operate both gasoline and steam propelled automobiles, specifically mentioning a gasoline vehicle and a "steamer." The license was numbered 720.

It has been kept by Macleod, who was advised at the time of its issuance that it would be perpetuated.

The law under which the permit was granted was repealed in 1911 when the general registration act was passed creating a department of motor vehicles.

EDNA MAY COOPER PLANS A WORLD HOP

(International News Service)

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 8.—A round-the-world flight on $2!

This is the latest project being planned by Miss Edna May Cooper, pretty film actress, co-holder with Miss Bobbie Trout of the women's sustained flight record of 122 hours and 50 minutes.

Miss Cooper, who was in Denver visiting with friends recently, believes that girls with ingenuity have a better chance to make good than ever before, and she proposes to cash in on her knowledge of aviation. Just how she plans to finance the flight of 25,000 miles or more on $2 she refused to reveal.

Miss Cooper, brunette, let it be known that she is through with the movies. "There's too much acting and not enough action in the picture business these days," she declared. I wish they'd bring back the good old days when Big Bill Hart and Tom Mix were rounding up bandit gangs and shooting up the town. In those days a girl who could fly a plane, ride a bronco or pilot a speed boat had a chance."

ONE PROHIBITION LAW THAT WAS ENFORCED

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 8.—At least one prohibition law worked, according to Judge H. A. McKeown, ex-chief justice of the New Brunswick court in Canada and now of Montreal. China passed the law 2,500 years ago, he said here in a speech.

"There were only two punishments named in this ancient law, but they had the desired effect of stopping the flow of rice whiskey," Judge McKeon said.

"The first punishment, and the mild one, was pronounced on the man who had the liquor in his possession. All his property was taken from him and he was ordered to jail for life. And the man who sold the liquor was beheaded.

"In all my studies of laws of nations, this is the only prohibition one I have read about that was a success."

"GOOD SOLDIER" BUT HAS WEAK HEART

(International News Service)

BRISTOL, Conn., Jan. 8.—Seventy years ago two patriotic youths, fired with the desire to serve their country, rushed up to a recruiting station and applied for enlistment in the Union army. Edward H. Allen passed the tests and subsequently saw service in the Civil war.

The other young man was rejected with much solemn head-shaking by army doctors. It was useless for him to try military service, they told Jason H. Clemence. He had a weak heart. He would probably die before he could get to the front.

Jason H. Clemence died the other day in Salisbury, N. C., at the age of 89. He retired there seven years ago, quitting an active career in which he had conducted a laundry, served on a school committee and numerous other Bristol organizations.

LAWMAKING IN BULK

(International News Service)

CHICAGO.—Manufacture of laws is one of America's leading industries, though not always its most valuable one, James L. Donnely, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturing association, believes. He reminded members of the Chicago Purchasing Agents association at a meeting here that during the current legislative year there were more than 200,000 laws suggested to various law-making bodies. In the state legislatures alone, he said, 67,000 bills were introduced. Only 17,000 were enacted.

BUILD APPLETON CHAPEL

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A gift of Harvard alumni, the university memorial chapel is expected to be completed next September. The site of the memorial, which will be named Appleton chapel, stands between Thayer and Sever halls, in Harvard Yard. It was chosen by a vote of Harvard alumni at a meeting in Baltimore more than six years ago, and the Associated clubs appointed a committee, with Allston Burr, '89, of Boston, as chairman, which has since that time raised the money to put the plan into effect.

TO HOLD 'POSSUM DINNER

(International News Service)

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma, may be called on to help southern-born Walla Walla residents in getting a real 'possum dinner. A resident of Oklahoma agreed to furnish the southern delicacy "for a reasonable price," and then was informed by a county game warden that the opossums could not be shipped out of Oklahoma. An appeal to the state game warden was made, and if this failed, a telegram was to be sent to "Alfalfa Bill."

Program Outlined

This close-up shows Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as he read his message to the 1932 State Legislature. The Governor called for national leadership that is "practical, sound, courageous and alert," and pointed out the need for reconstruction of a better ordered civilization. He offered a 4-point tax plan for the increase of State revenues.

DANCING PARTNERS SCARCE AT YALE

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8.—The bureau of appointments at Yale university, the student employment agency, does not supply dancing partners. That's that.

Undergraduates, inspection of the bureau records disclosed, can be provided to do almost any kind of manual or mental toil, from window washing to acting as companions for the aged and indigent wealthy. But dances, whether at girls' schools in Connecticut or New Haven social events, would be exclusively feminine affairs if the Yale bureau had to be depended upon to furnish male escorts.

Why Yale frowns upon conducting the dance partner business—and apparently it does—is not known, unless the policy grew merely from a desire to differ from Harvard where, Yale men are willing to believe, a score of terpsichore experts can be rushed to any undermanned girls' school dance in the Boston area at a moment's notice.

TO MAP STATE BY AIRPLANE PHOTOS

(International News Service)

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 8.— Airplanes will be used to remap northern Wisconsin, in the belief that photographic maps made from the air are more accurate than sketched maps as well as easier and less expensive to make, according to an announcement by E. F. Bean, state geologist.

Maps of some sections are now so old that lakes shown on them have long ceased to exist. Towns yet unborn when the charts were drawn are now prosperous villages and towns.

GARNISHEEING FOR TAXES

(International News Service)

GLASGOW, Ky.—Garnishment of wages is the new system of collecting city taxes put into effect here by Mrs. Nina W. Pedigo, city tax collector. Mrs. Pedigo has just issued attachments for the wages of 80 Glasgow tobacco workers employed by local warehouses and factories. They had not paid their city pool tax of $1.50 due August 1. As the result of the garnishee action $2.60 representing the tax and penalty were deducted from each man's wages. The city came ahead $208.

POLICE ROBBED ON DUTY

CLEVELAND—While two policemen sought to learn why the burglar alarm at a Building and Loan company office was ringing, thieves broke into the officers' automobile and looted it. The machine was parked less than a half block from loan company offices.

Five-Day-Week Pioneer Builds Town Of 50,000

Former Immigrant Show Worker Builds Big Business

(International News Service)

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 8.— Once an immigrant shoe worker arriving from Czechoslovakia, Thomas Blata, has created a city of 50,000 population, and has made it the biggest boot market in the world, is the story his friends tell here.

He was the first man to introduce into Europe a five-day week. His cooperative plan of having his 30,000 employes share in the profits, or losses, of his big business has turned all eyes to his manufacturing system.

Blata's factory town is Zlinn, Czechoslovakia. Company-owned apartments are rented at low figures to the workers. Lunches are served at the plant for about 10 cents a plate, and there is an occasional movie show which costs the equivalent of two cents.

Back in 1923, Blata began manufacturing 1800 pairs of shoes a day to sell at wholesale for $6.60 a pair. In the years intervening, he has increased production to 150,000 pairs and reduced the wholesale price to $1.50 a pair, with a further reduction in prospect. Ground has already been broken in Silesia, Germany, for a new factory to employ 10,000 men, his American friends say.

The mass production and profit-sharing plan of Blata's system provides that every worker over 20 years of age become interested in the earnings of the plant. If the plant profits, labor is paid 50 per cent of the profits, the other 50 per cent being retained by the organization. If the plant operates at a loss, a percentage of the worker's pay is immediately cut from his weekly salary, to make up for the loss.

DEFTLY FASHIONS OLD SHIPS FROM MEMORY

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 8.—In order that the beauty of the proud sailing vessels will not be lost to coming generations, "Uncle John" Rossen, 77, resident of the Masonic Home near Arlington spends hours each day in carving out true models of the poetic vessels that once hailed the seven seas.

When he finishes a three-masted schooner, a light ship and a barkentine, ten distinctive types will be represented in the Masonic Home and School library. Types already completed are the clipper, frigate, bark, sloop, brig, brigantine, and galeas.

Although his tools consist only of a pocket knife, sand paper and wire pliers, his models are complete in every detail, even to the tiny wire anchor chain which he fashions.

All the vessels are fashioned from memory of the ships he encountered more than fifty years ago when he ran away from his Swedish home and joined the Norwegian merchant marine.

MISTAKES PONY FOR ELK

(International News Service)

DENVER. — There is one elk hunter in Colorado who has been advised to have his eyes tested—not by his physician but by a game warden. He found that among the numerous and sundry objects which elk hunters had shot during the ten-day open season was a white pony. A small boy was riding the pony. The boy was uninjured, but the pony was killed. Parvin estimates that about 200 elk were killed in the eleven counties having an open season this year, as compared to 300 killed in three counties in 1930.

1915 MARRIAGE ANNULLED

(International News Service)

COQUILLE, Ore.—Annullment of a marriage 16 years old was asked here recently in circuit court by Nettie M. La Chappelle, Marshfield. She alleged that her son, Jack Lenzil La Chappelle, was a minor when he married Ada Fern Major. The ceremony was performed in 1915.

Backed by Women

Miss Mary E. Woolley.

Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., only woman delegate from the United States to the Geneva disarmament conference to be held in February, goes with the acclaim of American womanhood. Miss Woolley is president of the American Association of University Women, which organization is a member of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, which will hold its conference in Washington, D. C., Jan. 18-21.

To Aid Gandhi

Designating the British Government of India as "unmoral, immoral and non-moral," Mrs. Sailendra Nath Ghose, young American wife of the president of the India National Congress of America, has announced her intention of heading a group of women which will go to India and offer civil resistance in sympathy with the natives. Mrs. Ghose, a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, made her announcement following the arrest and imprisonment of the Indian leader.

CRIPPLES ARE AIDED BY ORGANIZATION

(International News Service)

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 8.— More than 3,000 crippled children are receiving an education in Wisconsin according to John Callahan, state superintendent of schools.

Despite their handicaps, facilities have been provided by the state cooperating with the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled, so that these children can enjoy the privilege of a grade school education, at least. High school students are aided only in those cases where the family is totally unable to do so.

Through the association, transportation of crippled children to and from school is arranged and board and lodging are obtained for those who must live away from home.

Sons' Suicide Realized Mother's Wish

Choice of Death Before Capture Probably Only Decision in Lives of Young Brothers, Slayers of Six Officers, Approved by Mother.

Trapped in a house at Houston, Texas, Harry and Jennings Young, slayers of six law officers at Springfield, Mo., put an end to their own lives before they would submit to capture. Thus they inadvertently committed the only act of their notorious career of which their mother approved. Mrs. W. H. Young, mother of the desperadoes, stated when questioned by police that she prayed her boys would commit suicide before they'd allow the law to exact the penalty for their crimes. Mrs. Young had eight children, four of whom were boys. Of the four, only one, Oscar, stuck to the straight and narrow path. The other three, Harry, Paul and Jennings, embarked at an early age upon a career of lawlessness and soon acquired prison records. The gun battle at the Young farm in Springfield, Mo., was the climax of their career. It resulted from an attempt by a posse to arrest Harry, wanted for a murder committed two years ago. The cold-blooded killing of six officers of the posse aroused the State and the Nation. More than 10,000 police, deputies, special officers and volunteers aided in hunting the killers. But women members of the Young family, Vineta and Mrs. Alber Conley, sisters of the killers, freely predicted that their brothers would never be taken alive. The mother said she hoped they wouldn't.

He's a Hot Babe

Looking more like a desert sheik than the famous Sultan of Swat, George Herman Ruth, celebrated home run slugger of the New York Yankees, is shown swathed in blankets and towels following his first gymnasium workout of the season, preparatory to going South for Spring training. The Babe, who is getting in shape at a New York gym, indicated that he would demand $80,000 for next season, notwithstanding the threat of a salary cut for all players.

Diamond Chief Stepping Out

Full of what the intellectuals call "joie de vivre," but which is more familiarly known as "pep," John J. McGraw waves an enthusiastic greeting to the cameraman who was on hand to greet him on his arrival in Havana, Cuba, to spend the Winter. The New York Giants' boss and his "boss," who is shown with him, are familiar figures in the Cuban capital, to which they make a pilgrimage each year.

NEW CHAMPIONS IN GOLF PROBABLE NEXT SEASON

It is hardly likely that all major golf champions will continue to reign through 1932. Billy Burke, 1931 open champion, must overcome some very formidable opposition. His most dangerous competitor at this time seems to be George Von Elm, "business man" golfer. Francis Ouimet, veteran amateur champion, may have to bow to younger stars, such as Jack Westlund, whom he defeated in the finals last year. Walter Hagen, apparently past his prime, may rise to the top again. The Walker cup, international amateur team trophy, will again be in competition in 1932.

Has Conference On Post Office

Architect Back From Washington—Progress On Project Here

FEDERAL COURT PLAN OPPOSED

Plans were being laid today by the W. G. Eckles company, local architects, for the immediate preparation of required "cabinet sketches" of the proposed New Castle post office-federal building, following the return of R. A. Eckles from a conference with government officials at Washington, D. C.

The "cabinet sketches" will be drawn and submitted to those members of President Hoover's cabinet whose departments will occupy space in the new building. This approval is a necessary step under government building procedure.

Gets Cooperation

Mr. Eckles, who reached home last night, came back enthusiastic over the fine cooperation which every department official gave him. Down in Washington they're doing everything possible to hurry the project along, he told The News.

The local architect was summoned to Washington in December to be present when the preliminary building plans would reach the architects of the Treasury department. This week's conference saw this preliminary outline approved.

It may take two or three weeks before the necessary signatures of the cabinet officers are obtained, said Mr. Eckles, but once they sign it gives us permission to proceed. We will then start preparation of the working drawings.

No Federal Court

Through Congressman J. Howard Swick, Mr. Eckles learned just before leaving the capital that the talked-of plan to include a federal courtroom in the post office building has been "definitely abandoned."

Mr. Eckles said that the congressman used every force possible to secure the judical recognition for the city, but his efforts failed to win the government's sanction of the plan.

You may tell them for me that a federal courtroom is definitely out, Congressman Swick told Mr. Eckles.

Only this week the city's Lions club and others launched a formal drive to win the appointment of New Castle as a federal court district, hoping that in some way the courtroom would be incorporated in the post office plans.

At Washington Mr. Eckles conferred with representatives of the post office, treasury, war, navy, labor and civil service departments. The secretaries of these, with the exception of the latter, must place their signatures to the sketches which the architects will provide for their scrutiny.

What impressed me, Mr. Eckles repeated again, after explaining whom he visited, was the eagerness of all the department men to go along and work with you.

Start More Tests

Before departing, Mr. Eckles received authority for his firm to make additional topographical tests on the public square site of the proposed building. They will start these tests at once.

The government made the first tests of the land sometime ago with a local engineer, and these were approved.

Most of the three days that Mr. Eckles spent with the government officials was consumed in checking the floor plans details for each department which will be housed in the local federal building.

J.O.U.A.M. Plans Washington Dinner

Seek To Bring National Secretary To Birthday Dinner In City

Arrangements are being completed for the annual Washington Day dinner of Castle council No. 365, Junior Order of United American Mechanics of New Castle. The affair, held on the birthday of Washington, has always proven a huge success.

The council, of which Ben Wilcox is councillor, is endeavoring to bring James Wilmot, national secretary of the Junior Mechanics, to the city for the dinner. The event will be held in a local church. Several churches are now being considered by the council.

GROWTH ON SHIPS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Barnacles and other organisms of the sea, fastening themselves on the bottom of ships, reduce the speed of ocean vessels and cause heavy fuel losses, Captain Henry Williams of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, United States navy, declares.

"In the early days of steel ships serious difficulties were encountered, on account of the lack of knowledge of proper methods of preventing the attachment of marine growths," he says. "Vessels were delayed, their voyages prolonged, and serious losses incurred.

"There are many instances where 1,000 tons of marine growths have been removed from vessels in drydock. Even a small amount of marine growth on the bottom of a ship results in reduced speed and increased fuel consumption; therefore, it is not hard to realize that enormous amounts of fuel are expended annually in joy-riding barnacles."

Harvard Museum Gets Rare Game

Bongo, Antelope And Giant Forest Hog Latest Specimens

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 8.—To the mammal collection at the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology have been added a male and female of the shyest of all species of African antelope, the Bongo, and a Giant Forest Hog, so big that it might be mistaken for a small rhinocerous. The rare and valuable animals were shot by Frederick G. Carnochan, '13, on a recent trip to East Africa.

The Bongo it was explained at Harvard, is usually found in the highlands and heavy forests of Kenya Colony, in West Africa. A characteristic is the white cross stitches on the hide and the open, spiral, form of horns. Owing to the keenness of sight, scent and hearing the animal is approached with the greatest difficulty except when it is feeding.

Few big game hunters in Africa bag either Bongo or Giant Forest Hog. The later animal, known as Hylocharus, is much larger than the Bush Pig or Wart Hog. It inhabits the dense forests of Central Africa. So large is it in size that it has sometimes been mistaken for a small "rhino." The natives describe the East African race of the Giant Forest Hog as being ferocious and known to make occasional unprovoked attacks on women gathering faggots in the forest.

Reappoint Golf Board Members

Richards, Round And Woolcock To Continue In Advisory Capacity

When council met today at the city building, Howard Richards, Louis Round and Daniel Woolcock were reappointed to serve as a civilian advisory board for the municipal golf course this year.

Council met with Mayor Mayne in the chair and the three members presented their resignations.

The letter said they did not wish to embarrass the new council if the body had any new ideas regarding municipal golf operation.

The resignations formally were accepted as Councilman Genkinger said the appointments had been made for one year only.

He then offered a motion renaming the three men to the positions and it was passed unanimously.

Later council adopted Councilman Genkinger's motion formally thanking the body for its assistance during 1931.

Last year the golf course showed a nice profit and as a result only half the 1931 appropriation was necessitated for 1932.

The civilian board members do not draw compensation, but have given considerable of their time to help make golf pay a profit here.

Plane May Fly Fast As Time

Stratosphere Ship Designed To Go 1,000 M. P. H.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8.—A long, all metal monoplane designed to fly 1,000 miles an hour through stratosphere and keep pace with the clock is being tested in Germany.

Construction of the plane, conceived by Dr. Hugo Junkers, famous aircraft builder of Dessau, was revealed here by C. S. Von Heydekampf, research engineer of the Baldwin-Southwark Corporation of Philadelphia.

The plane built of duraluminum, was finished last August and since then has been given tests preliminary to flights in the stratosphere, Von Heydekampf said. At 15,000 meters, or about 10 miles, it is expected to reach its maximum efficiency.

Two passengers will be sealed in an air-tight cabin, which is insulated against the cold and designed to resist internal pressure when the plane climbs into the stratosphere.

A compressor will supply oxygen, and carbon dioxide exhaled by the occupants will be disposed of by a special apparatus. The cabin will be electrically heated. The motor contains a greater amount of magnesium than any other yet built.

"In constructing the plane, it was necessary to combat two things—the exceremely low temperatures which exist at 10 miles from the earth and the thin atmosphere," Von Heydekampf said. One all-important problem, that of ice forming on the outside of the ship reaches the altitude of extreme cold, is yet to be solved.

The fuselage of the plane is about 60 feet long and its wing spread is 40 feet.

CRUELTY IS CHARGED IN DIVORCE CASE

Eva Salae has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from her husband, Frank Salae, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in August, 1929, and lived together until January 2, 1932. This is the first application for divorce that has been filed in which the separation has occurred this year.

BIRDS FOLLOW TRAIN FOR MEAL

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 8.—When the Sandy "local" labors and puffs its way to or from Salt Lake, birds flock toward the right-of-way.

The reason?

Homer T. Stewart, engineer.

Stewart has been oppressed by the sight of starving birds. Since that time he has made it a practice to scatter grain along the right-of-way daily.

At first only a few birds were present. But the word spread and now the local's trip is the signal for a feathered convention.

WHAT NEW CASTLE SCHOOLS ARE DOING

Under the general caption of "Know Your School Series," a series of bulletins has been prepared by various teachers of the New Castle schools dealing with the activities of the schools.

Each bulletin deals with some particular phase of school life in this city and the entire series can be classed as a full description of the school curriculum here.

THE SUPERVISION OF INSTRUCTION

C. C. GREEN, SUPERINTENDENT

As a preface to this discussion we shall use excerpts from a survey report which we prepared in 1929 at the request of the superintendent of public instruction and delivered at the Educational Congress that year.

The subject of this report was The Organization of the Personnel of the Superintendent's Office for the Improvement of Instruction. The discussion of the subject fell under two heads: (1) What is the practice in Pennsylvania today? (2) What do we consider an ideal type of organization?

In our study we did not adopt the usual questionnaire method. Superintendents of certain representative school systems in western, central and eastern Pennsylvania were given an opportunity to describe in their own manner the organization of the personnel of their offices for the improvement of instruction. These reports were analyzed and classified.

An examination was made of the organization of all cities of the state as provided by official reports and other special studies.

While we may assume that the whole duty of a superintendent of schools is to direct public education in this community, utter frankness compels the admission that in many instances much of the superintendent's energy is dissipated by activities only remotely concerned with the educative process. Community traditions, the character of the community, and the administrative organization set up by the school board are factors which determine whether a superintendent of schools shall be primarily a director of learning, a business executive, a glorified politician or a combination of all three.

In cities of more than 30,000 population in Pennsylvania and the country at large there appears to be a well-defined tendency to organize the administrative affairs of the district in such a manner that the superintendent is relieved of personal responsibility for minor business details. Recent studies by the U. S. bureau of education indicate a definite tendency to hold the superintendent directly responsible for purely instructional matters, to create such offices as business manager, superintendent of buildings, grounds and equipment, superintendent of supplies and to make these officers responsible to the school board through the superintendent of schools. It is our judgment that this tendency is based upon a sound conception of the function of a superintendent of school, and we believe it to be a condition prerequisite to the proper organization of the superintendent's office for the improvement of instruction.

While supervision in its restricted sense is only one phase of the larger problem of improving instruction, it is worthy of special consideration in this study.

A study made by Dr. Gerald Yoakum of the University of Pittsburgh in 1929 reveals a remarkable lack of uniformity in first, second and third class cities of Pennsylvania in the organization for the supervision of instruction. The following types of organization were reported:

First class cities—Staff organization 50 per cent, line organization 50 per cent.

Second class cities—Staff organization 58.3 per cent, line organization 8.3 per cent, unidentified 33.3 per cent.

Third class cities—Staff organization 36 per cent, line organization 29 per cent, unidentified 35 per cent.

With respect to the types of supervisors employed, no type is common to all cities of the state, although the music supervisor is most frequently employed.

Dr. Yoakum says: "There is no general agreement as to the duties of the subject supervisor. He appears to be more or less a handy man about the place. The duty most frequently mentioned is that of looking after supplies in his own field.' Of course that is one of his minor duties.

Eighty-three and three-tenths of the second class and 80 per cent of the third class report conflict of authority between the supervisor and principal. In most cities the superintendent acts as referee when such conflicts arise.

An examination of the dominant activities of the representative group of superintendents indicated above reveals six distinct types of serious-minded superintendents, as follows: 'The super-teacher type, the consulting engineer, the research specialist, the organization expert, the combination of consulting engineer and research specialist, and the combination of consulting engineer and organization expert.

The super-teacher type is sometimes found in the smaller cities. He visits personally every teacher in his schools each month, or more frequently—in some cases he makes 300 visits each month. He proceeds on the assumption that he is the most highly skilled teacher in any grade or any subject in his school system, that he is the most skillful supervisor in the system, that he can diagnose a school room situation in from three to five minutes, prescribe a remedy and pass on to the next class. His is usually a one-man organization which will come to grief when he is unable to function as a commander-in-chief.

The consulting-engineer type is usualiy a man of extensive training and experience. Because of training, experience and temperament he is disposed to make a careful and deliberate study of every situation before he offers his opinion. In the meantime he is always prepared to utilize every resource at his command, especially the personnel of his organization, to determine data from which conclusions may be safely drawn.

The research specialist at his best is a diagnostician. At his worst he is a "measuring worm". We shall consider him at his best. He approaches his task with a scientific attitude of mind and he evaluates instruction in terms of quantitative or qualitative standards. If he is a capable executive, remedial measures will follow his diagnosis of a situation and he will proceed with the improvement of instruction on a sound basis. If he is a weak executive his research activities may seriously interfere with the teaching process.

The organization expert has ability to marshall his forces, even though they are inadequate, so that effective results may be obtained in terms of whatever standards appear to be desirable at a given time. If valid standards are not adopted, his organization may present the appearance of a satisfactory school situation but be woefully deficient in results. His instructional corps is so organized that it will function for a reasonable period without his active participation. It is not a one-man organization.

Then we note the consulting engineer-organizing expert type, and the consulting engineer-research specialist type.

In the city of New Castle the supervision of instruction is done by the principals and by supervisors of music, art and health under the general direction of the superintendent of schools. It has been our constant endeavor to impress upon the principals the generally recognized principle that the supervision of the instructional features of the school is their most important function. This includes the following items: the improvement of the teacher's classroom procedure, the administration of the curriculum requirements, attention to the individual needs of pupils, special attention to pupils who constitute problem cases, general and special method—including demonstration lessons by the principal himself, the professional improvement of teachers, the rating of teachers and kindred subjects.

The supervision of the elementary schools and the junior high schools is complicated in New Castle by the practice of filling vacancies in those grades with inexperienced teachers. The teacher training institutions give their students an abundance of theory but a negligible amount of practice teaching before graduation. When a young lady receives her certificate she is still a beginner—merely ready to learn the actual work of teaching. It becomes necessary for the principal to give the greater part of his time to the training of these new teachers. Most of them do not even know how to make their monthly statistical reports. The actual management of a group of children is in itself a problem which sometimes overwhelms them.

We admit that some of these novitiates can keep order and do a small amount of teaching, but the apt young teacher who has had one or two years of experience in a small school before entering a system where an effort is made to maintain a high degree of excellence is at least prepared to manage a group of children. She is then able to apply her intelligence to purely instructional matters. Her previous experience may not have given her great skill in teaching, but it has given her a knowledge of a number of factors which she must master before she can begin the important work of teaching.

The employment of 30 or 40 inexperienced teachers every year saves the taxpayers some money by giving them cheap instruction and it gives jobs to that number of young ladies and gentlemen, but it is done at the expense of the children's educational welfare. We realize perfectly well that many of these beginners "get along well" with their pupils and their parents, but "getting along well" is only a part of successful teaching.

There is only one practical and safe way to supervise instruction. It must be done by the principal or the special supervisor. Interference by other agencies never results in anything but injury to the pupils' welfare. The whole field of supervision is under the direction of the superintendent of schools, and when he offers suggestions to teachers he does it through the principal or the supervisor. Teacher's efficiency score cards are filed with the superintendent at the close of each semester.

Former Michigan Congress Member Called By Death

Joseph Warren Fordney, Co-Framer Of Tariff Bill, Dies At Saginaw

(International News Service)

SAGINAW, Mich., Jan. 8.—Joseph Warren Fordney, 78, for 24 years a Michigan congressman, died at his home here this morning from a complication of diseases. He had been seriously ill since Sunday.

Fordney retired from active politics in 1923 refusing to stand for re-election. His long battle for high tariff revision accomplished in the Fordney-McCumber bill, he explained that his legislative work was finished.

His wife had been a lifelong member of the Roman Catholic faith and in 1924 Fordney joined her as a convert to that religion.

FAST PLANES TO HAVANA

HAVANA—Next year the traveler seeking escape from rigors of a northern winter, will drive through snow banks to the New York airport, board an airplane and in ten hours disembark in sunny Havana, according to the prediction of Lou Reichers, noted speed pilot. "Speed fliers are blazing the trail" he said "and the same manufacturers who are making our record breaking machines, soon will be building passenger craft which can easily make Havana in 10 hours from New York, with only one or two stops enroute."

PEARS BY MILLIONS

SAN FRANCISCO—California grew and packed nearly 1,894,898 cases of pears in 1931 according to figures released by the Canners League of California. This was slightly lower than the 1930 pack, the report said. Oregon and Washington grew and packed 1,880,832 cases.

Unchanging Past Seen In Quebec

Present People Claim Kinship With Pioneers Who Came There In 1615

Endure Rigorous Climate, Cling To Farms Despite The Other Lures

The unchanging past can be found in Quebec, the ancient capital of New France. Among the Norman cottages of the Beaupre road, and in the pastoral serenity of the Isle of Orleans, the past is the present, the present other age, houses a busy people, as in the past.

Quebec, though consecrated to anwell as shades of a glorious past. What is more, the people one meets, the storekeepers and government officials, all claim kinship with the shades.

From the Place d'Armes, near the Chateau Frontenac, walk past the Angelican cathedral, one block down Rue de Ste. Anne. This pinched street opens into the sunlight of Hotel de Ville (City Hall) Park. One cannot fail to see the splendid statue of Louis Hebert framed there against the granite entrance. Of Hebert, the Parisian pharmacist who left his mortar and pestle to become Canada's first farmer, citizens of Quebec are very fond.

Pioneers Came In 1615

But one should see especially a bronze plate on the base of Hebert's statue bearing seventy-one names, French Canada's Mayflower list. The first eleven names are of those pioneer farmers who came to New France between 1615 and 1641, writes William Dou Boutwell in the National Geographic Magazine. They are Noel Langlois, Charles Le Moine, Paul de Rainville, Nicholas Belanger, Gaspar Boucher, Jean Hebert, Jacques Gourdeau, Guillaume Couillard, Abraham Martin, Jean Cote, and Jacques Scelle.

The other sixty came within the twenty-five years following 1641. The names on the bronze plate, one soon discovers, are the names on stores and offices lining the streets of Quebec; a Langlois is a dentist on Rue de St. Jean; a Belanger's sign, "Marchands de Nouveautes," faces Rue de Notre Dame; a Le Moine, Sir James Le Moine, wrote charming tales of Quebec displayed in the bookstores; a Couillard is a grocer and a Hebert runs the St. Malo garage.

The shades of the past and the citizens of the present are indeed related!

Old Names Survive

In the Quebec telephone directory one may find listed citizens bearing the names of each of the original eleven settlers save Jacques Scelle.

Testing the whole list of seventy-one names by the directory, it is found that sixty fathers apparently supply 1600 names out of 13,000 in the Quebec section. There are 170 Cotes, ninety-three Belangers, fifty-five Langlois, forty-three Bouchers and twenty-one Heberts. The Cotes are the Smiths of Quebec.

Families do not die out in French Canada. Every French Canadian, it is said, knows who were his first ancestors in America, the French town from which they came, the ships they sailed on, and the date on which they arrived in Quebec.

French Clung to Farms

How have they kept their colony intact through 300 years?

One answer is that the families brought over by Samuel de Champlain and Intendant Jean Baptiste Talon have been content to occupy a region in which the English in North America have not been interested—at least not until forests and water power suddenly acquired roseate values. Neither gold in California, nor wheat in Manitoba could stampede the French Canadians. They would not give up their St. Lawrence farms, although many of their sons and daughters have pioneered in the West. They have endured a rigorous climate with a hardihood aptly hit upon by Kipling in one of the most famous of his limericks:

There was a young boy from Quebec
Who fell through some ice on his neck
When asked: "Are you friz?"
He replied: 'Yes, I is.
But we don't call this cold in Quebec!"

French-Canadians love their land and their homes with a deep affection. More than 200 families still occupy the same farms that were first plowed by their ancestors in the seventeenth century.

People Follow the River

On paper their home, Quebec Province, sprawls with tremendous acreage, yet it is small. Officials have under their direction at the government buildings in Quebec an area more than twice the size of Texas: actually they concern themselves chiefly with a narrow, populated corridor with many branches—the St. Lawrence River and its tributaries.

The St. Lawrence unrolls a beautiful blue ribbon upon which the French Canadians have strung farms, villages and cities, like pretty beads. Civilized and cultivated Quebec is a necklace, the rest of the province as they sal, is 'bush."

The second explanation of French-Canadian resistance to the North American melting pot can be found in birthrate figures. White France itself has a very nearly stationary population, New France in America, has one of the highest rates of natural increase among civilized countries.

Colonization Encouraged

A few years ago, the provincial government embarked on a policy of encouraging colonization in undeveloped valleys of the Laurentide Mountains. As an inducement it at one time offered as a gift 100 acres to any prospective colonist, who had twelve children. Land office clerks were confronted by some ambitious fathers demanding 200 acres, claiming headship of families of twenty four or more children.

Panhandler Gets Change Of Diet

Will Get Still Another Change If Caught Again In This City

Panhandlers must go. That is the edict of Mayor Charles B. Mayne. The habit of certain persons with a begging instinct, who have been stopping persons on the street, almost asserting they cannot pass, until their demands have been met, will no longer be tolerated here.

Yesterday afternoon one of this type of beggars, whose home is somewhere else than here, made a serious mistake.

He happened to tackle Mayor Charles B. Mayne, who at once gave a sympathetic ear and learned from the lips of this individual that the soup being served the needy here was simply no good and that he could not and would not eat it.

The mayor told the man to come along with him, telling him that he would provide for the necessary change of diet, which he hoped would be enjoyed. The man, who gave the name of William Donaldson, spent the night in the city jail, and was then removed to the Lawrence county jail for a period of ten days. The mayor informed Donaldson that if caught around here at the end of the ten day period, that he would be provided with a still further change of diet, being given a chance at the workhouse diet in such a case.

Revival Begins At Nazarene Church

A week end evangelistic campaign was begun Thursday evening in the Church of the Nazarene, West Falls street, with Rev. Joel H. Webb of East Palestine, Ohio, as the guest speaker.

Rev. Webb took as his opening subject, "The Blind Beggar" or "The Sinner's Friend" and his comparisons were modern and heart striking.

Mrs. Don Himkson of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church sang "Nailed to the Cross", to the delight of the congregation.

At the close of the service several were anointed and prayer for and testimonies were given.

Services will continue each evening this week at 7:30.

TEXAS CO-EDS IDEAS ON THE 50-50 PLAN

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 8.—The 50-50 idea, whereby the girl pays half the expense on a date, has gained a wide following among the co-eds of Texas Christian university, according to a recent survey.

"I think it is all right for the girls to help out in such times as these. There would be more dates among girls if such a policy were adopted," one girl stated.

"But I wouldn't think of letting a boy know I wanted to go out with him," was the most common answer.

On the other hand—"I would stay at home before I would let a girl pay half the expenses of a date." was the attitude adopted by the male members of the student body of the school.

OLD BILL PAID BY MONEY HID IN 9 LEG

(International News Service)

OROFINO, Idaho, Jan. 8.—A wooden leg worn by Mrs. Emma Gilman, in which was secreted $2,500 in securities, proved a treasure trove for the State of Idaho when it was successful in collecting $1,714 as back pay for Mrs. Gilman's "keep." Mrs. Gilman was a patient at the state hospital for the insane. State law provides that patients pay their own way if they can afford it. Otherwise the state meets the expense When the woman's little board was discovered, the state brought suit and recovered the $1,714 board bill.

GIRLS PROPOSE ANY OLD YEAR

Few Of Them Wait Any More For Leap Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Leap year means nothing to James J. McCormick, chief of the marriage license bureau, except just another year with one day added.

"The women folks don't wait for leap year to pop the question any more. More of them do the proposing nowadays anyway," he said today.

He snapped a rubber band twice around an ornate wedding certificate and called a nervous couple into the box-like chapel where he was tying the knots.

Portly, brusque, a little hard of hearing, McCormick was marrying them at a couple a minute. He wed one couple in less than a minute for they took less time to answer the "regulation yes to the regulation questions which he put to each, a bit impatiently.

"Now kiss your bride," he commanded of the blushing bridegroom as he inkily flourished his signature across each certificate.

Though McCormick admitted recently he received $16,000 a year in gifts from grateful newlyweds, twice his salary from the city, and told the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee he had banked $299,499 in the last six years, he was not even getting a "thank you" from his clients today.

"They pay $2 for their license downstairs and $2 for their marriage one flight up here, that's all," said he.

"But," he added, "if they want to, some pay more. Yes, it depends on the couple, the money they have, and how happy they are."

"Sometimes I marry the same couple twice. They come here and get married and in a little while they get divorced. But lots of them come back and take the same chance all over again."

"And they are taking a chance," he commented between the couple-a-minute process.

McCormick said they all looked alike to him no matter what year it was. Anyway, he didn't think the marrigging business would pick up in 1932 even if bold lassies did coerce their bashful beaux into the "until death do you part" contract.

As a matter of fact, McCormick said, marriage fell off in 1928, the last leap year. In that year 32,935 couples got licenses from his department. In 1927, 36,220, and in the year after leap year, 1929, 33,945 licenses were issued. Up to December 29 last year only 29,189 were issued.

Young Boy Kills Farmer, Escapes By Using Auto

Elmer Bartholomew, 28, Farmer, Killed By Youth Who Worked For Him

(International News Service)

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 8. — Elmer D. Bartholomew, 28-year-old Bucks county farmer was found shot to death in a barn on his farm in Bedminster township, eight miles north of here today by his wife, Cora. Police believe he was fatally wounded by 15-year-old Stanley Wismer, who has been working on the farm.

Young Wismer fled the Bartholomew home just before the man's body was discovered face down in the barn, according to police The youth took an automobile belonging to Bartholomew. State police immediately sent out wires asking police of nearby counties and villages to aid in the search for the youth.

Legislators are people who spend half their time thinking up ways to get money and the other half thinking up ways to spend it.

Mercer Judge Gives Ruling On School Request

Dismisses Petition Asking That Poor Directors Keep School Children

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Jan. 8.—In an opinion handed down today, Judge J. A. McLaughrey, rendered a decision on the state school code, which will undoubtedly have a wide bearing throughout the state.

A rule had been requested by the school districts of Sharon, Farrell, and Sharpsville, relative to the section of the school code, requiring the poor directors of the county to take care of children of school age, that is, between the ages of 6 and 16, who because of circumstances were unable to secure proper food and clothing.

The judge ruled that in districts where there was no recognized relief agency, the school authorities were to investigate the circumstances and if the children were found to be in need of assistance, that the poor directors would be obligated to give them the proper aid, but that the poor directors were not obligated to do this on a wholesale scale, as had been demanded by the school districts of Sharon, Sharpsville, and Farrell.

Complete Work Of Registering

Registrations For 'Pymatuning Dam Work To End On Saturday

Registration for work on the Pymatuning dam will cease at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday, January 9, according to instructions received by Robert L. Meermans from A. W. Motley, state labor agent who was in the city today for a short time.

The registrations now total approximately 2400 which is more than was anticipated by the Department of Labor and Industry. Because of the heavy registration it is thought unwise to continue inasmuch as the quota for Lawrence county is expected to be about 200 for the first six weeks.

Because of a slight delay in getting housing quarters ready at the dam the men will not start work on next Monday but will be held up for several days according to Mr. Motley. Sufficient time will be given those men selected here to arrange their affairs

DE LUXE TO BERLIN

(International News Service)

BERLIN—The de Luxe Express between Berlin and Naples or the Riveria, which was first put into service last year, will be resumed in January, leaving Berlin, for the first time on January 5 and leaving Naples for the German capital on January 7. Thereafter it will be run three times weekly in each direction, leaving Berlin on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and Naples and Cannes on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays. Although Germany is traversed by various important de luxe trains, this is the only one that has the German capital as one terminus.

CHILD-WITNESS HELPED

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—Dean Peterson, 2½, proved a most effective witness in court for his father, Albert L. Peterson. Peterson was charged with assault. Dean explained how it all came about. "I rode on my tricycle. The mans came out and kicked me —like that." Dean demonstrated for justice of the Peace John B. Wright as he leaned down from the bench and questioned the baby witness. That done, Dean continued triumphantly. "Then daddy came and socked the mans."

STRESSES UGLINESS CURE

(International News Service)

PARIS—Ugliness is a disease which should be and can be easily cured, according to a well-known French surgeon, Dr. Dartigues. "In fact, it is the worst disease mankind knows," says the French doctor, "for it gives no respite. No one need be sick—I mean, ugly, these days when modern surgery is serving a real utilitarian purpose. Beauty surgery may result in most important consequences in the sentimental domain today."

Italian Diplomat In Paris Wounded By Bullet Today

Personal Grudge Results In Deposed Professor Shooting At Consul-General

PARIS, Jan. 8—An attempt upon the life of Signor Gentile, Italian consul-general in Paris, was made today. He was wounded in the thigh by a bullet from a revolver.

Police said the assailant was Michael Richichi, a native of Palermo and formerly professor of Belles Lettres at the Italian school in Paris.

Authorities insisted the attack was not the result of an anti-Fascist conspiracy, declaring it was an act of personal vengeance. Richichi held Signor Gentile responsible for his recent discharge from his post.

BUCK PRIVATE IS NOW A PROFESSOR

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 8—A man who entered the army as a private, was honorably discharged with the rank of a second-lieutenant, entered Harvard and was graduated with highest honors, returns to Harvard as a full professor of law.

He is Sidney Post Simpson, Harvard 1922, co-author of the Wickersham commission report No. 12, on "The Cost of Crime," and for several years an attorney with a New York law firm. He takes up the teaching of equity and trusts in the Harvard Law school.

HUNDRED FLASHES OF LIGHTNING PER SECOND

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 8.—According to the British Meteorological Office 100 flashes of lightning occur on the earth every second. If the power so wasted could be harnessed it would supply all man's needs for ever.

Additional data collected by the Meteorological Office show that at any one time about 1,800 thunderstorms are in progress in different parts of the world. The average frequency of lightning flashes during a storm is 200 every hour.

A simple calculation shows that this gives the amazing figure of 100 flashes every second as representative of the average frequency of lightning discharges over the whole earth.

Endorsement Of Hospital Drive Made By Chamber

Directors Of Chamber Of Commerce Put Stamp Of Approval On Plans

GAS RATES HERE ALSO DISCUSSED

Endorsement of the financial campaign in the interests of the Jameson Memorial hospital, was given by the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Thursday.

The directors also held a lengthy discussion on the rates charged for natural gas here, but no definite action was taken at the meeting.

E. W. Beadel, who represented the city and Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association at St. Louis, gave a report on what was accomplished toward the improvements contemplated in the tri-river district.

President L. G. Genkinger, who attended the National Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington, D. C., reported on what had been accomplished at that meeting, and of conferences held by the representatives in attendance with the U. S. Senators and Congressmen.

The board expressed their regrets at the inability of Secretary Chilton to be present at the meeting, he having been stricken with appendicitis and is now recovering following an operation in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

LOCKSMITH INVENTS ELECTRIC LOCK PICKER

NORFOLK, Neb., Jan. 8.—Have you a lock which you believe to be pick-proof?

If you have, A. B. Nelson, Norfolk locksmith, has invented an electric lock-picker with which he believes he can prove that you are wrong. The chances are 1,000 to 1, Nelson says that he can unlock any lock the average person possesses in 30 seconds.

To the layman there's nothing much to Nelson's invention but a rapidly vibrating needle and a loud buzz.

While the idea and the machine are his own. Nelson hasn't decided what disposition he will make of the device, he says. Nelson is one of the 900 members of the American Association of Master Locksmiths.

City-Governor Has Unique Way To Provide Jobs

Storekeepers Are Told To Have Places Fixed Up

(International News Service)

ROME, Jan. 8.—Rome's City Governor has hit upon a way to keep down unemployment figures. He sends trusty inspectors around the shops to see which need fixing up. When the list is made out the police are sent around to read an order to the listed storekeepers to start having their premises done up within a fortnight. Protests are of no avail. Bad business does not exempt a man from giving work to so many masons, carpenters and painters. He will not always have to pay cash and the contractor gets a small advance from a bank indicated by the Governor.

Some time ago it was brought to the Governor's notice that plumbers were in a bad way and that many water tanks fit for houses were lying unsold in one of the city magazines. In a few days the landlords of a large district called the Prati, lying between the Tiber and the Vatican, were served withh an ukase to change all the tanks in their apartment houses. At their expense, of course. The landlords protested that their tanks were in good condition. They were told that a large fine would be the penalty for delay. So they changed their tanks. Hundreds of plumbers got work for a few weeks and the stock of tanks was sold out on easy terms.

SHIP TURKEYS TO U. S.

(International News Service)

EDMONTON, Alberta—As many as 50 carloads of turkeys were shipped from the province of Alberta to the United States for the Christmas trade. Fourteen years ago the turkey population of Alberta was about 159,000 head, valued at $350,000. Now it is estimated at 614,000 head, valued at $1,136,000. Breeding turkey stock from Alberta has been shipped as far as Jamaica, and numbers of birds are shipped each year to all parts of Canada.

Tureen Dinner Event For P.H.C.

Dinner Is Honor To Deputy Liston—Plan Campaign

Previous to the business session held by New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle on Wednesday night an elaborate tureen dinner was held as a courtesy to the recently appointed Deputy, Albert Liston.

Attractive in every appointment and beautifully arranged were the two long tables where a large number of the members and the honor guest enjoyed a social hour before the circle was called to order, with Vice President Harry Mehlman presiding, it was a busy session throughout.

Among items most important was the appointment of the teams for the three way membership contest now in progress, with Deputy Liston in charge of the campaign.

The national colors will be the slogan under which the teams will work in the interest of the circle, with Past President David Tucker as secretary of the teams with the following members: Team No. 1—Red: with Miss Erma Ray as captain, assisted by Anna Stephenson, Nora McCann, Hildred Back, Bertha Shaffer, David Tucker, L. E. Dandy, Jean Hicks, Hazel Hocks, Jean Munley, Gladys Erwin.

Team No. 2.—White: Helen Hurst, captain; include Belle Kennedy, Grace Hoover, Mrs. David Tucker, Amanda Dandy, Helen Ray, Harry Mehlman, Allie Vogan, A. L. Conn, Mildred Rodgers, Lillie B. Jones.

Team No. 3—Blue: Genevieve Drake, captain; assisted by Flora Cunningham, Kate Cowles, Kathryn E. Jaxheimer, Anna Nolte, Gladys Meilky, Ray Erwin, George Wyman, Etta Welch, Sara Dandy, John Shaffer.

Preparitory to the installation of the recently elected officers splendid reports of the various departments of work were made and plans for the present term arranged.

On Wednesday evening following the session held by the Junior Circle, the degree staff will rehearse for class initiation with L. E. Dandy in charge, when many new features will be worked out by the famous team, and on Wednesday evening, January 20th, the annual installation of officers will be exemplified with State Deputy M. M. Henlein, of Erie, presiding.

This session will be preceded with a tureen dinner and the installation ceremonial will be open to the public at 8 o'clock. Following the ceremonial, Guardian, Helen Ray, will present a program of interest, and a cordial welcome is extended to any who care to attend. Following the session of Wednesday night, the members enjoyed cards. Hildred Back won the ladies prize and the gents prize was captured by David Tucker. Later lunch was served.

LILLIE B. JONES,
Secretary.

Persistence Necessary In Dieting

Health Expert Explains How Weight Is Lost

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The overweight is frequently heard to complain that he (or quite as frequently, she) barely eats enough to keep alive. And yet does not lose weight. Many of the heavy ones tell you with tears in their eyes, that they eat less than the living skeletons.

Good scientific opinion has been found to back this idea. The ductless glands have been considered to have some control over the weight of the body, and in certain cases of their derangement to cause the body to function at a heavier weight even when the intake of food has been greatly restricted.

Even in cases where there is no disease of the ductless glands, experiments have seemed to show that many overweight people carried on the life processes at a lower rate than others and stored food more rapidly instead of burning it. The famous experiments of Strouse indicated that both fat and lean people had a somewhat different physiology than those of normal weight. They maintained their heaviness, or thinness, no matter how little or how much they ate.

But all these ideas are swept aside in the latest word on the subject by Dr. L. H. Newburgh of Ann Arbor, who has made some carefully controlled tests. He finds that all obesity is simple obesity. All fat people act like other people and lose weight proportionately to the loss of food intake.

There is one very interesting and valuable observation which resulted from these tests. When a person is placed on a restricted diet he may not lose weight for several days on account of the water retention by the body. This also appears to be more striking in the overweight than in the normal weight because, there being more tissue in the overweight body, water retention is accomplished by all parts and more water is retained in the heavier body. Thus in one person, when the food intake was reduced nearly half, there was no loss of weight for ten days; then suddenly the water retention stopped and weight loss was considerable in a few days.

The practical lesson from this is that the person who is dieting to reduce weight must not become discouraged if no results are obtained for the first two weeks. Many persons have told me: "Oh! I tried to diet, but I only lost five pounds and then not another pound for a week. So I quit. I'm just naturally fat."

Nobody, according to this report of Dr. Newburgh's, is just naturally fat. Anybody can reduce who wants to badly.

It is possible, however, that the report does not apply to every case of overweight. I am convinced that the weight is to a certain extent controlled by other factors than food intake alone. At certain periods of life, for instance, with no change whatever in the diet, the weight suddenly goes up.

But it is certainly true that middleaged people, in general, eat more than they need. "The primitive instinct (appetite)," says Dr. Newburgh, "is no longer obeyed or it has been persistently disregarded so long that it has become dulled and notifies its host too late that the body needs have been satisfied."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

FREE COLLEGE COURSES FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—Another progressive step toward solution of the unemployment problem was seen in the announcement courses arranged by the Massachusetts Emergency Committee on Unemployment.

The educational move was taken after an investigation by a committee which reported that many unemployed would appreciate the opportunity of devoting part of each week to the study of a subject in which they are interested under the guidance of competent instructors.

Universities, colleges and various institutions of learning throughout the city offered their full cooperation with the move. Each course will be given one afternoon during the week lasting approximately twelve weeks.

The courses have been arranged in two groups covering those of high school education and those having college education.

Should the idea prove a success, the Massachusetts committee announced that similar courses will be organized in various cities throughout the state.

New Castle Plays Ellwood City High

Red And Black Passers Travel To Neighboring Town Tonight For Game

GAME BEGINS AT 8:30 O'CLOCK

Local Quintet Ends Training—Ellwood City Ready For Battle

Several hundred basketball enthusiasts of the city are expected to hie their way to Ellwood City tonight where the New Castle high floor team plays its second Section Three league fray meeting Ellwood City high. The game starts at 8:30 o'clock.

The local quintet started the sectional race Tuesday night by toppling Beaver Falls high, 23-13. It was the second victory of the season. Ellwood City high got off to a bad start, losing to New Brighton. Phil Bridenbaugh ordered his boys through a light session Thursday afternoon. The Senior high lads left the Y. M. C. A. late this afternoon for the Tube City.

Ellwood City concluded training Thursday and is reported as being primed for the contest with the Tin City ramblers. The Tubers annually menace the locals. The neighboring team may prove tough.

Due to the fact that Ellwood City is only a few miles away from here, several hundred fans are expected to journey to watch the local five play. The probable lineups according to the two coaches:

Battalino Is Made Favorite

Featherweight Title Is At Stake Tonight In Bout With Feldman

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Christopher (Bat) Battalino, whose recent existence might be described as "ten nights in a Turkish bath," is a 13 to 5 favorite to retain his featherweight title when he meets Lew Feldman, Brooklyn challenger, in a 15-round championship bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

While a tireless puncher, Feldman is not a knockerout and ordinarily the rejuvenated Battalino would be a 5 to 1 favorite. The Connecticut Italian has been through a gruelling training siege at Hartford, however, and is believed to have weakened himself somewhat by the effort to scale down to 126 pounds by this afternoon.

Bat weighed 140 pounds not so long ago and has been on a steady diet of road work, sparring and gym exercises. He has been drinking no more water than a bartender and the task of reducing has been so severe that tonight's bout probably will be the kid's last fight, as a featherweight.

Dempsey Seeking Battle For Reno

Jack Dempsey Expresses His Desire To Box Before Fans Of Reno

(International News Service)

RENO, Nev., Jan. 8.—Jack Dempsey today renewed his campaign to come back as heavyweight champion of the world. He said he would shadow box six rounds daily until February 1 when a schedule of fights against actual opponents would be started.

Efforts of Reno business men to raise money to promote a fight between Dempsey and a capable opponent were meeting with success.

"I want to fight here," Dempsey said. "But of course I want to hear what the Reno offer will be before I make any decision. James McKay informs me Reno is ready to top any other offer for my services and I would like to fight here because this is my home and my friends are here. I'll meet the best man they can get."

MRS. VARE SEEKS NEW GOLF HONORS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8— Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia's perennial winner of the U. S. Women's Golf championship, today is seeking new worlds to conquer. She plans to go after the women's British golf crown next spring if America and Great Britain engage in a women's team match prior to the usual title tournament, she announced. Plans for the proposed match, however, are quite indefinite now, but announcement of such a team match was made some time ago

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody for the seventh year and Ellsworth Vines, for the first, reign as America's paramount netters, according to the 1931 rankings released today by the United States Tennis association. Mrs. Moody and Vines, both Californians, won the national championship last year.

A deal that will send Hack Wilson to the Brooklyn club in exchange for a right handed pitcher or a left handed outfielder is now in the final stages of negotiation and may possibly be announced within the next 10 days, according to New York reports.

Battling Battalino will fight Lew Feldman tonight at Madison Square Garden, New York City. He is not only risking his featherweight crown at 126 pounds but has had to come down from 135½ pounds which he weighed when he stopped Al Singer.

Hanley Gave Up Angles, Became Football Coach

Northwestern Grid Coach Gave Up Mathematics Classes For Football

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 8—Dick Hanley, football coach at Northwestern University, owes his plunge into major football activity to a high-school superintendent who placed mathematics above the gridiron.

According to Miss Martha Johnson, ex-Pendleton, Ore., high school teacher, Hanley decided between angles and end runs about ten years ago while he was turning out winning teams for the Pendleton high school.

Hanley was told one day he would have to give up part of his football time and start teaching mathematics, Miss Johnson said. Hanley handed down the ultimatum that it would be football or nothing. His contract was never renewed.

Central Christian Girls Are Winners

Central Christian church girls' basketball team won from the Polish Falcon girls, 20 to 16, in a game at the Falcon floor. The Falcon maidens led the first half, 9 to 8. In the second half the Central Christian girls assumed the lead and held it throughout. The playing of Berniece Wenda and Stella Niemczyk featured for the losers, with M. Cowmeadow and Douthett the best for the Christians.

The summary:

C. Christians 20		P. Falcons 16
Douthett	F	S. Niemczyk
M. Cowmeadow	F	A. Panfil
Druschel	C	J. Rylienski
D. Neyman	S.C	B. Wenda
L. Cowmeadow	G	S. Frankovich
M. Armstrong	G	J. Ostrosky

Subs.: Shook, Jones, V. Neyman, Biedka, Boron.

Field goals: Douthett 6, Druschel 2, Cowmeadow, Niemczyk 3, Panfil 2, Boron 2.

Referee: Marion Kolodjeski.

Timer: Andy Mehalic.

Scorer: Stella Kross.

Tennis Players Given Ranking

Helen Wills Moody And Ellsworth Vines Lead Respective Divisions

DISSENSION HAS BROKEN FORTH

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Bitter controversy over the 1931 tennis rankings, made by the ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, was forecast today as the tentative ratings were studied by delegates who will vote upon them at the association's annual meeting in New Orlean's on February 6.

This year, for the first time, the rankings must be adopted by a majority vote of the assembled delegates after a month's study instead of merely being ratified by the executive committee after a few hours' consideration.

There was little or no adverse comment today on the selection of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody at the top of the women's list after a year's absence from competion, or on the naming of H. Ellsworth Vines, Jr., the national titleholder, at the head of the men's list. Nor were there many dissenting voices to the placing of George M. Lott, Jr., at No. 2. Lott made a grand comeback in 1931, climaxing a brilliant season by battling his way to the finals of the national singles.

Disension Arises

Dissension over the rankings centers on the rating of the men players after the No. 2 position. Sidney Wood, for instance, was placed far down on the list at No. 7. Wood performed one of the outstanding feats of the season when he won the coveted Wimbledon championship.

The first ten places in the men's list were awarded as follows:

1. Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Pasadena, Calif.
2. George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago.
3. Francis X. Shields, New York.
4. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia.
5. John Hope Doeg, Newark, N. J.
6. Clifford S. Sutter, New Orleans.
7. Sidney B. Wood, Jr., New York.
8. Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Calif.
9. Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.
10. Berkeley Bell, New York.

The first ten divisions in the women's list were:

1. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Berkeley, Calif.
2. Miss Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif.
3. Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, Oakland, Calif.
4. Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Wilmington, Del.
5. Miss Mary Greef, Kansas City, Mo.
6. Miss Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass.
7. Miss Sarah Palfrey, Brooklin, Mass.
8. Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia.
9. Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia.
10. Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, Stamford, Conn.

By winning the women's crown for the seventh time, Mrs. Moody equaled the record of Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, for Vines, it was the first taste of glory.

Radical Changes

In both groups, there were radical changes from the 1930 ratings. There were four new players among the first ten in the men's list, and two newscomers in the women's. And almost all of the twenty held a different position in the 1930 list. All except Gledhill and Mrs. Burke, however, had been rated in the top flight in some previous year.

Vines made a spectacular jump from eighth to first place. Doeg dropped from first to fifth, Lott advanced from seventh to second and Allison dropped from third to ninth.

Van Ryn and Allison, national champions, head the men's doubles. Jack Lynch, of Taft, Calif., tops the national junior rankings, and Frank Parker of Milwaukee heads the boys' list. Miss Ruby Bishop of Pasadena is No. 1 in the girls' ranking.

Allan Robertson of St. Andrews, competed for 20 years, and never lost a golf match in his life.

Dodgers Seek To Get Wilson From Cardinals

Max Carey May Offer Fredericks, Phelps Or Vance For Wilson

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—As the result of the pow-wow held at Martinsburg, W. Va., between Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Hack Wilson, pudgy outfielder recently acquired by the St. Louis Cardinals from the Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn fans today were steamed up over the possibility of seeing the former home run king in a Dodger uniform next season.

Officials of the Brooklyn club make no secret of their desire to land Wilson. It is believed Outfielder Johnny Frederick or one of two pitchers—Babe Phelps or the great Dazzy Vance—will be offered to the Cardinals for Hack.

Shenango Set For Bessemer

Shenango Hopes To Annex Victory Over Bessemer Tonight

Followers of Shenango high school are preparing to wend their way towards Bessemer where tonight the Coach Pop Johnson Shenango team encounters the quintet flaunting the colors of Bessemer. The contest will be enacted on the Bessemer high floor at 8:30 o'clock.

Ever since these two teams have been battling in different athletics they have been rivals. Shenango spilled the beans on the gridiron, capturing a victory over the Cement City lads. Bessemer hopes to avenge the defeat on the floor by winning tonight. A fast contest is anticipated.

At 7:30 o'clock the Shenango high girls will line up to oppose the Bessemer lassies in the preliminary engagement of the evening. Rivalry is keen and the preliminary affair is expected to be filled with action too. The boys contest will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Coaches Frederick of Bessemer and Johnston of Shenango announced their starting lineup as follows:

Bessemer.		Shenango.
Swanson	F	Arnold
Afric	F	Polnik
DeArment	C	Brown
Plevnic	G	Craig
Stanley	G	Weir

GERMAN STARTLES TENNIS WORLD BY FINE EXHIBITION

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8—Hans Nusslein, professional tennis champion of Germany, aroused much comment among Philadelphia tennis followers today, for playing in his first American singles match here last night he easily defeated Allen Behr, of New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0. The contest was one of a series in the pro tennis tournament being held in convention hall.

Behr took the place assigned Bruce Barnes, well known Texas collegian, and amazed 2,000 fans by his dazling exhibition. In the opening match of the tourney Albert Burke, of Ireland, won over Robt. Seller of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1.

Schmeling Starts Exhibition Tour

(International News Service)

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 8.—Max Schmeling is in tip-top shape for his title bout with Mickey Walker in Miami next month. Making his first ring appearance since last July, the heavyweight champion exhibited a slim waistline and fast and shifty footwork when his exhibition tour started here last night.

Wearing big gloves, Max boxed three two-minute rounds against three sparring partners. Three thousand fans cheered him.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Almost four years ago Max Schmeling landed in New York with a large ambition and a small chance.

He was greeted enthusiastically by 12,000,000 cold shoulders. All he saw was the backs of shipnews photographers. They were in a huddle, photographing a stage beauty's kneecaps.

The only guy who was interested in him was the custom's officer. He shook hands, but they were inside Max's suitcase looking for undeclared valuables. That last word was as superfluous as shoe polish on a rainy night.

Max went down to Madison Square Garden to pay a social call. But he had no key. He had a nice time, though—looking at the outside.

Max fumbled among his beer checks and found three pfennigs. With these he bought a newspaper but he couldn't find his name in it for two reasons.

1. He couldn't read English.
2. His name wasn't in the paper.

Max landed in New York again the other day.

He could hardly raise his hat, his mitts were so sore from handshaking with his shipmates. Cameras clicked like machine guns saluting a racketeer king. Ten thousand autograph fiends plunged for him, but a regiment of cops stopped them on the one-yard line. Star reporters begged his opinions on the presidential election, the Manchurian question, and the Brazilian tariff on the Tasmanian noodle.

A high representative of Madison Square Garden welcomed him with an open fountain pen. His picture appeared in every newspaper and his name was printed so large it crowded the depression back into the want ad section.

After Maxie had roared uptown in a glittering limousine another passenger walked unnoticed down the gangplank. But the crowd had gone.

The other passenger was a former vice president of the United States.

The answer to those two receptions of the heavyweight champion is found in three blows.

Maxie landed one. The second landed on him. The third was not even struck.

When Maxie smacked Johnny Risko to the floor early in 1929, Schmeling was on his way.

When Jack Sharkey socked Maxie too low in 1930 Schmeling skidded into the heavyweight throne riding his shoulder blades.

When the referee halted in 1931 a blow that would have demolished Bill Stribling, Maxie assumed the stature of a real champion as far as you, you and I are concerned.

But if Maxie wants to be royally welcomed back to New York again in January, 1933, he'll have to land three more blows and land them on Mickey Walker, Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey in order.

If he doesn't—well, Maxie by now must have read the history of Napoleon After Waterloo.

4 ONE ROUND KAYOES

Germany To Send Strong Team Here

Germany's Olympic Games Team Will Be One Of Strongest Competing

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—How far the German nation has come back in rebuilding its man power will be demonstrated at the Los Angeles Olympic games.

Germany, in its post-war reconstruction period, has laid special emphasis on sports of all kinds, and small wonder it is that the German delegation to this year's games will be one of the largest and most talented to come over. Many experts believe that if America's athletic supremacy is to be threatened, it will be Germany that will do it.

The Germans were the first nation to complete arrangements for sending their athletes to the games.

Dr. Carl Diem, general secretary of Germany's national Olympic committee, indicated that Germany will make its strongest bid in the track and field and equestrian events and in the rowing races.

A team of 125 athletes will carry the colors of the republic here. They will sail on July 10 aboard the S. S. Bremen. Disembarking at New York, they will board a special train that will carry them to Los Angeles where they will take up their quarters in the Olympic village.

Ellsworth Vines Will Quit School

National Tennis Champion Finds It Tough Life To Be Amateur King

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—Ellsworth Vines, 20-year-old tennis champion of the United States, today challenged the wisdom of the customs and rules of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Admitting that he was dropping out of the University of Southern California for a time because of lack of money, Vines however asserted that he had turned down an offer to turn professional.

"Money! You bet that's what I would like to get while I can," said Vines.

Committee in Mess.

"With the silly rules of the United States Lawn Tennis association like they are, I can't even write for newspapers or work in a sporting goods store only under rigid rules without losing my amateur standing.

"There are some officials in this association who have never had a tennis racquet in their hands and are ready to tell one how to play the game. Of course there are others who know their tennis and are a help. But the association is so full of politics it is always in a mess."

The lanky college boy, already rated as one of the brightest tennis prospects in years, is dropping his studies at the end of the semester this month.

MORRISON LEADS COAST GOLFERS

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—With a card of 141 Fred Morrison, southern California open champion, today led 97 successful qualifiers in the annual $7500 open golf tournament.

An amateur, Gale Stockton, a University of Southern California student, was second. His score for the 36 holes was 143. Dick Metz and Ray Mangrum, both of Texas, were third and fourth respectively with scores of 144 and 145. Al Zimmerman of Portland and Archie Hambrick of Zanesville, O., each had 147.

THEY'RE ALL EVEN

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Jan. 8—Those bitter rivals, the Canadiens and Maroons, have each defeated the other 7-1 within the past two seasons. The Flying Frenchmen acomplished the feat early last season and the Maroons hung it on the champions recently.

Player Is Penalized For Losing His Stick Under Hockey Rules

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—It happened one night in hockey—and it couldn't happen anywhere but in hockey.

A fierce scrimmage—collisions—and then zingo—the stick was jolted out of one of the player's hands. A hockey geezer without a stick is as useless as Babe Ruth going up to bat in a pinch waving his arms.

The lad tried to break through the tangle of humans to recover his weapon. He finally succeeded. The referee then blew his whistle. The player was motioned to the penalty box.

"Two minutes penalty to player—so and so—for engaging in play without his stick" came the official announcement.

Calvary Five Tops Harmony

Savannah Trims Center 25-19 In East New Castle Church League Tilt

Two fast East New Castle Church league floor contests were played on the Shenango high floor Thursday when the Calvary Church team spilled the Harmony flingers, 26-14. In the second contest the Savannah team romped off the floor with a 25-19 verdict.

The lineup:

Calvary 26.		Harmony 14.

School Reserves Play In Prelim

New Castle-Ellwood City Reserves To Meet At 7:30 O'clock

Faculty manager Ralph H. Gardner of the Senior high school announced this morning that a preliminary game will be played to the New Castle high-Ellwood City contest tonight at Ellwood City. The New Castle high Reserves will oppose the Tube City Reserves at 7:30 o'clock. The feature tilt, a Section Three attraction will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will select several of his second and third stringers to oppose the Ellwood Reserves.

Carnegie Five Plays Tonight

Safety Five Meets Buccaneers-Carnegie After Seventh Triumph

Having registered six victories against no defeats, the Carnegie Junior basketball team will try for its seventh consecutive triumph tonight when it encounters the Eintrach "B" on the Carnegie floor. In the preliminary contest the Safety Five meets the Buccaneers Reserves at 8:00 o'clock.

The Carnegie team issues a challenge to the George Washington Junior high team and the Ben Franklin quintet.

RISKO HURT SCHAAF

BOSTON, Mass. Jan. 8—Although Johnny Risko was never known as a hard puncher, Ernie Schaaf, iron jawed heavy-weight, says the Cleveland Rudber-Man gave him the hardest sock he ever experienced.

Saints To Play Ohioans Tonight

Lannsingville, Ohio, Quintet Will Oppose St. Mary's Team

TWO OTHER GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

The basketball fans of New Castle will have three games tonight on the St. Mary's floor. The main attraction is the Lannsingville and St. Mary's varsity team. The first game will find the St. Mary's girls playing the Yellow Jackets, and the second game will bring together the St. Mary's Reserves and the Eintrachts. The first game is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

Altogether it is an imposing array of floor games that have been arranged by Business Manager "Jokey" Travers for tonight. The Lannsingville team is one of the strongest in Eastern Ohio and for a number of years have been district champions. They have the same team this year that went through to a successful season in 1930 and 31.

The Saints Reserves will give the Eintrachts a newly organized team a real test. The St. Marys girls are confident of a victory over the Yellow Jackets.

Strong Lineup

Coach Fraser has the Saints going at a fast clip, and will start his strongest lineup tonight with Kulich and Gennock or Lackey at the forwards, Alexander at center and the two All-American guards Uhle and Jones at the guarding posts. With this lineup the Saints should click merrily along the highway of victory.

This is bargain night at St. Marys Auditorium, three games for the price of one and they look like attractive engagements.

Troop F Trims Union Ex-High

In a fast contest played on the Armory floor, Thursday night the Troop F basketball team won a 20-15 victory over the Union Ex-High team. In the preliminary game the St. Paul girls won over the Blue Bird Five, 21-12.

The lineups:

Troop F		Union Ex-High
Nocera	F	Latamer
Stewart	F	Lannigan
Mitchell	C	Gall
St. John	G	Carr
Pollock	G	Chill

Substitutions—Troop F, Shellogg; Union—Crispy Critchlow, Schaas, Horchler, Wacner, Severa.

Field goals—Nocera 4, Stewart 2, Mitchell 1, Latamer 1, Critchlow 4, Wacner 1.

Referee—Smith.

St. Pauls 21		Blue Birds 12
Kraft	F	Patton
Roth	F	Kennedy
Brickner	C	McClaferty
Kraft	S C	Hughes
Artz	G	Ruha
Bodenborfer	G	Winters

Substitutions—St. Paul, Figuly and Tebay; Blue Birds—Ward.

"Fats" Henry Made Graduate Manager At W. & J. College

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 8—The election of Wilbur (Fats) Henry as acting graduate manager of Washing and Jefferson College was announced today. Henry, All-America tackle in his playing days at W and J. suceeds William G. Theurer, who after holding the position for five years, resigned at the expiration of his contract on December 31.

Glenn A. Wild, replaces Henry as Varsity basket ball coach, so that the former may devote his time to his new duties.

SHAMROCKS TOP TIGERS PASSERS

Wednesday on the St. Mary floor the Shamrocks five toppled the Tigers 17-9 in a fast game. Donegan and Rowbottom featured for the winners while Chip and Joyce proved the best for the losers.

Rickey Claims Minors Are In Need Of Majors

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—Branch Rickey, vice president of St. Louis National League club and sometimes referred to as the "Czar of the Minor Leagues," hopes with the cooperation of majors to put the minor leagues back on a paying basis this year.

"As every baseballer and fan knows, the minor leagues are the hatching ground for the majors," Rickey declared today. "It would be a very serious mistake to take chances of losing such a valuable incubator, but if owners and managers continue to be indifferent about the issue we will have to face the loss of both money and players.

"The minor leagues are worth about $21,000,000, but are making little on their investment. The only way the smaller organizations can be saved is by perfecting a more harmonious relation with the majors."

St. Louis controls about $1,500,000 in minor league property and is developing players on a larger scale than any other individual club in the country. The small returns in 1931 are said to have caused owners some consternation and promoted them to make a drive for funds next year.

Cleveland Buys Toledo Mudhens

Cleveland Will Use Toledo Team As Farm For Bright Prospects

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8.—Approval of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was awaited by officials of the Cleveland baseball company today, of the deal which gave the Cleveland Indians control of the Toledo Mudhens of the American Association.

The option was taken on the Toledo franchise by the Cleveland club for the year of 1932, with the right to purchase the club outright by October 1 of this year. The Cleveland club also negotiated a lease on the Toledo club grounds for 1932 with the right to renew the lease for 10 years.

Closed by Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians, the deal was approved by Common Pleas Judge James S. Martin. The court revealed that the option provided for the right to purchase the club for $60,000.

New Castle To Meet South High

Local Cagers Will Oppose Youngstown South, January 19

It was announced today that the New Castle high basketball flingers will clash with Youngstown South's team, here Tuesday evening, January 19. The game will be played on the George Washington junior high floor.

Annually the South institution is represented by a smooth quintet. This game will not have any bearing on the Section Three race but will prepare the locals for Rochester high which will be met January 22 here.

Yale Oarsmen Go Into Water Tank

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8.—Only the game fish swims upstream, and Yale oarsmen should be a game bunch of lads after practicing in the university's new rowing tank this winter.

The oarsmen, seated in a stationary shell, row against a current of water which is poured into the tank past the shell at a rate of eight and one-half miles per hour. Electric motors propel the water.

Coach Ed Leader predicted today that the elaborate innovation would aid his charges in developing smooth watermanship.

Diamond Pro. Links Amateur

Though we often hear of amateurs turning professional, rare indeed are examples of the reverse order of things. Here is Tris Speaker (left), famous baseball star, formerly of the major league, shown as he exchanged the bat for a golf club. Speaker is entered in the amateur-professional golf tournament at Santa Monica, Cal. He is teamed up with Romie Epinosa (right), member of the famous Epinosa family of professional golfers. In the tournament each team is composed of one amateur and one pro. Speaker is the Simon pure of this team.

Bob Shawkey Finds Gold On Property

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—When he is through with baseball forever Bob Shawkey, former manager of the New York Yankees, will have nothing to worry about. A future of comfort and ease was assured Shawkey after he found gold ore in his property in the Cobalt region of Ontario.

Last summer Shawkey went to look over his property, which he had bought some time ago and was impressed with the possibility of the section as a miner's depot.

He unearthed ore that appeared to contain gold. But he wasn't sure and decided to get confirmation of his find. When the ore was assayed it showed $19 worth of gold to the ton. Now Shawkey is back home exploiting his property.

Make Award Of City Compensation

Workmen's compensation and insurance, for which the city made an appropriation of $4,000, for 1932, today was awarded upon recommendation of Finance Director Albert Hoyland and a unanimous vote of council to be carried by the Peoples Realty company of which Joseph Green is the agent.

McBride & Shannon were awarded the compensation and insurance for 1931.

Ellwood-New Castle Clash This Evening

Lloyd Men Primed For Red And Black Floor Invasion Tonight

Tin City Lads Rule As Favorites In Annual Clash Here At 8:30 P. M.

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8—Two schools will continue their rivalry on the basketball courts at Lincoln High gymnasium tonight at 8:30. Once again Ellwood High and Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's New Castle high machine will vie for honors with the latter reigning as strong favorites.

Coach Todd Lloyd has been working hard since last Wednesday to iron out some rough spots noticed in the game with New Brighton. Some long drills and practices have been held the past two days. Coach Lloyd has been working out a plan that he hopes will penetrate New Castle's famed zone defense. He has been drilling his boys in making fouls and pot shots. Although not given much chance to defeat the Bridenbaugh machine, the locals will give them plenty of trouble. They have been priming for this game since the opening of the season.

In repulsing the strong Pitt Freshies, New Castle gave warning that they are out to retain their title. Their threat was even more apparent when they decisively turned back Beaver Falls last Tuesday. It was the latter's first defeat in six starts. New Castle's championship team of last year is practically back to a man. Reiber and Nick Uram will be seen at their places at guard, Lasky will be at center and John Teplica and John Uram will be in the forward positions. The latter are rated as the classiest in their department and will bear very close guarding.

This annual game has been one of the most colorful events in Ellwood City and has always attracted a capacity crowd in the spacious Lincoln gymnasium, which can accommodate about 2000 people.

It may be more difficult for New Castle to function properly on Ellwood's large floor. It is much harder to run a zone defense here than an a smaller floor.

Store Is Flooded; Pianos Are Damaged

H. C. Millemon Files Suit Against J. L. Caplan For $5,988 Damages

H. C. Millemon and Company have filed a suit at the county prothonotary's office against J. L. Caplan of Ellwood City, to recover $5,988 damage as a result of water pipes bursting and flooding a storeroom.

Plaintiffs claim that they occupied a storeroom owned by Caplan under a lease. There was a vacant apartment overhead. It is alleged that in November, 1930 plaintiffs notified defendant that there was danger of the water pipes freezing and bursting, as there was no heat in the apartment.

Nothing was done. The pipes did freeze and burst. Water came through the ceiling and saturated pianos, belonging to the plaintiff company, for which payment is asked.

CLASS MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8—The members of the Sunshine class of the North Sewickley Presbyterian church were entertained last evening at the home of Miss Mary Bell at the North Sewickley manse at their regular monthly meeting.

Miss Betty Aiken conducted the devotional period which was followed by a talk by Mrs. Robert Baird, who is teacher of the class. At the business meetings arrangements for spring activities were formulated and will be announced later.

A social period of games, music and contests occupied the remaining hours until a seasonable time when a dainty repast was served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. R E. Bell.

On Friday February 5, Miss Jane Blinn will entertain the members of the class at her home in Marion township.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8—Class No. 17 of the Bell Memorial church held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Menold on Wood street last night. Thirty-two members were present at the time. An important business meeting was held in which methods of raising funds were discussed. Also routine matters were disposed of at the time. After this an interesting social period was held followed by the serving of refreshments. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 4.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8—Admitted Thursday: Howard L. Piffer of Evans City, Miss Thelma Streckeisen of Ellwood.

Discharged: Earl Casserly of Harmony and Richard Slack of Zelienople.

Semi-Monthly Club Has Good Meeting

Mrs. Wellington Ramsey Is Pleasing Hostess To Club Members

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—Mrs. Wellington Ramsey delightfully entertained the members of the Semi-Monthly Bridge Club at her home in the Alpha apartments last night.

Two tables of bridge were in play for the greater part of the evening, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Leo Mason and Mrs. John Roherer received the first and second awards respectively. The hostess, with the assistance of Mrs. Mason, served a dainty luncheon at a later hour.

Mrs. Roherer invited the club to meet at her Pittsburgh home in two weeks. The meeting will be a luncheon-bridge affair.

Mrs. Herman Wilson Entertains T. N. T.

Club Members Enjoy Pleasant Session In Fountain Avenue Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.— Mrs. Herman Wilson was a pleasing hostess to the members of the T. N. T. Club at her home on Fountain avenue last night. Bridge at three tables was the principal diversion of the evening. Mrs. C. R. N'Neil and Mrs. W. E. Bayers were the dinners of the club favors at the close of the games.

At a later hour the hostess served a delectable menu, much to the pleasure of those present.

Mrs. Charles Adams invited the club to be her guests in two weeks at her home on Glen avenue.

Rotarians See Health Pictures

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8—An interesting program of reels from the state board of health was shown to the members of the Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting last night. The picture entitled "Child Health and Preventable Diseases" was shown in the Liberty Theater. It was very interesting—showing the care and prevention of diptheria. Some light was brought on the matter of Toxin-Anti-Toxin.

After the show all proceeded back to the regular meeting place, the First Presbyterian hurch, for their usual dinner. Dr. W. H. Shields addressed the fine gathering at this time. The club is planning to hold a ladies night soon and arrangements are being made for its success.

Young People To Continue Meetings

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—The Young People's Society of the First Church of God will continue their regular meetings beginning tonight at 7:45. The meetings have not been held for a month.

Miss Loretta King, the president, will be in charge. Rev. L. E. Slacum, the pastor of the church, will address the members at this time and all are urged to be present. A short business session will be held later.

Scores for Science

One of the greatest contributions to the war which science is waging on disease was announced before the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at New Orleans, La. Dr Frederick Eberson (above), of the Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco, told the assembled savants that he has succeeded in the cultivation and isolation of the dreaded infantile paralysis germ. The discovery will be of incalculable assistance in combating the disease.

Local Legionnaires Attend Round-Up

Ellwood Post Turns In 240 Membership Roster At Impressive Affair

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—Forty members of the J. Wilbur Randolph post of the American Legion, Ellwood City, attended the American Legion round-up at New Brighton Thursday evening. The lodge was accompanied by the local bugle and drum corps.

An interesting program was the feature of the evening. District Commander Edwards of Rochester was in charge of an initiation exercise and later presided over an interesting entertainment of comedy, music and vocal singing.

While there the local post reports that it turned in a roster of 240 members. It is estimated that about 250 attended the round-up.

Pythian Sisters Install Officers

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—Pythian Sisters installed their officers last night at their regular meeting in the K. of P. hall on Fourth street. The ceremony was marked and impressive and was in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Welsh.

The officers installed were Iva Fetterman, Maude Gillespie, Ruth Price, Florence Harvey, Lydia Koch, Ida Wehman, Ida Garwig and Cora Snare. Mrs. Catherine McKim and Mrs. Thelma Yoho assisted in the ceremony.

After a short business meeting at which routine matters were disposed of, a committee served a delicious luncheon. It was announced that the next meeting will take place on January 21.

Complete Survey For Post Office

Architects Have Finished Work Of Making Soil Tests And Plot Plans

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—Another step in the many which are necessary in the progress of the Ellwood City Post Office building, has been completed, it was announced today by the Thomas A. Gilkey Co., of New Castle, engineers in charge of the survey work.

The soil investigations have been completed and samples of the soil, together with a description of the character of the ground are being forwarded to Washington.

The complete survey of the ground, together with the plot plans have also been completed.

The architects, H. H. and L. H. Thayer are working on the cabinet plans for the building, and actual construction work will be under way within a short period of time, it is believed.

Tax Penalty Is Before Council

Councilmen Consider Matter Of Eliminating Delinquent Tax Penalties

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—At the meeting of Ellwood boro council last night the matter of tax penalties was brought up after the councilmen had a hearty discussion on exonerating certain individuals on their borough tax. The matter of the one per cent penalty per month of delinquent taxes was again a topic of much consideration. Council was divided in its opinion on this. Some of the members were in favor of eliminating the penalty entirely, while the others stressed it should be done only where the case warrants it. They believed that if a person made an honest effort to pay his taxes and was doing so at intervals he should be exempted from the penalty. On the other hand it was pointed out this would be considered as partisianship on the part of council and would find disfavor in the community. It was stated that if council studied certain individuals for exemption of the penalty they would be morally compelled to confer with any other citizen demanding this consideration.

Burgess Judd C. Turner requested council to seriously consider the matter of paying taxes semi-annually or quarterly, which would aid the people of the community to a great extent.

President J. E. Powell stated that all this demands the serious consideration of every councilman, and some conclusion should be reached in their February meeting. The members at this time resolved at this time to make 1932 an economy year. President Powell authorized the finance committee to study the old budget and make reports where cuts can possibly be made. He ordered that the committee make preparations for making their budget for 1932 so that a decrease in the tax rate may materialize. The committee will also made a report on the one per cent penalty matter at their next meeting.

To keep a doorstep white in wet weather use plaster of Paris instead of the ordinary whitening.

New Council Has First Regular Meeting Thursday

Monthly Business Is Transacted At Important Meeting Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 8.—All members of the Ellwood City borough council were present at their first regular meeting of the new year, last night in the borough building.

The old members present were President J. E. Powell, Mathew A. Riley, Thomas Rocco, Gail Morrison and Clyde Houk, and the new ones William McGlincy, Alex Main, Paxton Fike, John Tillia and James L. Kennedy.

The early part of the meeting was devoted to the signing of the credentials for new members. The next order of business was the approval of the semi-monthly and monthly bills.

Installation of a street light behind the U. P. church was left to the decision of the electric light committee which will make an investigation and act accordingly.

A communication from the Ellwood Forge company and the Wayne Lumber company, requesting council to exempt them from any assessment on the paving of Second street and the construction of the Second street viaduct, in return for which the above companies agree not to ask the borough for damages. The matter was left in the hands of the finance committee, city solicitor and borough manager.

Police department reported that for the month of December three arrests were made. One offender was discharged and two paid forfeits. Total fines and forfeits bought $15 to the department. Also $6 was received for dance permits.

There were 32 cases of chicken pox, six of mumps and one of pneumonia during the month of December, according to the report of the health department.

It was announced at this meeting that the hearing for the Second street damage claims has been continued. No place for the hearing has been set as yet.

The Form That Made Him a Champion

JOE FALCARO'S STANCE — THE DELIVERY — A PERFECT STRIKE

If ever anybody sits down to write a book immortalizing the miracle men of sports, away up near the top of the list will be the name of Joe Falcaro, national bowling champion since 1929. Only five feet three in height and weighing but 124 pounds, Falcaro has amazed all who ever watched him play with the powers of endurance he displays. But slinging 16-pound balls around has become second nature to him. He has done scarcely anything else since he started setting up pins in a New York alley 25 years ago. Pictures above show Falcaro in action. Notice the easy "quite-at-home" stance. He also introduces a golf rule into the game; for he keeps his eye on the ball until it has run its course. Picture at right shows his favorite spot for securing a strike. Any time the ball comes between the one and three pins a strike is certain. Falcaro is a past master in locating this "pocket."

Oh Boy! Are They the Cats?

Here are three aristocrats of the feline kingdom who add a new significance to the saying that a cat may look at royalty—they have only to look in the mirror. At the left, frowning portentously, is Rosedere Revelation Junior, the King of Cats, who, despite his stern mien, is rather a lovable animal. His queen, Lady of the Moon of Rosedere, is at the right. They were adjudged monarchs of the mouse-hound world at the Atlantic Cat Club Show in New York. They are owned by Miss E. G. Hydon, of Bogota, N. J. Lower is Dresden Cotton Tom, owned by Elsie Bailey, who took the crown as the best kitten in the show. Our artist depicts the blue-blooded felines receiving homage from a humble alley "sister-under-the-skin."

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Make Effort To Continue Rise

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—After an early reaction, in which early profit taking was easily absorbed, stocks made another effort to move up the price scale. Fractional gains were scored by the bulk of the industrial favorites, while Auburn Auto led the specialties in a 5-point rise to 135.

Stocks of the Railroad and Public Utility companies were again in good demand.

New Haven led the popular rails, with an advance to 23, while New York Central rose fractionally to 30½. Among the industrial favorites United States Steel, Westinghouse, American Can and Consolidated Gas recovered their early losses. The automobile stocks have thus far made only a feeble response to the prospects entertained by the heads of the motors industry to follow the annual motor show, opening on Saturday.

The bond market was irregular, with German government bonds and American rails reacting from the peak prices of the week, while New York City Traction Bonds moved ahead 1 to 3½ points. Grain and Cotton were firm, with narrow price changes. Call money was unchanged at 2½ per cent.

The Navy's Day in Court

Representative C. Vinson, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, is shown as he welcomed Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams to the deliberations concerning naval expansion to the limit allowed by existing treaties. It is understood that the Hoover administration will oppose reduction of world armaments at the Geneva Conference on any purely budgetary basis.

As Gandhi Came Home; to Jail

Absorbed in spinning threads for homespun garments, Mahatma Gandhi, famous Indian leader, is shown on the deck of the S.S. Pilsna as the ship neared Bombay. The frail prophet of Mother India was greeted by a riot between his supporters and opponents, in which 25 people were injured. Shortly after his arrival Gandhi was imprisoned once more in Poona Jail, from which place he is directing a new campaign of civil disobedience, which the British are putting down with stringent methods.

Rep. Metzger And Woman Injured As Machine Crashes

State Representative Of Pittsburgh And Woman Severely Bruised

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 8.—State Representative George Metzger, 48, and Miss Mary Driscoll, 30, today were recovering from injuries received last night when their automobile collided with a truck and rolled over two times.

The truck driver, William Lindner, was arrested by Northside police on a charge of reckless driving.

The crash occurred at Montgomery and Arch streets. Metzger was the driver of his car.

Shocked G. O. P.

Elected to represent the First New Hampshire Congressional District in the special election, former Representative William N. Rogers is the first Democrat sent to Congress by New Hampshire in ten years. Rogers defeated former Governor John H. Bartlett, Republican, in the normally Republican district, by 2,948 votes. His election swells the Democratic membership in the House to 220.

Use Federal Money For Road Work This Year

Highway Department Allocates Money Received From Government

OVER NINE MILLION WILL BE AVAILABLE

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8.—Highway construction during the first half of this year in Pennsylvania will consist chiefly of projects to be improved with Federal-aid money. The highway department has an allocation of $4,640,667 due from the Federal government which when matched by money from the motor fund will make available more than $9,248,000.

With the Federal-aid money the department expects to improve between 300 and 350 miles of road. This mileage will be on the old highway system and not include any of the 20,000 miles taken over last August when the department became responsible for township roads.

During the early spring months finishing touches also will be made to the roads on the township system which are being improved on the 666 mile emergency program. This program the department started after its 1700 mile program of township roads had been completed late last fall.

To Oil Rural Roads

Many of the rural roads on which work is being done this winter cannot be given the oil binding during the cold weather. This same condition prevails on the roads which are being improved with labor from the six camps which the department has established for unemployed men.

Officials of the department claim that funds for new construction on the township road system will not be available this year before the beginning of the fiscal year on June 1. It is likely that after that date the department will announce what mileage of township roads are to be improved during 1932.

Late last year the department had prepared two programs for improving sections on the township system. One provided for the improvement of 2000 miles and the other 1500 miles. When the 666 mile program was inaugurated many sections included in the 1500 mile program were scheduled for immediate improvement.

Despite the claims of department officials before the special session of the legislature saying there were no funds available, there will be a considerable mileage of township roads improved in 1932. Much of the work may not start until the new fiscal year opens June 1.

Built Big Mileage

The department also may improve several hundred miles of road on the old system with "low cost" surfacing. Last summer 822 miles of this type road were built, some of which had been on the State highway system since 1911. There are less than 2000 miles of road on the old highway system which are not classified as surfaced.

Roads improved with Federal-aid money are of a higher type than is placed on the township system. The Federal government allows $15,000 a mile for roads improved under this arrangement. Any additional cost is borne by the State. Since the present administration took office last year all roads being improved with Federal-aid money are being kept under the $30,000 a mile basis which is combined Federal and State allowance. That is done in order to secure the maximum mileage with the funds available.

ART EXHIBITION VALUABLE OF KIND

(International News Service)

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Jan. 8.—The new year will bring in the Stadel Art Institute here an exhibition of ancient Oriental art made up from the private collection of Fritz Sarre, founder and director of the Islamic department of the Berlin museums.

This collection which has never before been exhibited publicly was assembled by Professor Sarre in years of scientific travel in the Orient and is one of the most important and valuable of its kind in the world.

It included works of Babylonian, Assyrian and Sumerian art old Egyptian plastic works, Persian and Indian book illustrations and manuscripts from the Islamic period, and splendid specimens of Persian and other Oriental rugs. The exhibition will remain open for at least three months.

American Girls In Paris Awarded Scholarships

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8.—High French honors have recently been won by several American girls in Paris.

Twenty-year-old Elizabeth Gould, daughter of Mrs. Bernard Gould of Chicago, is the first American to win a scholarship in the National Conservatory. She was one of 14 chosen from 150 competitors to receive the highest practical instruction which has prepared the greatest stars for the Comedie Francisco and the Odeon theatres.

Miss Gould has been living in Paris during the past eight years and has studied at a French lycee here and with Mme. Bauer-Therond, noted teacher of French dramatic-acting. She will now begin her practical courses in French drama under celebrated instructors and will probably try out for one of the covetted prizes in the spring.

Another Chicago girl, Miss Glory Livena, has also won French distinction by being unanimously awarded a four year free singing scholarship in the Paris Conservatory of Music. Her aim is to sing at the Opera and the Opera Comique here and later with the Metropolitan Company in New York.

AMMONIA FUMES OVERCOME BUTCHER

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 8.—Louis Steiner, operator of Steiner's Central Meat Market, 846 Fifth avenue, was overcome by ammonia fumes late today while leading firemen to a leak in the tank of his electrical refrigeration system. He was carried into fresh air and revived. Firemen found the leak, which emitted fumes that affected persons passing in the street.

MANNEQUINS TO BE CALLED BY NUMBERS

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Paris coutouriers have finally agreed with the old English bard that there is really very little in a name and have come to the conclusion that one of their original creations will sell just as quickly when dubbed with a number instead of some fancy nomenclature.

Pretty mannequins exhibiting new spring dresses soon after the New Year will not announce them by such names as "To-night or Never", "Blue Train", "My First", "Rolls Royce", "Foolish Virgin", "Alcohol", "Cocktail" or "Marvellous Kiss".

Instead, they will call out "Number three" or "Number thirty-three".

"It is far less poetic, of course," remarked one of the dressmakers when speaking of the new method, "but who has the time to dream these days?"

"CHOKED TO DEATH" BROUGHT TO LIFE

(International News Service)

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 8.—It's a real fish story about artificial respiration for goldfish.

One night a goldfish at Cony High School escaped from its bowl, became entangled in a silk cord on an adjoining table and was apparently dead.

Luther Cushing solved the situation. He gave a salt bath to the "dead" fish and by gently pressing in the vicinity of the gills brought it back to life. Today it is back in the bowl with the rest of the gold horde.

COLDS
can be broken up only from within

Science has never been able to isolate the cold germ . . . the infection is termed ultravirus—a poison-producing substance that spreads through the system causing the well-known outward symptoms. But treating the symptoms cannot stop inward infection.

Third battalion of the Sixteenth Regiment of which Company B was raised in this city, as was previously mentioned, did not get to see all the service of the Sixteenth Regiment, because of the fact that this company and three others comprising the battalion were not recruited until after balance of the regiment had been well organized and on its way. The regiment went on July 21, 1898 to Chickamauga and on the 25th of the same month, orders were received to report to the railroad station at Rossville, eight miles distant, the following morning. There the regiment boarded a train for Newport News, Va., where it arrived on the morning of July 27, 1898. Orders were received from Brigadier General Grant to embark on the steamship Rio Grande, but orders were received later delaying this move. In the meantime, General Grant embarked leaving orders that the detachment of the Sixteenth Pennsylvania to embark the following day. Instead of going to Porto Rico, as contemplated, the regiment was ordered to Camp Meade, Pennsylvania. They moved to that place on August 18, 1898. On September 13, they left Camp Meade for New York City and on the evening of the following day embarked on the steamship Obdaur for Ponce, where they arrived 8 a. m. on September 22. They were detained on board until Sunday, September 25, 1898 and went into camp about six miles from Ponce, October 10, 1898, they received orders to return to the United States. The Third Battalion arrived at Ponce on the 11th of October and all sailed for home that day, arriving in New York October 17, 1898. They were mustered out of service December 28, 1898.

DOUSING LIGHTS AT MIDNIGHT DANGEROUS

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 8.—"Small town economy measures" in traffic enforcement are costing lives on Detroit streets, Verne C. Amberson, assistant Wayne county prosecutor believes.

Cutting off traffic signals after midnight has resulted in several accidents, Amberson asserted. Prosecution of drivers guilty of traffic violations is made increasingly difficult by the practice, Amberson added, citing one case where a man was killed and another seriously injured in a two-car crash at a street intersection. The intersection is a four corner traffic stop, and both drivers claimed they stopped.

"If the light had been operating we could fix responsibility" Amberson declared. "As it is we don't know whom to prosecute."

Hollywood Police Raid Alleged Indecent Show And Arrest Cast

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8.—Nance O'Neil, stage star, and 46 other members of the cast of "Lysistrata," a daring Greek comedy, were arrested early today by the Los Angeles vice squad and booked on charges of giving lewd and indecent performances at the Carthay Circle theatre.

Bond of $100 each was being arranged for Miss O'Neil and the other members of the cast, principally women, who were arrested.

"It's outrageous," declared Miss O'Neil as the vice squad raided the theatre.
